Medicare Cards Are New—So Is This Scam to Steal Your Identity

By Rob McCarthy

Medicare cards designed to prevent fraud and identity theft are being mailed to eligible South Bay residents, and seniors should be aware of a scam arising from the distribution of these new cards.

The Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office issued a warning and advised seniors to be careful about sharing their personal information with anyone claiming to be a healthcare provider either in person at their door or over the phone.

The Medicare card fraudsters will call seniors and tell them they must provide their Social Security number or other personal information, or make a payment to receive or activate their new Medicare cards. That simply isn't true, according to the DA's office.

Medicare enrollees should receive their new cards automatically from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services. The agency began mailing the new cards, which no longer include Social Security numbers, in April and will continue through April 2019, officials said.

Tips for protecting personal identity and Medicare benefits include:

- Don't share your Social Security number, personal information or Medicare number except with legitimate health care and insurance professionals with whom you initiated contact.
- Don't make any payments to receive or activate your Medicare card.
- If you receive a suspicious call, hang up and call 1-800-MEDICARE for any questions about your benefits status.

Medical identity theft occurs when someone steals or uses your personal information, says the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services. Obtaining an insured person's name, Social Security or Medicare number allows thieves to submit fraudulent claims to Medicare and other health insurers.

"Medical identity theft can disrupt your medical care, and wastes taxpayer dollars," the federal health insurer for older Americans says on its website. Medicare will mail new identification cards to its 55 million beneficiaries, the federal government said.

The new Medicare ID cards have only one purpose: to help prevent identity theft. The number on the current Medicare ID card is the person's Social Security number. This is used too by the Social Security Administration, healthcare providers and health plans.

"In the hands of an unscrupulous person, a Social Security number can open the door to all kinds of mischief and misuse," explains an article on the website Next Avenue. Retired PBS news anchor Bill Moyers is behind the Next Avenue site, which addresses health, financial and social issues affecting Americans 55 and older.

The CMS is replacing the old Medicare numbers - a do-over for seniors and recipients who've been targeted before by identify thieves. "Once bitten, twice shy" is the warning coming from the area's top cop and government officials trying to manage Medicare costs and premiums by limiting fraud in the system.

The new cards will be distributed to Medicare beneficiaries and to people who are eligible for Medicare through the Railroad Retirement Board's pension plans. There is one important exception: People who are enrolled in a Medicare Advantage plan (like an HMO or PPO) will continue to use the plan's ID card as their main card for Medicare. Those cards already have a unique ID number that is not the Social Security number. Also, Medicare prescription drug plans will continue to assign and use their own cards.

Each new number will have 11 digits and will be assigned randomly. The new numbers are "non-intelligent," which means that they don't have any hidden or special meaning. They will be a combination of single-digit numbers and upper-case (capital) letters. All the letters of the alphabet will be used, except S, L, O, I, B and Z, to make the combination easier to read -- if not to remember.

The new cards will be printed on regular-weight paper and will be a little smaller than the old ones -- about the size of a credit card. Another change: the new cards do not indicate gender.

A 2015 report prepared for the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services estimated that $60 billion of American taxpayer money,

American Animals: Achieve Greatness, Steal a Masterpiece

By Ryan Rojas for www.cinemacy.com

It's an intrinsically American thing, the feeling of wanting to leave behind some sort of legacy after we're gone. To the impressionable young person, it's a pressure that can drive them to the most extreme of actions. Sure, one can strive to leave behind their own legacy through hard work. But if one were smart enough – or just the friends planning, performing and living with the consequences of their heist. These stylistic touches won't be too surprising if you've seen Layton's previous work, the critically-acclaimed documentary The Imposter, in which the director brought the story of a real-life identity-assuming person to the big screen with cinematic flair.

American Animals, Courtesy of The Orchard

foolish enough – couldn't one also just steal it?

This impressionable young-person-sets-out-to-steal-greatness is the story of American Animals (now available to watch digitally and On Demand), an enthralling and electrifying film that derives its plot from true events. Based on the real-life story of a group of friends who, feeling the monotony and complacency of their small-town Kentucky undergraduate lives, devise a plan to steal some of the rarest artifacts of this country's history. Complete with costumes, makeup and prosthetics, the boys -- Spencer Reinhard (Barry Keoghan), Warren Lipka (Evan Peters), Eric Borsuk (Jared Abrahamson) and Chas Allen (Blake Jenner) -- make American Animals one of the most stylish films to come out this year.

American Animals is a unique viewing experience for the different genres that it brings together, which I was certainly not expecting. It's a devilishly fun heist movie, bringing the most heart-pounding and suspenseful sequences when it needs to do so. But it's clear that Animals writer and director Bart Layton is interested in exploring the psychology of a young person's head -- specifically the question of what would make these misguided and impressionable people go through with a plan like this. Think Ocean's Eleven meets The Social Network.

The stylistic hybrid filmmaking comes into play with Layton's inclusion of interviews from the real-life heisters themselves. As they comment on what was going on in their heads, the film cuts between the narrative of

To this end, American Animals also brings forward larger and more conceptual ideas that concern Layton: authenticity, deception, perception and memory. These themes are all explored with editing and story tricks -- for example, the real-life characters will walk into frame as one of the background actors. Plus, blink-and-you'll-miss-it editing puts the viewer into off-ground, which is a fun place to be in the hands of Layton, who very clearly enjoys throwing the audience off the trail.

If you're looking for a film that will offer some of the most visually and narratively interesting ideas of this year, look no further than American Animals.

116 min. American Animals is rated R for language throughout, some drug use and brief crude/sexual material. Available to rent on Amazon, iTunes, and YouTube Movies.

A Trio of Great Books That Examine Art in Unusual Ways

By Roz Templin, Library Assistant, El Segundo Public Library

Our library acquires truly interesting reading material. I would like to encourage you to browse among our nonfiction books and you may come across mind-blowing items like Odd Is Art, a compendium of artworks ingeniously made from such things as postage stamps, coffee beans, fingernail polish and thousands Laurent's painting Gutenberg, Inventor of the Printing Press and a photograph by Andreas Gursky that illustrates 1 million-square foot Amazon warehouse of books. Quotes about reading are included, which makes leafing through even more enjoyable.

Finally, historian Nell Painter is Old in Art School, as she recounts her experiences in returning to school in her sixties to study art. She finds that not only is there a wide gulf in age between her and her much younger fellow students, but there is a disconnect between her opinions and those of her (younger) art instructors. Nell struggles to let go of her own preconceived ideas and embrace new "deconstructed" views and methods, all the while trying to take care of her aging parents in Oakland, California (she is living on the East Coast). She questions what exactly makes art art? Who of matchsticks. Fantastical photographs adorn the pages with descriptions of methods and a few short essays of featured artists and art. Not all is odd -- some are breathtaking. There is a sculpture made from scavenged driftwood from the coast of Florida, images made by a flat-bed scanner that look exactly like astrophotography, and ceramics that could easily be mistaken for carvings made of wood. Pieces that are wildly creative are pictured in page after page. And there are the odd ones:

counts as a critic? Nell discovers that gallery representation is required if you are counted as "an artist." How do you get your work in a gallery? It must be interesting. What art is "interesting?" It looks like art. Art is what's in galleries. There are laughter, tears, anger

a cityscape made of Jell-O, an Etch-A-Sketch re-creation of the classic Gone with the Wind film poster and The Last Supper made from laundry lint. These works are from the collection of Ripley's Believe It or Not! locations throughout the world.

Nearly 300 artworks are reproduced in Reading Art, all celebrating the image of the reader and books. In the preface, David Trigg notes that the book was once a revered object that was treasured and accessible to only a few (mostly wealthy) people. Books could be works of art in their own right. Now with the advent of technology, we find that books have become part of our "throwaway society" and are sometimes even the raw materials used to transform them into paintings, sculptures and installations. Trigg offers a lengthy essay ("The Art of Reading") preceding the colorful plates and there are expanded descriptions of particular artists and works like Jean-Antoine and frustration as she recounts her pursuit of an MFA in painting.

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy Named Norb Huber

Florida: 1,417. So, put all the other Hawthornes together and they don't come close to Hawthorne, Cali. I recall that when we had the dog shooting protests of several years back, some of our fellow Hawthorne cities were receiving hundreds of emails and phone messages that were intended

9-11 REMEMBRANCE

Next Tuesday is the day in American history that will forever live in the heart and minds of those of us who lived through that day of horror 17 years ago. I always led the remembrance ceremony at my school each year and wanted to have our young people made aware of what happened and what it all means to us today. Some high school students are too young to remember the tragedy. It's hard to imagine the killing of 3,000 innocent Americans on our own soil. "We shall never forget" has been the slogan used by many to pay tribute to those who died. As the years pass, the burning image of the skyscrapers falling and people jumping from windows tends to get blurred. Like Pearl Harbor, the 9-11 attacks really challenged us to think and treasure even more our freedom and security that we enjoy here in our country. With all of our diversity and disagreement, we still can come together and stand united as one people determined to preserve peace and tranquility. If everyone in the entire world would just relax and have a cold one, all of this terrorism crap would end. I can't buy everyone a cold one, but you and I can start by showing compassion with random acts of cold ones. Or we could pay it forward while buying others cold ones. If I have convinced one soul to relax by having a cold one, I feel that I have accomplished my goal of changing my little world. All it takes is one person and one cold one and you never really know what impact it will have on life as we know it. It makes me feel so gratified that I can go to sleep each week knowing that cold ones have made a difference. Enjoy life, have a . . .

HAWTHORNE THE CITY

I mentioned Hawthorne is a common name for a street last week, so one of my loyal readers reminded me that there are several states that have Hawthorne cities. We all know about Hawthorne, Nevada but did you know about Hawthorne, New Jersey or Hawthorne, Florida or Hawthorne, New York? The City of Good Neighbors is by far the largest in population of all the Hawthornes in the USA. We have about 87,000 people living in 5.5 square miles. Here are the other populations at the 2010 census: Nevada: 3,269, New Jersey: 18,791, New York: 4,586, and for our city communications center. There is just no Hawthorne like Hawthorne, CA. The city has always been and always will be uniquely different. There is no place like it.

PRAYERS

It has come to my attention that two special Hawthornites need our prayers at this time. Mr. Bill Meyers, who has been active in civic activities with the City of Hawthorne and with the Ramona Neighborhood Association is going through some serious health issues. We pray for his recovery and for the doctors who attend to him. Also, our Hawthorne Kiwanis Club is in shock that long time club secretary, Sheri Skaff was involved in a major car accident and is in critical condition with head injuries and many broken bones. She has been the glue that kept the Kiwanis Club together and running so smoothly for so many years. We pray that she might make it through this trauma and regain her health. As long as we are praying, we always keep our Hawthorne Police Department personnel in our prayers as they go out into dangerous situations daily. Hawthorne is so fortunate to have such a great department protecting us each and every day.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

The smoke from the NorCal fires has been decreasing and Cal Fire seems to have most of the large fires under control right now. Football is here. High school and college started already, now the NFL kicks off. The city election is coming up in November. Time for some fliers to be appearing in your mailbox and for some recorded phone messages on your house phone that you never pick up any longer now that everyone and their grandma has a cell phone. Youth soccer has begun. My two grandkids have their first games this Saturday. AYSO starts up with opening day over in the Glen. Thank you all for reading. The spiritual word for this week is: Perseverance. Galatians 6:9 says, "Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up." Hang in there folks, keep on doing good.

or more than 10 percent of Medicare's total budget, was lost to fraud, waste, abuse and improper payments four years ago.

An attempt by someone to steal your identify isn't always obvious, so officials offer some defensive tactics that seniors and healthcare consumers can take so they don't become victims.

They start with the advice to just walk away if someone approaches you in parking lots, shopping centers or other public areas and offers you free services, groceries, transportation or other items in exchange for your Medicare number.

When the phone rings, simply hang up if someone calls you claiming to be conducting a health survey and asks for your Medicare number.

Under no circumstances should you give information to telephone marketers who pretend to be from Medicare or Social Security and ask for payment over the phone or Internet. They may want to steal your money. The Los Angeles County District Attorney publishes regular announcements about fraud schemes and tips for holding onto your money and identify.

Looking Up

Spooky Action at a Distance?

Based on a Press Release from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Provided by Bob Eklund

Last year, physicists at MIT, the University of Vienna, and elsewhere provided strong support for quantum entanglement, the seemingly far-out idea that two particles, no matter how distant from each other in space and time, can be inextricably linked, in a way that defies the rules of classical physics.

Take, for instance, two particles sitting on opposite edges of the universe. If they are truly entangled, then according to the theory of quantum mechanics their physical properties should be related in such a way that any measurement made on one particle should instantly convey information about any future measurement outcome of the other particle—correlations that Einstein skeptically saw as “spooky action at a distance.”

In the 1960s, the physicist John Bell calculated a theoretical limit beyond which such correlations must have a quantum, rather than a classical, explanation.

But what if such correlations were the result not of quantum entanglement, but of some other hidden, classical explanation? Such “what-ifs” are known to physicists as loopholes to tests of Bell’s inequality, the most stubborn of which is the “freedom-of-choice” loophole: the possibility that some hidden, classical variable may influence the measurement that an experimenter chooses to perform on an entangled particle, making the outcome look quantumly correlated when in fact it isn’t.

On Jan. 11, 2018, in a new experiment to test quantum entanglement, MIT’s David Kaiser and other team members pairs of entangled photons and beamed particles from each pair in opposite directions toward each telescope.

In the fraction of a second before each entangled photon reached its detector,

The quasar dates back to less than one billion years after the big bang. Image: NASA/ESA/G. Bacon, STSc gathered on a mountaintop in the Canary Islands and began collecting data from two large, 4-meter-wide telescopes: the William Herschel Telescope and the Telescopio Nazionale Galileo, both situated on the same mountain and separated by about a kilometer.

One telescope focused on a particular quasar, while the other telescope looked at another quasar in a different patch of the night sky. Meanwhile, researchers at a station located between the two telescopes created the instrumentation determined whether a single photon arriving from the quasar was more red or blue, a measurement that then automatically adjusted the angle of a polarizer that ultimately received and detected the incoming entangled photon.

“The timing is very tricky,” Kaiser says. “Everything has to happen within very tight windows, updating every microsecond or so.”

The researchers ran their experiment twice, each for around 15 minutes and with two different pairs of quasars. For each run, they measured 17,663 and 12,420 pairs of entangled photons, respectively. Within hours of closing the telescope domes and looking through preliminary data, the team could tell there were strong correlations among the photon pairs, indicating that the photons were correlated in a quantum-mechanical manner.

The team performed a more detailed analysis to calculate the chance, however slight, that a classical mechanism might have produced the correlations the team observed.

They calculated that, for the best of the two runs, the probability that a mechanism based on classical physics could have achieved the observed correlation was about 10 to the minus 20—that is, about one part in one hundred billion billion—outrageously small.

Sorry, Professor Einstein—it looks like “spooky action at a distance” is proving to be a reality. •

5 Insider Tips To Plan An Unforgettable African Vacation

(BPT) - When you get lost in wanderlust, do you find yourself dreaming of Africa? This exotic continent is on many people's travel bucket lists, but planning a trip can be intimidating. If you are ready to stop dreaming and start planning an unforgettable African adventure, here are some simple tips to help you get the most out of your trip.

When deciding where to go and what to do, consult online resources and guidebooks to get a sense for what interests you most. For example, many African safari destinations have the Big Five - lions, elephants, rhino, leopard and buffalo - but more rare species like the endangered mountain gorilla are only found in a few countries, including Uganda. Uganda also offers some of the most diverse cultural experiences on the African continent, drawing visitors from around the world.

With 10 distinct national parks, Uganda gives you the chance to explore myriad landscapes and natural habitats, each with its own impressive characteristics and wild inhabitants. Most people only have time to visit three or four parks in Uganda, so it's important to get a feel for which one may be right for you. Book a boat safari on the Nile in Murchison Falls National Park, or head out on a game drive in Kidepo Valley National Park to see elephants, giraffes, lions and more with your own two eyes. Learn more about these and other unique Ugandan experiences at www.visituganda.com.

When you start your research, you'll quickly find there are countless things to see and do. That's why it's important to create a bucket list for your trip. Once you know the things you don't want to leave without accomplishing, you can start putting together an itinerary.

Especially if you're traveling to a foreign country for the first time, a travel expert can provide customized insight you won't find by doing it solo. Plus, they can help craft the ideal itinerary by suggesting activities or VIP services you may not know about.

For example, maybe kayaking Uganda's Lake Bunyonyi wasn't on your radar. Travel agents and tour operators can tell you why it should be. Want to upgrade your gorilla tracking experience? Travel professionals can arrange educational sessions with organizations like the Gorilla Doctors and their jungle veterinarians. They can help you book a rafting trip on the White Nile in Jinja, Uganda's adventure capital, or arrange a visit to Ziwa Rhino Sanctuary. All these activities and more are made easier when you consult a trusted travel professional.

From the snow-capped peaks of the Rwenzori Mountains to the savannah of Queen Elizabeth National Park and the lush banks of the Nile, Uganda's beautiful landscapes differ dramatically throughout the country. Wildlife flourishes, but there is so much more to explore than Mother Nature's delights.

To make your trip feel complete, incorporate cultural activities into your itinerary. For example, hike to the top of a mountain near Kidepo Valley National Park and visit the Ik people, a centuries-old community maintaining their traditional way of life. Another opportunity is the Batwa Experience where you can explore Uganda's forest with its original inhabitants. Finally, don't forget to spend a day in the capital city of Kampala, to see what modern life is like for the people of Uganda.

An African safari is unlike any travel experience you'll ever have. From mind-blowing wildlife encounters to outdoor adventures and immersive cultural experiences, Uganda has plenty to offer every type of travel personality. •

Changing Addresses? 10 Tips For Busy Baby Boomers

(BPT) - For many Americans, moving households represents a fresh start and a chance to improve quality of life. Last year, some 39.4 million Americans changed residences, thanks in part to better affordability in the housing market.

That doesn't mean, however, that everyone's moving process was friction-free. The logistical coordination and the physical work involved with DIY packing and loading can be a major chore in the best of circumstances. And that's doubly true for baby boomers who are downsizing or moving to new communities, yet challenged by the physically grueling aspects of a DIY move.

Fortunately, forming a plan that troubleshoots the most common challenges can help enormously. Consider how these tips could keep your next move smooth and free of unnecessary stress.

1. Protect your treasures: Avoid the heartbreak of damaged belongings by stocking up on bubble wrap and other efficient packing materials. You also could optimize household items such as towels, blankets and coats.

2. Stagger your packing: Pack too early and you may need items you've stashed away; pack too late and you may be crunched for time. Start with non-essentials and out-of-season belongings a few weeks before moving day, sorting discards as you go. Save necessities for the last 48 hours.

3. Label, label, label: This may seem unnecessary while you're packing, but will save you time and frustration upon arrival when you're desperately looking for your essentials. It also allows you to immediately sort boxes by room and store items that are infrequently needed.

4. Secure transportation early: Instead of procrastinating and missing out on the truck you need, hop on your smartphone at least two weeks ahead to easily reserve a vehicle at PenskeTruckRental.com.

5. Right-size your truck: Rather than guessing what size moving vehicle you'll need, plan on about 150 cubic feet of truck space for each fully furnished room in your home. That means a move from an apartment might necessitate a 12-foot truck offering 450 cubic feet, while a move from a house might require a 26-foot truck offering 1,400 feet.

6. Recruit help: The packing and transporting may sound easy until you try to do it all yourself. This is the time to call in favors or perhaps pay some teens to help with the lifting and hauling.

7. Pack your truck strategically: Optimize your space by positioning your furniture and other large, heavy items in the back of your vehicle before proceeding with lighter items. That optimizes the vehicle's power and allows you to fit smaller items into smaller spaces.

8. Follow ergonomics: The last thing you need is to injure your back through haphazard movement during the loading process. Stretch beforehand, avoid twisting your torso as you load and remember to lift with your legs by crouching rather than bending from the waist.

9. Strategize your route: Map out the way ahead of time, review weather forecasts, avoid rush hour and leave yourself plenty of time for breaks, refueling and unloading.

10. Drive like a pro: Many people are unfamiliar with the difference between driving a car and a big truck. Read all instructions provided and understand how to drive differently to remain safe (and legal).

Regardless of your age, a DIY moving process can be efficient and pain-free when you organize the details ahead of time. Talk to Penske Truck Rental for more suggestions on making that happen. •

CASE NO. 18STPB07378

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Jo Woong Yoon

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Ji Young Linda Yoon in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Ji Young Linda Yoon be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court. THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with full authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval.

Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on September 7, 2018 at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 2D located at 111 N. HILL ST. LOS ANGELES CA 90012 Stanley Mosk Courthouse Probate. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice (DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Petitioner In Pro Per: Ji Young Linda Yoon 527 Molino St Unit 103 Los Angeles, CA 90013, Telephone: 3104303091

ORDINANCE NO. 2152 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HAWTHORNE, CALIFORNIA, ADDING A NEW CHAPTER 8.21 (COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT CENTER CLEANING SCHEDULES) TO TITLE 8 (HEALTH AND SAFETY) OF THE HAWTHORNE MUNICIPAL CODE, REQUIRING CLEANING SCHEDULES FOR COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT CENTERS, AND ADOPTING FINDINGS RELATED THERETO

WHEREAS, the City of Hawthorne has numerous shopping centers that have recently experienced a decline in sanitation and cleanliness, including, but not limited to, the accumulation of trash and debris in common areas and parking lots; and

WHEREAS, the decline in sanitation and cleanliness in these shopping centers (commercial development centers) has created an unsightly and unwelcoming appearance for residents and visitors, which deters additional patronage, is detrimental to property values in the area and encourages acts of vandalism and littering; and

WHEREAS, Section 7 of Article XI of the California Constitution provides that a city may make and enforce within its limits all local police, sanitary and other ordinances and regulations not in conflict with general laws; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to its police powers, the City of Hawthorne has the authority to enact regulations for the public peace, morals and general welfare of the City;

WHEREAS, City Council has determined that a lack of sanitation and cleanliness at commercial development centers is hazardous and injurious to the public health, safety and the general welfare and that regulations related to maintenance, and specifically, regulations that require a cleaning schedule for commercial development centers will enhance habitability, occupancy, use and safety of these properties; and

WHEREAS, City Council wishes to adopt this Ordinance in order to preserve the public peace, safety and the general welfare of the City of Hawthorne.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HAWTHORNE DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. CEQA. The City Council has determined, based on its independent judgment and analysis, that the adoption of this ordinance is not a project for purposes of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) in that it is a general policy and procedure for maintenance of the private property, and even if it were a project, it would be categorically exempt from CEQA pursuant to Section 15061(b)(3) in that it can be seen with certainty that the proposed ordinance does not have the potential to significantly impact the environment. The action is also categorically exempt under section 15308 (actions taken to ensure the maintenance, restoration or protection of the environment).

SECTION 2. Language. A new Chapter 8.21 of Title 8 (Administration, Civil Service and Personnel) of the Hawthorne Municipal Code ("HMC") is hereby added as follows: CHAPTER 8.21 COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT CENTER CLEANING SCHEDULES 8.21.010 Purpose.

The purpose of this Chapter is to ensure that commercial development centers are consistently maintained in a clean, sanitary and aesthetically-pleasing manner in order to preserve property values, deter criminal activity, and encourage patronage.

8.21.020 Definitions.

"Cleaning schedule" shall mean a task sheet which lists cleaning tasks to be accomplished on a regular, fixed schedule upon all areas of the commercial development, including, but not limited to, common areas and parking lots. "Commercial development center" shall mean and include shopping centers, strip malls, mixed use projects, or any other collection of commercial spaces that share parking, or access, or have reciprocal easements for parking or vehicular access, whether under a common ownership or divided into multiple ownerships. "Owner(s)" shall mean and include any person having legal title to, or who leases, rents, occupies or has charge, control of possession of, any real property in the city, including all persons shown as owners on the last equalized assessment roll of the Los Angeles County assessor's office. "Owners" includes powers of attorney, executors or estates, trustees, or who are court appointed administrators, conservators, guardians or receivers.

8.21.030 Requirement.

A. Owners of commercial development centers shall be required to create and maintain a written cleaning schedule for the property, including, but not limited to parking lots, and which shall be available for inspection at all times by the City. B. The cleaning schedule shall include, but not be limited to, a regular and fixed schedule for the following: high pressure cleaning, graffiti removal, building facade cleaning, stairway or elevator cleaning, external landscaping maintenance and litter removal. High pressure cleaning (or power washing) shall be scheduled no less than once every 7 calendar days. Litter removal shall be scheduled once every 24 hours, including weekends.

C. All cleaning schedules shall contain the name and phone number of the owner or other person responsible for adherence to the cleaning schedule.

D. Cleaning schedules shall be posted in at least three (3) locations on the commercial development center by the owner and shall be distributed to all tenants.

8.21.040 Enforcement.

Violation of any of the provisions of this Chapter may be enforced pursuant to Chapter 1.20 of the Hawthorne Municipal Code.

8.21.050 Duration of Ordinance.

This Ordinance shall be deemed automatically repealed six months from its effective date.

SECTION 3. Severability. The provisions of this Ordinance are severable. If any provision of Chapter 8.21 or its application is held invalid, that invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application. The provisions of Chapter 8.21 are hereby declared to be severable. If any provision, clause, word, sentence or paragraph of Chapter 8.21, or the application thereof to any person, establishment, or circumstances shall be held invalid, such invalidity shall not result in the invalidity of the entire chapter which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application. The City Council of the City of Hawthorne hereby declares that it would have adopted this ordinance irrespective of the invalidity of any particular portion thereof.

SECTION 4. City Clerk. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage and adoption of this ordinance or a summary thereof, pursuant to State law, and shall cause this ordinance to be published within fifteen days after its passage, in accordance with Section 36933 of the Government Code.

SECTION 5. Effective Date. This ordinance shall take effect thirty (30) days after passage thereof.

PASSED, APPROVED AND ADOPTED this 28th day of August, 2018.

ALEX VARGAS, Mayor
City of Hawthorne, California

ATTEST:
MONICA DICRISCI, Acting City Clerk
City of Hawthorne, California

APPROVED AS TO FORM
RUSSELL I. MIYAHIRA, City Attorney
City of Hawthorne, California

I, Monica Dicrisci, the duly appointed Deputy City Clerk of the City of Hawthorne, California, DO HEREBY CERTIFY that the foregoing Ordinance, No. 2160 was duly adopted by the City Council of the City of Hawthorne, at their regular meeting of the City Council held August 28, 2018 and that it was adopted by the following vote, to wit:

AYES: Councilmembers Awad, Reyes English, Micheln, Valentine, Mayor Vargas.
NOES: None.

Precious Pooches

We are looking for volunteers to help with our pet adoption fairs which are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Hwy., Redondo Beach 90277, from noon to 3:30 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering and can commit to at least one Saturday a month, please contact us at info@msfr.org. You can also visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at the adoption fair or check out our website, www.msfr.org. If you have any questions about a particular dog's availability, you can email us at info@msfr.org. Schnauzers! But you can't adopt just one.

"They call me Brady, which is of Scottish-

Brady

Gaelic origin and defines as 'spirited.' And that I am. I'm a 1-year-old, male Border Terrier mix – well, that's what we think I am. My face looks a wee bit like a Mini Wheaten Terrier...but at 11 pounds, I'm far too small for that breed. So the most popular guess is that I am a Border Terrier mix. One afternoon, I ventured out on my own to try and expand my social life and ended up losing my way home. That's how I became a resident at an LA County shelter as a stray.

Dale

At first I wasn't too worried because I had an adopter and another interested party as a back-up. When both of them failed to appear, then I got worried. Thankfully the MSFR folks decided to rescue me – they said I was just too cute to leave behind. In addition to a sweet, expressive face with big dark eyes, I have a very soft fur coat (which doesn't shed much) and a full natural tail that wags constantly. I get along great with other dogs and love to play."

If you're interested in Brady, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

"Hi there! My name is Snickers, and if I were to guess, I would say I was named that because of my brown and brindle coloring. When I was found wandering the streets, my owner was contacted but never returned the calls or even tried to find me. I'm a 6-year-old, 28-pound male Terrier mix who would rather be a "couch potato" than play with toys. However, I do enjoy a good walk in the mornings and evenings. I'm a pretty social guy who gets along well with other dogs, cats and especially people. The lady that cares for me thinks I'm pretty smart because I am easily adjusting to crate training and housebreaking. Not quite there, but I'm working on it! Since I am not the least bit destructive, once I'm completely housebroken, I'll be fine with total access to the house. To top it off, I'm a great watchdog – I bark at strangers when they come to the door, so I'll be able to keep you safe."

If you're interested in Snickers, please contact Deborah at dlarvine@gmail.com.

"My name is Dale and I'm still waiting for my forever home. My brother Chip has found his, so I guess mine is just around the corner. Speaking of corners, that is how I ended up at an LA County shelter. Being an adventurous guy, I wanted to do some investigating in our neighborhood. That adventure started out fine, but then I got turned around and couldn't find my way home. The next thing I knew, both of us were in an LA County shelter and being called strays. I've been told that I'm a Miniature Schnauzer mix, but no one can figure out what the mix is. With my natural tail and beautiful salt and pepper coat, I look just like any other extremely handsome 1-year-old, 18-pound, male Miniature Schnauzer. I admit that I need some work on obedience training as well as a little Housebreaking 101 but I'm pretty confident that I'll exceed at both in no time. I get along great with dogs and am a pretty playful guy. While I would have been ecstatic to have been adopted with my brother...that was not to be. That said, I must find a home that has a doggie pal to keep me company and show me the ropes."

If you're interested in Dale, please email info@msfr.org for more information. •
