Northrop Grumman Foundation Supports Cousteau's EarthEcho Expedition

This year, thanks to support from the Northrop Grumman Foundation, EarthEcho will, for the first time, include U.S. based middle school teachers in an exploration of water scarcity in Southern California alongside Philippe Cousteau, Jr. and the EarthEcho Expeditions team. Since 2013, EarthEcho Expeditions have leveraged the rich Cousteau legacy of exploration and discovery to bring science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education alive for today's 21st Century learners and their educators. Wiseburn School Board Meets Prior to Opening Day on Campuses

By Duane Plank

Last Wednesday's meeting of the Wiseburn School Board was bereft of special presentations---which is standard for the final meeting prior to start-up of a new school year. The first day of classes kicked off this week on Wednesday morning.

As the construction continues at the new high school facility on Douglas Street, Wiseburn Unified School District Superintendent Tom Johnstone, who will be retiring at the end of the school year, said, "If we maintain urgency, if we get in before the end of October, it isn't that big of a deal." Johnstone said he was "pushing more" to have the students inhabit the new site at the end of September, but added, "I don't think that is going to happen."

Johnstone noted two key areas at the construction site that must be completed. "One of them is the atrium," he said. He mentioned welding issues that still needed to be dialed in, as well as the "cement treatment to the parking lot." Johnstone said that there were ongoing negotiations with the company scheduled to work on the parking lot treatment, noting that the contractor had initially proposed a square-foot cement treatment bid that was, in Johnstone's opinion, out of line. Negotiations are ongoing, he said.

The Superintendent said that most of the challenges at the construction site had been resolved, but "when you have that many workers in the building," coordination between all the working parts becomes challenging. He added that the couple-month delay will be worth the wait and that when the students, faculty and administrators do relocate to

Douglas Street, they will be "moving into a world-class high school that looks more like a college."

During his comments Wednesday night, Johnstone lauded Aileen Harbeck, Director of Ed Services, one of the administrators who has been working with the two new District principals to get them "up-to-speed" in preparation for the new school year. Johnstone praised Harbeck, saying that both new principals would be able to start the year "at full speed, in terms of the operations, curriculum-wise."

One of the two new elementary school principals, Lisa Baggio, taking over at Juan Cabrillo, said, "I am both honored and excited to begin the school year this Wednesday. It has been a busy two weeks that consisted of meeting with staff, completing kindergarten orientation and enrolling students into classes. I have enjoyed every moment of it. I cannot wait to meet the students and families." Kim Jones is the other new elementary school principal, beginning her tenure this week at Peter Burnett Elementary.

Upcoming District events include Thursday's welcome back barbecue. The first two days that the students headed to the classroom, what are termed "super-minimum days," resulted in them being dismissed at 11:45, with the teachers and support personnel gearing up for the next nine months of instruction.

The 60-minute meeting, gaveled in by Board President Israel Mora, also included approval of multiple change orders for the new construction project. Board member report comments included Vice President

JoAnne Kaneda commenting on how well the District maintenance field projects were progressing during the ramp-up to the first day of school. Also mentioned was the fact that the Galaxy youth soccer club team had seemingly taken over "all of the fields" in Wiseburn in the last couple of months. The Galaxy club soccer program had recently had their field time limited in the neighboring city of El Segundo because of concerns raised by the El Segundo-based Strikers club about field usage and residency requirements to use the limited field space in these South Bay communities.

Kaneda addressed the apparently new surge in field usage by the Galaxy group. "How does this happen, that nobody in this room knows about this?" she asked. Mora said, "Somebody needs to find out about this--let's research this." Field usage is an issue that tends to arise with limited space available in most South Bay cities.

Mora, in his comments, warned about traffic issues that will arise during the first week of school, as campuses that have been basically uninhabited for the past 75 or so days spring back to a beehive of activity. He also opined on the high school construction, saying that while it was "sad that it will be delayed, at the same time we want a nice, perfect finished product. It's a beautiful building."

Deputy Superintendent Chris Jones also made his comments, including that he was working closely with the new principals on their budgets, and that he was closing the

Understanding The Link Between Salt And Health

(BPT) - The news lately is full of articles about salt and health. Everyone seems to be getting either too much salt or not enough. So which is it? Part of the problem is with how we study the connection. Fortunately, researchers on both sides of the issue are starting to agree on how best to proceed and may soon have a better answer for all of us. That answer may be that for most of us, there is no need to eat less salt than we do now.

but it can also place stress on other parts of your body, and that can increase the risk of bad outcomes like diabetes.

The European Heart Journal recently published a report by researchers from the World Heart Federation, the European Society of Hypertension and the European Public Health Association that clarified that eating more than 5 grams of sodium per day increases the risk of heart disease, but there was little evidence that eating less than 2 grams per day had any health benefits. They recommended a safe range of between 3 and 5 grams of daily sodium. The good news is that the average American eats about 3.4 grams of sodium per day, an amount that has stayed the same for the last 50 years.

Another way research into salt and health is being improved is in the way the results are collected. In the past, people whose salt levels were being studied provided only one urine sample, but your salt levels vary throughout the day and from day to day.

A much more accurate way to study salt in people is to collect multiple urine samples over many days, not an easy task, but one that the researchers recognized produces much more accurate results. Fortunately, there is a captive group of people that scientists are studying to measure their salt intake exactly: Russian cosmonauts living in a closed environment as part of the "Mars" project. This research is already yielding some surprising results, such as more salt makes you less thirsty.

Of course more research is needed, but also better research. In the past, many studies only looked at the effect of salt on blood pressure. Today more doctors and scientists are looking at the effect salt has on your total health. The researchers agreed that your overall diet is more important to your health than a single nutrient. It's true that a low-salt diet can lower your blood pressure slightly,

Everyone agrees that we need salt to live and that it is an essential nutrient, but getting the right amount is important. The fact is that a small percentage of people are salt sensitive and are affected by salt more than others. These individuals may benefit from less salt, but the rest of us may be put at risk from that same low-salt diet. Every person has different health needs and should follow the advice of their doctor. Placing the entire country on a low-salt diet, as some have suggested, may do more harm than good. •

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

HERE WE GO!

If you have children then you know that school has started for your young ones. Labor Day used to be the end of summer vacation for families planning one last getaway before the daily school routines began. I started teaching this week. Every September for the past 40 years I have headed back to the classroom. The first day of classes is always exciting. Most kids are actually ready to come back. They get bored staying at home. They get to see their old friends. School is a great equalizer. Every child must attend. Regardless of your background or how much money your parents make, all must be enrolled in some type of schooling. I see the diversity. I see each student as a unique individual. A public school teacher really is carrying out what America stands for. Our country wants our people to be educated. We want to give people opportunities. We want to move forward with advances in technology and commerce. I really believe that every student has the chance to make something out of his or her life. There may be hurdles but there aren't any unsurmountable roadblocks to success. NOW, the biggest challenge I have is to motivate and convince my students that they can do it and that it is worth the effort to work hard to reach their goals. It's not easy work to get students to see their future. After a day of trying to motivate, teach, direct, communicate, and love the kids who don't really give a darn, I may need a cold one.

REMOVE ALL THE BAD FROM HISTORY AND WE LOSE

Statues are being removed, names of schools are being changed, and even mascot names are being questioned as to whether they have a negative impact on this generation of young people. There is a movement afoot to get rid of every bad that has been done in our nation's history. I thought that the study of our mistakes was a good thing. I thought we learned from them to never allow them to be committed again. If we erase all of the bad guys and all of their bad deeds from our history books, how can the next generation learn not to be bad? I like this quote from George Orwell: "The most effective way to destroy people is to deny and obliterate their own understanding of their history." Another one of George's quotes is: "Who controls the past controls the future; who controls the present controls the past" What the author is saying is that history is malleable. It is possible to shape it via education, indoctrination, and propaganda. A people's history is their guide, their reference point. Take it away, and they are fumbling in the dark, susceptible to other agendas and ideologies. That, according to the author, is a sure way to control (or destroy) them. Again, I look to God's Word for my source of strength. The Bible is full of history. God's relationship with his people teaches us to depend on Him alone. There were a lot bad people written about in the Bible. Sin is in the world. We all are sinful. It's actually good to remember our sins, our bad deeds, and turn to God for forgiveness. Our memory, our history is good for us. Our past is our past. We can't go back and rewrite it. We move on. Each day God gives us an opportunity to write some more good memories.

Purrrfect Companions

We have kitties of every size and color. One is sure to be your perfect match. Look at this week's picks and check out their friends at www.kittenrescue.org.

Cowboy is wacky young boy with very short, shiny, soft, black fur who along with his sister Sammy was rescued at three weeks old from the shelter. Shelters routinely euthanize unweaned kittens if a rescue group is unable to take them. Cowboy was a healthy kitten and thrived on his bottle. Even though he was weaned from his bottle at six weeks old, he still likes to nurse on his foster mom's hand. This super-playful kitten is full of energy and loves to race around playing chase with the other cats or his sister, or just bat his toys around. He will carry his toys around in his mouth and will even reach out with a paw to push any other cat away from his toys if they try to take them. Cowboy needs to be adopted with his sister Sammy. They are very bonded and became the very best of friends when the other kittens from the litter went to a different foster home. Many bottle babies just want to be together and are the most amazing pets.

Sammy is a very pretty little Siamese mix kitten with white mittens on all four feet and a little white spot next to her nose. She and her brother Cowboy are bottle babies and were saved from certain death at three weeks old from the shelter. Sammy is a sweet girl who loves to cuddle and nurse on her foster mom's hand when she's not busy racing through the house with her brother. Sammy and Cowboy are two peas in a pod--super-loving and very bonded to each other, so they will need to stay together. Sammy likes to climb the cat tree and carry her toys around in her mouth. She will even give Cowboy a smack if he tries to get her toy. Sammy has a very energetic personality and is on the go off and on throughout the day. When it's sleepy time, she finds a soft place to curl up and recharges for the next round of play. She does need to stay with her brother Cowboy because after losing her other siblings to another foster home, she and Cowboy bonded and became inseparable.

Sammy

Chester is a very joyful kitten and is as curious as they come. He loves to play with any kitty toy in sight. He has a very slight purr that is constant whether he is waking up, eating or playing. Chester is a rambunctious eater. The only time you'll hear him is around meal time. He also loves to groom himself as he is sunbathing. Chester can easily keep himself entertained as long as there are plenty toys around. His favorite toy is the Go Cat mouse wand. Hang it from a cat tree tower and he's constantly after it. His second favorite toy is the Bergan Turbo Cat Scratcher. It makes him spin right-round. Chester will be a great addition to your home, with or without additional critters.

Phoenix and his sibling were found on the street when they were newborns. Unfortunately Phoenix's sibling died, which is not uncommon for newborns with no mama cat. Phoenix currently lives in a foster home with several other kittens, knows his cat manners, snuggles and loves his foster sisters and brothers. He gets along well with adult cats and small dogs, and is super-affectionate with people. Sometimes he purrs if you just look at him! Because he is so young, he needs to be adopted with another kitten or be in a home with another playful cat.

Beamish is a truly wonderful kitty. He's a big, handsome, brown and white tabby. He loves to play with his toys! His favorites are his tunnel and turbo scratcher. Beam also loves to play with his kitty friends. He is a very funny kitty and sometimes likes to sleep on his back with his legs up in the air. He also likes to snuggle in bed and purr like a locomotive. He'll come when you call him and "Beam"! He also makes an adorable chirping sound. Beamish needs a little extra care with Miralax twice a day. His foster mom puts it his food in the morning and evening and Beamish thinks it's a treat!

Simba

Simba is a very adorable and playful little guy. At first his foster parent was going to name him Hallmark because he looks like he jumped right from a greeting card. He has the softest fur of any kitten ever. Simba purrs and makes biscuits continually. It's pretty hard to put him down. His first owner moved away, so he came into foster care and now he has a BFF named Jerry. Simba and Jerry are inseparable partners in crime. These are two special boys who adore each other. They play so well with each other, it would be wonderful for them to

Blondie is a very sweet kitten that loves affection and attention. He eagerly greets the new people he meets, hoping to charm them into making their laps available so he can get a belly rub. He loves to cuddle and is able to work his way into the hearts of everyone he meets with his loving personality. Blondie also has a playful side and will run from one corner of a room to the other, chasing a laser pointer and toys dangling from a cat wand. After a day of cuddling and playing, he likes to climb to the top tier of his cat tree and take a long nap. Whoever gives Blondie a forever home will be very lucky to have him join the family because he is one cool kitty! Because he is such a social kitten, he needs to be adopted together with another kitten or into a home with an existing cat.

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations. For additional information and to see these or our other kittens and cats, please check our website www.kittenrescue.org or email us at mail@kittenrescue.org.

Your tax-deductible donations for the rescue and care of our cats and kittens can be made through our website or by sending a check payable to Kitten Rescue, 914 Westwood Boulevard, #583, Los Angeles, CA 90024.

On Saturdays, we have adoptions from noon to 3:30 p.m. in Westchester at 8655 Lincoln Boulevard, just south of Manchester Avenue, and also in Mar Vista at 3860 Centinela Avenue, just south of Venice Boulevard. Our website lists additional adoption sites and directions to each location. • books on the past school year, which he termed a positive campaign for Wiseburn.

Action items quickly addressed and passed by the Board included an agreement to continue a partnership with Loyola Marymount University and the District on the Mathematics Leadership Project, which Johnstone said was a “win-win” situation not only for the District, but for also for the LMU participants.

Prior to the open meeting session, which started a little after 7 p.m., the Board met in closed session with representatives from Balfour Beatty--the construction company charged with building the structure on Douglas Street. Those individuals answered inquiries from Board members about the progress being made as the construction and final touches take place on the property. Suffice to say that all parties are eager to wrap up the construction project, but the key is to make the edifice on Douglas Street safe for all and conducive to implementing prolific 21st Century learning.

Vince Madsen, District point man for the massive construction project, emailed that “based on the current construction activities still on going in and around the school building, I am hopeful that most of them should be completing by the first or second week of September--which will allow District consultants to finalize pre-function testing of all of our building equipment and fire life safety requirements, which could be a few more weeks of activity. We are very hopeful that we can get students and staff moved into the building sometime in October. We still have a lot of little detailed construction items to wrap up between now and then.”

The next regularly scheduled Wiseburn School Board meeting is on the docket for Thursday evening, September 14. •

As we celebrate Labor Day, we honor the men and women who fought tirelessly for workers' rights, which are so critical to our strong and successful labor force.”

Mayweather/McGregor Melee Motivated by Money

By Adam Serrao

At the end of the day, what everyone in the world knew would happen, happened. The boxing match--or circus, if you prefer--between arguably the best boxer of all time and a fighter who had never boxed professionally for a day in his life ended in favor of the former rather than the latter. Floyd “Money” Mayweather, Jr. strategically allowed mixed martial arts star Conor McGregor to come at him early in the fight that took place last Saturday night at the T-Mobile Arena in Las Vegas. By the eighth round, McGregor was gassed. It didn't take long after that for the fight to end by TKO in favor of Mayweather, giving the two fighters what they had sought after all along--the biggest payday in the history of the sport of boxing.

Mayweather knew what he was doing throughout the entirety of the boxing match. That means purposefully letting McGregor waste his punches on him in order to make the fight more compelling and entertaining to the audience--which has been rare in Mayweather fights throughout the years. “I think we gave the fans what they wanted to see,” Mayweather said in the ring after his victory. “I owed them for the Pacquiao fight. I had to come straight ahead and give the fans a show. That's what I gave them.”

Mayweather was never in any jeopardy of losing the fight. He knew that he wouldn't be ever since the rivalry with McGregor was manufactured. Though passionate UFC fans won't like to admit it, even they knew that their star had no chance in a boxing match against one of the greatest to ever live. That--and the exorbitant ticket prices--was the reason why the T-Mobile arena didn't even sell out for the fight. Mayweather, however, was more than happy to end his retirement after two years to collect one final exorbitant paycheck for one hour of controlling what may have been the easiest boxing match of his entire career.

“Our game plan was to take our time, go to him, let him shoot his shots early and then take him out down the stretch,” a calculated Mayweather explained post-fight. Throughout the first three rounds of the match, Mayweather landed a total of nine punches to his opponent. In the 10th and final round alone, Mayweather connected with nine shots to the face of McGregor, forcing the referee to jump between the two and end the fight within the final minute of the round.

The only controversy surfacing from the night was from McGregor and his fans claiming that the referee stepped in to stop the fight too soon. “Let the man put me down,” McGregor stated after the fight with a plastic cup full of whiskey in his hand. “That's fatigue, that's not damage. Where was the final two rounds? Let me walk back to my corner and compose myself.” McGregor is lucky that he got out of the ninth round, let alone the 10th, while still on his feet. Because of his self-proclaimed fatigue, he was unable to defend himself against Mayweather, let alone throw anything slightly resembling a punch back. The referee stepping in “early,” as they do in boxing when someone is getting pummeled, did McGregor a favor. By allowing him to leave the fight while still (wobbling) on his own two feet, the ref not only saved McGregor from the embarrassment that would have surely happened two seconds later of being knocked out cold on the canvas, but also gave the first-time boxer an excuse for what was already an inevitable loss in the ring that night.

Despite the loss, McGregor is poised to quadruple his net worth, which of course was the plan from the outset for an event that could be said to have been more of a contest of promotional antics than anything resembling a professional boxing match. Mayweather, who knew that he would win from the start, will likely be walking away from the match with more than $300 million for his one hour of work. That being said, the fight was at least much more entertaining than Mayweather's previous bout against Manny Pacquiao. And despite McGregor never really having a chance at all, he still lasted 10 entire rounds in the ring with possibly the greatest boxer ever, showed a ton of heart, and landed 30 more punches (111) than Pacquiao (81) did in two fewer rounds. Mayweather out-landed McGregor 130-60 in rounds six through 10 once the former finally decided that it was time to box.

UFC fans are a pretty passionate bunch, there's no doubt about that. And despite how easy it is to hate Mayweather for things he has done out of the ring, this fight has made it easy to appreciate the boxer that he is inside of it because of his fighting IQ. A fighter, who is normally defensive by nature, won the match by attacking and formulating a game plan against a bigger, more aggressive opponent. In the end, the fight concluded in a way that everyone knew it would. Mayweather won, fans were entertained, and the two participants who were completely and solely motivated by money made enough of it to set themselves up for the rest of their collective lives. — Asixlion@earthlink.net •
