Smokey Sunset into the Ocean

El Segundo's ReMax Beach Cities Manager Jim Marak, took this photo for us. He was in downtown Manhattan Beach, just North of Uncle Bills Pancake House, on Highland at sunset with the sun setting into the ocean through the smoke from the huge Glendora Fire. Jim wrote "these are literally photos you can only take about once every 30 years, so, I was prepared and in place to take these photos when the hour and minute was right". Thanks Jim. School Board Hears Positive News from Financial Auditor

By Duane Plank

The only special presentation on the agenda for the second meeting in January for the El Segundo School Board was made by John Whitehouse, who represented the accounting firm of Christy White Associates. Whitehouse highlighted the El Segundo Unified School District (ESUSD) financial audit report for the accounting year ending on June 30, 2013. Like most if not all California school districts, ESUSD had been hit with many challenges over the past five years or so with the downturn in the nationwide and state economies. The audit was positive news to the District, with no negative "findings."

Prior to the meeting, Superintendent Geoff Yantz had emailed his thoughts on the positive financial news. "I commend the staff in the schools and the District office for their teamwork, diligence, and care," he wrote. "The results exemplify the ESUSD's outstanding employees."

With no discussion items on the agenda, the meeting moved briskly along, with consent items including a new internship with the El Segundo-based business Iron Cove Solutions. The internship, which will involve El Segundo High School students, will give the selected candidates the opportunity to work with the professionals at Iron Cove and delve into learning all aspects of the business, which is dedicated to software, hardware and Cloud-based solutions for both small and large companies. The Board also approved a tuition adjustment for the Eagles' Nest preschool, the yearly tour up north for high school students to see college campuses, and the always popular El Segundo Middle School Challenge Days.

The Middle School Challenge Days extravaganza is set for November 4, 5 and

6 and will be offered for seventh and eighth grade students. This will be the fourth rendition of the highly popular, high-energy program in which youth and adult participants are guided through a series of "experiential learning processes." According to District-provided notes, the goal is to "increase personal power and self-esteem, while fostering tolerance and understanding of those different from oneself."

Approximately 40 high school students will embark on the yearly tour of college campuses on April 1. The students will travel by airplane and charter bus and visit the University of Oregon, Oregon State University, Lewis and Clark College, Concordia University, the University of Washington, and Seattle University. The trip, organized through Nationwide College tours, will take the students onto the premises at each of the campuses and allow them to learn a little about campus life, admission requirement procedures and campus academics. The students will not miss any course work because the trip is slated during Spring break. The cost per student is $695.

The tuition adjustment for Eagles' Nest students will range from $230 for two-day a.m. attendees to $780 for five-day, full-time students.

Performing Arts Center Director Passionate About the Theatre

By Nancy Peters

Most local residents are familiar with the iconic El Segundo High School on Main Street, extending from Mariposa Avenue (south) to Oak Avenue (north) and from Main Street (west) to Sheldon Street (east), with its new football stadium and track, baseball fields, and the several structures on the campus that comprise the band room and black-box theatre, the science building, the library and the very recognizable bell tower at the center of it all. The building began construction in 1927, with the first graduating class in 1929, and major building renovations completed in 2005. But those renovations did not include the auditorium.

At the heart of the building is the auditorium, provided with new seats in the late 1990s. After a bond measure was approved by the voting residents in 2011, there was the green light for the latest state-of-the-art improvements. A new sound booth and sound system, a computerized lighting board, a new curtain and fly system on stage, and a video projector system with SurroundSound were all part of the major renovation of the auditorium.

New, more comfortable seats were added. The 830 seats sit on a sloped grade in a staggered configuration so no patron has an obstructed view of the stage. The backstage was completely redone, adding new dressing rooms, offices, storage closets and a second floor to access the fly system.

Obituaries

Birdie A. Durkos September 26, 1918 - January 22, 2014

Born Bertha Anna Mailling in Los Angeles to John and Rose Mailling, but know as Birdie since childhood. She passed away peacefully in her home in El Segundo. She was the second oldest daughter with two sisters and a younger brother.

Birdie had a natural talent for sketching. Her favorite subjects were movie stars, especially Joan Crawford and Clark Gable. But because of shyness and lacking in confidence to show her work, the drawings remained in safe keeping to be shown years later to her children.

Birdie worked in a private home, keeping house and caring for children. There she met the love of her life, George Durkos, who was visiting his friends. Birdie and George were married one year later, November 14, 1941.

Birdie will be remembered for her baking skills and her love of animals. Tim and Diane were the envy of their classmates with fresh baked cookies in their lunch box- every day! And her apple pies were otherworldly.

Besides her two children, Birdie is survived by her sister, Bernice.

Arrangements are through Douglass Mortuary, closed casket visitation, 10-11:00 am on February 4 and burial at noon at Holy Cross Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, please make a donation to the local ASPCA.

On behalf of Birdie, her family would like to acknowledge her caregiver, Evelyn Montemayor. We were blessed beyond compare to have a wonderful and loving companion/caregiver for our mother the last two years of her life.

George's parents were one of the first pioneer families to settle in El Segundo in 1914.

Birdie gave birth to Diane Claire and Timothy Alan in 1943, 1944. It was just prior to Christmas of 2013 when she told her caregiver that her husband's "best gifts to her were her son and daughter."

Evelyn also maintained the household in a number of ways: cleaning, washing clothes and dishes, managing the supplies, feeding the cat, gardening, not to mention sacrificing time from her family to care for our Mother during the last four weeks of her life. Can you say Angel? •

Taxes, Wrong Again

It appears "retired", fixed income, senior Shelly Tucker has fallen prey to the old political game of "terror taxation".

Granted El Segundo is in financial difficulty. Over the past few years city staff have had their salaries cut, some were cut 100%. (laid off). Our wonderful library is no longer open every day and our city hall is closed every Friday.

Why? Union salaries and pensions As an example, the Union Firefighters. First I have nothing against firefighters, just Union ones. They get salary raises, no cuts, contrary to Mayor Fisher's claims, but salaries are not just the real problem, it's the "special compensation".

In 2012 these "compensations" exceeded 1.1 million, no cuts, again contrary to Mayor

Fisher's claim. "Special compensation" getting paid $8,000 to $20,000 a year, every year, just because they got a diploma (or two). Getting paid $10,000 to $40,000 a year, extra, every year, just for showing up at a job they are already being paid to do. Shelly, how would you like your "fixed" income just on that? I have the documented facts, they come from our city, even though Mayor Fisher refuses to acknowledge them.

Shelly points out how bad Santa Monica is and yet members of our council, past and present, have continually strived to model El Segundo after that very city.

By all means pass Measure A and let's start taxing more of every business and citizen of El Segundo, so the city can pay, but for what?

School Board

The Board members accepted gifts during the initial phase of the action item portion of the 35-minute meeting, including a donation from Kroger for more than $1,500 earmarked for El Segundo Middle School. They then passed and adopted Resolution 08/2013-14 that throws the District's support behind a continued dedicated State funding stream that would allow the continuation of the SoCal ROC program after current funding could be diminished or curtailed after June 30, 2015. California boasts 72 regional occupational centers and programs that have provided countless District students and adults with the opportunity to not only acquire necessary vocational skills to transition to community and four-year universities, but also to upgrade their existing skill sets as they seek to enter the 2014-and-beyond workforce.

Board member Bill Watkins is the current President of SoCal ROC and has long championed the importance of maintaining the State-supported funding of the program, while keeping the top-notch vocational training available as a viable alternative for District students. Watkins noted how fundamental the SoCal ROC program is to the educational success of District students. "It is essential for El Segundo students and other students and adults in the South Bay," he said, adding that it is critical "that direct funding for SoCal ROC and other regional occupational centers and programs in the state be part of educational funding in California."

Earlier in the meeting, Board President Laura Gabel read a brief prepared statement, addressing the comments made by El Segundo High parents and cheerleaders who had expressed their concerns during the public communications portion of the January 14 meeting about recent personnel decisions involving the campus' cheer program. Gabel noted that the District had complied with all of the legal and procedural requirements and regulations in the investigation of the cheer program and subsequent personnel issue, and that "the investigation was fair and impartial, and met all legal requirements."

The next regularly scheduled El Segundo School Board meeting will take place on Tuesday, February 11. •

Politically Speaking

One Man's Opinion

By Brian Simon

The Grim Reaper sat on a rock, dressed in black, his hood hiding his face. He held his scythe in one hand and rested his chin on the cup of his other hand. But his head drooped.

A passerby stared and inquired, "Wazzup, Reaper? Why so sad?"

"Death vigils are sad," The Reaper replied, "The stone tablets have said Obamacare will fail, so I'm waiting for it to happen. Wish we could just get on with it and write its epitaph already."

"Geeze, that's pretty pessimistic, Reaper. Why did the stone tablets reach that conclusion?"

"Well, we've been deluged with all the peripheral stuff about computer errors, lack of personal information security, lack of communication between the government and insurance companies, lack of a coordination plan among the various branches of government...all that stuff. But that all misses the point. The reason the plan will fail is because at its heart, it's irrational.

"Consider this: Seniors require more medical services than Medicare can afford, so Obamacare needs 40 percent of enrollees to come from healthy youngsters under the age of 34 to balance out the costly seniors. Unfortunately, youngsters constitute only 25 percent of the population. So they must subscribe in disproportionate numbers for Obamacare to survive.

"They're unlikely to do so because many young folks are already covered by parental policies. Furthermore, being young, they are poorly compensated, have the highest unemployment rate, carry the highest personal debt primarily from college loans, and have the fewest assets to protect.

"In 1992, 66 percent of youngsters participated in the economy, but by 2012 that had fallen to 54.9 percent. What's more, economists project that between 2012 and 2022, they will fall another 5.3 percent.

"In short, they can't afford to carry a disproportionate share of society's medical costs and most importantly, because they are healthier, don't need insurance as badly. Obamacare's relying on this slim reed defies rational expectations.

"The second reason Obamacare will fail is even more basic: Why will anyone buy medical insurance in advance of need if it will always be available when he needs it? As Americans' average incomes fall, should people spend precious dollars every month in premiums when they're healthy if that same insurance would still be available when they're sick? The provision prohibiting exclusions due to preexisting conditions makes waiting to buy insurance a rational choice. One insurance executive compared insuring a sick person to selling a fire insurance policy to someone whose house is already on fire. It's compassionate, but irrational.

"So the two fundamental issues are: First, is it sensible for anyone to spend months or years paying premiums when he isn't sick; or alternatively, wait to enroll later when he is sick? Second, should the very viability of Obamacare be predicated on young, healthy people spending their cash-strapped dollars in numbers disproportionate to their percentage of the population? If the answer to either issue is no, then we should just bury Obamacare, throw a few wilted flowers on the dirt and move on." With that, the Grim Reaper swung his scythe in an arc and walked off. •

Raising the Minimum Wage is Not the End of the World

By Cristian Vasquez

For several months the issue of raising the minimum wage rate has been discussed in the media and among the political leaders we have

week, that means that they are going to receive a paycheck worth $320, before taxes. I will admit that these are people who earn such wages, work hard and make ends meet. Yet,

"So with the cost of living going up every year, why cant the minimum wage rate do the same?"

out in put in office. While in Congress is yet to determine if they will approve a raise in the wage, several states have taken it upon themselves to begin the process. In California the proposal is to boost the minimum wage to as much as $12, which is getting support and opposition. I will make no secret of the fact that I firmly believe in workers' right to earn a decent wage to support themselves and their families. In my humble opinion, many careers and average jobs don't pay nearly enough based on what the employee has to deal with on a daily basis.

However, when talking about the minimum wage we are referring to a person's ability to earn a paycheck that will provide a decent living. The truth is that the state's current $8 an hour rate is nowhere near enough of a wage for anyone in California to provide themselves with a decent living. For those of who have worked for the minimum wage at some point, not all of these work sites make it a priority to provide their employees with a 40-hour work week, making it even more difficult to survive on such a low hourly rate. Even in the best-case-scenario where an employee earning minimum wage actually works a 40-hour work that doesn't mean that they should not earn more for their hard work.

We must be mindful that the minimum wage rate stays the same for many years and it is not until a few politicians make enough noise and gain enough support to bump up the rate. Yet, the cost of living goes up every year. Last week I went to buy milk and realized that I was paying almost $7 for two gallons. That means my monthly milk expense will now be $21 and will probably go up by the end of the year. So with the cost of living going up every year, why cant the minimum wage rate do the same? We can't expect consumers to keep up with the cost of every-day expenses if they do not earn the wages to do so.

Adjusting the minimum wage is not only fair but it is necessary. For anyone who has ever worked a minimum-wage paying job, and for everyone who currently earns that rate, we all know the bittersweet feeling of payday. Getting paid is great but the reminder of how little the wage is quickly kills the excitement of payday. At $12 an hour the minimum wage will actually make things easier for many people living paycheck to paycheck. •

Eagles Looking Rock Solid Behind Stone

By Gregg McMullin

It has been a rocky year for the El Segundo High School basketball squad. But things just might be changing on the horizon with the team's recent play in the Pioneer League. After starting off with a blowout defeat of league favorite Lawndale, the Eagles took down a scrappy Torrance team 55-52. The Eagles then went on the road and got run over by North Torrance 88-61 after playing evenly in the first half.

Torrance came into the game having defeated Mira Costa, Carson, Cerritos and Santa Fe Christian (Solano Beach)—all ranked teams at one point of the season. The Tartars boast a smaller, but scrappy lineup that has nobody taller than 6'2" and they like to play an up-tempo game. Coach Paul Nitake's team plays a fast-paced game to take advantage of its speed and lack of size. It's not uncommon for the Tartars to be outrebounded on both ends of the court, but they do put up a lot of shots.

In the first quarter, the Eagles' zone defense and height advantage kept the Tartars to one shot and limited offensive rebounds. Keeping the game close in the first quarter would be an important factor that would pay dividends later in the game.

The Eagles have had trouble turning the ball over this year and opposing teams have taken advantage. "We turn the ball over too much and usually teams capitalize by putting up more points, but the defense played great tonight," said Eagle head coach Rick Sabosky.

The two teams played a close game in the second quarter that saw a total of nine lead changes. What helped keep the Eagles in the game was their much-improved free throw shooting and at halftime El Segundo led 26-22.

The other aspect of the game that kept things close was the torrid play of senior guard Jake Stone. He led all scorers with 29 points, including nine in the first half. His defensive play helped baffle the Tartars throughout the game.

Torrance went on a 7-0 run to start the third quarter and Kyle Polk's three-pointer gave the Tartars a 34-27 lead. But El Segundo's relentless play kept the game from getting out of hand. Stone hit a long-range jumper and Eric Chance's put-back with 0:30 remaining in the third period cut the deficit to 39-36.

Torrance got the lead back up to as many as 11 points with just under four minutes remaining and that's when the Eagles got the momentum back. Andre Allen hit a key jumper and Chance's free throw with 2:50 remaining cut the lead to 49-44. A minute later Stone connected on back-to-back three-pointers to give the Eagles their first lead of the second

Hockey doesn't often make headlines in Los Angeles like it did last Saturday night at Dodger Stadium when the L.A. Kings took on the Anaheim Ducks. That's right, the game took place at Dodger Stadium. It was the first time that any Los Angeles team had participated in an outdoor game here in

"Hockey doesn't often make headlines in Los Angeles like it did last Saturday night at Dodger Stadium when the L.A. Kings took on the Anaheim Ducks."

Southern California—but judging from the way that things went, it may not be the last. As the players walked past the palm trees in the outfield, a beach volleyball court could be viewed off to their right-hand side, there was a stage off to the left where the band KISS would perform and suddenly the feeling hit that everything seemed somewhat surreal. But play the two teams did as 55,000 spectators looked on. What they saw was a game, but not much of a battle, as the Kings looked stiff and rigid in the 62-degree weather and the Ducks racked up two goals in the first period and one in the third to take a demonstrative 3-0 victory on the night.

The Kings may have been the last team to win the Stanley Cup, but this year it seems as if the Ducks are the ones who own this rivalry. After all of the demonstration and show was finally over, it was ultimately Kings' fans who left feeling somewhat robbed. Unable to see their team score even one goal beneath the nighttime sky, all of the anticipation of the night amounted to much disappointment. For the Ducks and their fans, however, it was a blast. "We felt like rock stars," said Anaheim defenseman Ben Lovejoy. "That was by far the coolest feeling I've ever had playing hockey." Lovejoy was most likely speaking of playing without a roof, but beating the Kings 3-0 must have been a pretty good feeling for him and his fellow teammates as well.

Anaheim goalie Jonas Hiller deserves much of the credit for the victory on the night, recording 36 saves en route to his team's shutout night. "Our goaltender did most of it," explained Ducks center Ryan Getzlaf. "We got caught running around a little bit." Hiller's shutout was only the second in NHL history to take place in an outdoor game. The shutout was the 20th of Hiller's career. "It's a little different playing out here, but it's nothing that threw us off," said Hiller. He and the Ducks certainly weren't thrown off, but the Kings were certainly a bit disheveled—especially after Hiller blocked Anze Kopitar's penalty shot in the first period, stealing any momentum away that L.A. could have possibly gained.

Kings goalie Jonathan Quick did his best to keep up with Hiller, posting 18 saves of his own, but in the end it was the offense that let L.A. down. "As for us not scoring goals, it's been a constant theme and it's getting embarrassing," explained Kings defenseman Drew Doughty. "So we need to pick up our socks and everyone needs to get hungry around the net and score goals." Los Angeles has now gone 116 consecutive minutes without scoring a goal against the Ducks. Andrew Cogliano had yet another great scoring chance for Anaheim, but as he broke away from the defense in the second period, he lost the puck and missed out on the opportunity. Cogliano made up for the mistake in the final period, though, taking advantage of an empty net to give Anaheim its final goal of the night in the waning seconds of the match.

The biggest victory of the night was perhaps for the fans residing in and around Los Angeles. This first outdoor game west of the Rocky Mountains was mostly a test scenario in the eyes of NHL officials to see if playing hockey games in warmer climates made any sense at all. The atmosphere created as well as the reception from the fans and the way that the game went off without any hitches suggests that the officials were most likely pleased and that fans can probably expect more of these sorts of games to come in the near future. "Hollywood could not have scripted a more magical launch to the 2014 Coors Light NHL Stadium Series and this historic weekend for the National Hockey League," stated NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman. The commissioner wasn't the only one who loved it. "I can't see any reason we shouldn't do this more," Anaheim's Teemu Selanne said. "The quality of hockey was great. I'm going to remember this." Despite the loss, even Kopitar couldn't resist giving the experience credit amidst the disappointment of losing. "The experience was fun and exciting, playing on a stage like this in front of all those people, but it was definitely not the outcome we wanted," Kopitar explained. Hopefully for Kopitar, the Kings and fans everywhere, he will get another chance at a victory at an outdoor venue very soon. • half at 50-49, and the noise level from the crowd was at a feverish pitch.

Stone made one of two free throws after a missed opportunity by Torrance to make it 51-49 with 57 seconds left. Torrance couldn't connect on its next possession and when Andre Allen's offensive rebound was put back in, the Eagles had a 53-49 lead.

Torrance's Abdul Nazarkhan hit from well beyond the three-point line to cut El Segundo's lead to one point. But Malcolm Au iced the game for the Eagles when he was fouled with 10 seconds left and he calmly sank both free throws as the Eagles came away with the 55-52 win. In a season of so many lows, El Segundo displayed the heart of a champion.

Facing arguably one of the toughest half court pressure defenses in the South Bay, the Eagles would have to play a near flawless game against ninth-ranked North Torrance. The Saxons boast two styles of play: An up-tempo, shoot the ball from everywhere offense and a half court defensive scheme aimed at inducing turnovers. The results have been very compelling with the team forcing an average of 23 turnovers a game and the offense averaging 75 points.

Stone got the Eagles going with a three-pointer from 25 feet away and from there the Eagles went on to take an 8-2 lead after Jackson Doering's three-pointer and Eric Chance's layup. But that awoke the sleeping giant and the Saxons went on to score 12 straight points. Trailing 19-12, Doering sank another long-range jumper and Au kept the Eagles close as time ran out in the first quarter.

Andre Allen's tip-in kept the Eagles close at 21-19, but once again the Saxons forced turnover after turnover and converted them into points. Still, the scrappy Eagles stayed close on the strength of a four-point play by Doering and two free throws by Chance. The Eagles, who had been down by as many as 11 points in the second quarter, were miraculously still in the game when Stone's three-pointer connected at the buzzer and the Eagles trailed 46-43.

The third quarter was all North Torrance and its vaunted defense. The Saxons went on a 15-5 burst to open the second half and held a 79-55 lead going into the fourth quarter. The final period was played essentially evenly but the Eagles, who had trailed by as many as 33 points, fell 88-61.

If there was silver lining to this game, it was the team's much-improved free throw shooting as of late and especially against North Torrance. Andre Allen was 9-10, Chance was 2-2 and the team was 14-15 in the first half. Though the percentages dropped off in the second half, it was still an encouraging sign.

The Eagles played a makeup game against South Torrance on Monday night and had a chance to make a statement last night against Centennial. They host Lawndale Friday night at 7:30 p.m. Next week, the Eagles go on the road to face South Torrance on Wednesday and Torrance on Friday.

The JV boys' team, behind Sam Ernest (12 points) and Chase Ali-Watkins (10 points), won a thriller against North Torrance 56-54. It was the overall play of Brett Medford on both ends of the court that helped the Eagles to their first Pioneer League win of the season. •

Looking Up

Rosetta Wakes Up from Deep Space Hibernation

By Bob Eklund

January 20, 2014: It was a fairytale ending to a tense chapter in the story of the Rosetta space mission, as the European Space Agency (ESA) heard from its distant spacecraft for the first time in 31 months. Launched in 2004, Rosetta is chasing down Comet 67P/Churyumov-Gerasimenko, where it will become the first space mission to rendezvous with a comet, the first to attempt a landing on a comet's surface and the first to follow a comet as it swings around the Sun.

Operating on solar energy alone, Rosetta was placed into a deep space slumber in June 2011 as it cruised out to a distance of nearly 800 million km from the warmth of the Sun, beyond the orbit of Jupiter. Now, as Rosetta's orbit has brought it back to within only 673 million km from the Sun, there is enough solar energy to power the spacecraft fully again.

Rosetta Calls Home

Thus on January 20, still about nine million km from the comet, Rosetta's preprogrammed internal alarm clock woke up the spacecraft. After warming up its key navigation instruments, coming out of a stabilizing spin and aiming its main radio antenna at Earth, Rosetta sent a signal to let mission operators know it had survived the most distant part of its journey.

The signal was received by both NASA's Goldstone and Canberra ground stations during the first window of opportunity the spacecraft had to communicate with Earth, and the successful wake-up was announced via the @ESA_Rosetta Twitter account that tweeted, "Hello, World!"

Comets are considered the primitive building blocks of the Solar System and likely helped to seed Earth with water and perhaps even the ingredients for life.

"All other comet missions have been flybys, capturing fleeting moments in the life of these icy treasure chests," says Matt Taylor, ESA's Rosetta project scientist. "With Rosetta, we will track the evolution of a comet on a daily basis and for over a year, giving us a unique insight into a comet's behavior."

After rendezvous this August, Rosetta will start with two months of mapping of the comet's surface and will also measure the comet's gravity, mass and shape, as well as assess its gaseous, dust-laden atmosphere, or coma. Using these data, scientists will choose a landing site for the mission's 100 kg Philae probe. The landing is currently scheduled for November 11 and will be the first time that a landing on a comet has ever been attempted.

In fact, given the almost negligible gravity of the comet's four km-wide nucleus, Philae will have to use ice screws and harpoons to stop it from rebounding back into space after touchdown.

Among its wide range of scientific measurements, Philae will send back a panorama of its surroundings, as well as very high-resolution pictures of the surface. It will also perform an on-the-spot analysis of the composition of the ices and organic material, including drilling down to 23 cm below the surface and feeding samples to Philae's onboard laboratory for analysis.

The focus of the mission will then move to the escort phase, during which Rosetta will stay alongside the comet as it moves closer to the Sun, monitoring the ever-changing conditions on the surface as the comet warms up and its ices vaporize.

The comet will reach its closest distance to the Sun in August 2015, at about 185 million km, roughly between the orbits of Earth and Mars. Rosetta will follow the comet throughout the remainder of 2015 as it heads away from the Sun. •

Three Easy Tips to Create a More Natural Bedroom

(BPT) - The formerly “fringe” back-to-nature movement has become mainstream in America and nowhere is the desire for a more natural approach to living more prevalent than in our homes. From organically grown fruits and vegetables to VOC-free paint choices, the trend is toward fewer additives, synthetics and chemicals.

But for all the farmers market-purchased food in the kitchen and goat milk soaps in the bathroom, one room that has been neglected in the quest for a more natural home is the bedroom. However, it doesn't take very much to make the bedroom more natural or “green.” Here are three easy and effective tips:

Choose Natural Bedding Materials

Down and feathers come from nature, are biodegradable and renewable; consequently they have the lowest carbon footprint of any bedding fill material. Thirty-six percent of U.S. adults use down and feather bedding precisely because it is eco-friendly, according to a recently completed Harris Survey commissioned by the American Down and Feather Council (ADFC).

Being a natural insulator, down helps regulate body heat for an optimal sleeping experience, which allows homeowners to turn down the thermostat at night and save on heating costs. The survey found that 55 percent of U.S. adults who use down and feather bedding have chosen it precisely for its natural warmth.

Add Fresh Plants and Flowers to your Decor

Live plants act as natural air filters and some plants - spider plants, Boston ferns, rubber plants and palm trees - are particularly effective absorbers of chemical pollutants emitted from carpets, furniture and electronic equipment. Adding fresh flowers and plants to your bedroom helps with the natural cycle of carbon dioxide and oxygen, improving the overall air quality in your bedroom.

Take Advantage of Nature's Best Heater: the Sun

In the cold winter months, open blinds, draperies, and shutters during the day to let solar energy warm and brighten your room naturally. In the hot summer months, be sure to do the opposite, and close your window coverings to prevent your bedroom from overheating and causing air conditioning units or fans to work harder, thus using more energy. •

Performing Arts Center

In August 2011, the El Segundo Performing Arts Center (www.elsegundopac.org) opened to the public. The center is available for use by El Segundo Unified School District, is utilized by El Segundo High as its assembly venue, and is rented by outside production groups. On Sunday mornings, The Bridge (formerly El Segundo Foursquare Church) worships in the majestic space.

The District is the proprietor of the center and hired a full-time employee to manage the coordination of the use of the theatre space. In July 2012, an alumna of the high school who performed on the stage numerous times began a new career. Angelica Roque, the Director of Theatre Operations, shares her passion for the Performing Arts Center with anyone who asks. “I just want the building to be used to its utmost capacity,” she said. “The community invested in the renovation as a separate bond issue to upgrade the auditorium, making it an impressive space to outsiders of the city--not just to the School District, not just to the Parks and Rec Department. It is a showplace and brings in revenue. I feel it is my job to protect that investment.”

A department of one, Angelica is in charge of a myriad of moving parts, from keeping a calendar in order so no conflicts are booked to making certain that contracts for use are written correctly so the District is paid the right amount by the renters of the venue. Basically, she is the liaison for all who enter the theater.

Angelica first performed on the high school auditorium stage at the age of nine, when as a fourth grader she was part of the cast of Annie in a production from the El Segundo Recreation and Parks Department Drama Program. “I had a really loud voice, so the director moved me up from the chorus to play one of the featured orphans,” she shared, “but the first time I sang in front of an audience, I was four years old, I think, at Miceli's Restaurant. I sang Under the Boardwalk and then two years later, I performed with my dad at a wedding. I remember I caught him looking at the words, but I was ‘seasoned’ at the age of six and didn't have to look. That is a vivid memory for me, thinking, ‘Who doesn't know the words to Whole New World, Dad?’”

Angelica comes from a performing family. Her parents, Danny and Nora, who met in the choir at church, and her two brothers, Christopher and Brandon, are all performers. Her dad created a cabaret act he showcases in clubs in Hollywood and Las Vegas and has been a Disneyland cast member, worked at Knott's Berry Farm as a character in many of the shows, and is a natural-born performer. Her mom, who has worked for various school districts (not including El Segundo) as an administrative employee for many years, sings and acts in productions as a hobby but is always cast as the leading lady. Her brother, Chris, is a founding member of Coeurage Theatre Company and a working LA stage actor. Brandon, the middle brother, is a percussionist with the El Segundo Community Concert Band and was a member of the UCLA Drumline.

“I think I have been singing since before I was born,” Angelica laughingly related. “You know, like a genetic disease. I loved to sing even before I could talk. I love to sing the classics, especially jazz, but a good musical theatre song is good too. When the lyrics tell a good story and the music transports the listener, I love a song like that.”

Angelica continued, “I got my first professional singing job at 16 when I became the out-front singer for the Beach Cities Swing Band. I loved being a member of my college a cappella group, the TriTones. Now I perform with a cover band on the Casinos Circuit and in my dad's cabaret act. I sing with Chris every week at our church.”

Angelica has also been a Young American since 2004, performing before graduating from high school after a recruited audition. Over the last nine years, she has traveled the United States and the United Kingdom as a touring teaching member for workshops that teach students about music and performing during an intensive three-day course prior to a live performance. This last year she directed the New Kids Show for the Young Americans.

“The Young Americans has been a great experience for me,” Angelica added. “I learned a lot from the members of the Swing Band, especially about music of the eras they play. And my performing years as a student right here on that stage [Performing Arts Center], are all memorable. Performers form bonds, making friends for a lifetime. But right now, I thoroughly enjoy what I do. I am really passionate about the theatre! I love the new sound system. The lighting board is fun to program. The backstage is such an improvement from what I and my friends remember of that area when we were in plays. I feel a personal connection with the Performing Arts Center. And I get paid to do the things I love to do. What could be better than that?” •

Wowzer Schnauzer

“It has been said that if you were to look up ‘cutie’ in the dictionary, you would find my picture! My name is Gerald and I guess I’ve been a bit of a surprise to everyone. I was such a matted mess when my owner left me at the LA County shelter that it was depressing. Who knew that a makeover would reveal a Miniature Schnauzer/Shih Tzu mix with a perpetual puppy face? I don’t know why my owner didn’t want me because

I’m really a sweet guy who gets along with everyone. The MSFR folks think I need a patient adopter because I’m very quiet and shy for a 1.5-year-old boy. Some leash training--not sure what that means--would be a big help. Since I’m only 10 pounds, I think I would be happier if my new home didn’t have any small kids because they scare me. I’m looking for someone to love me and to grow old with.” If you are interested in Gerald, please email info@msfr.org for more information.”

“Mulligan can mean a lot of things, but in my case it should mean absolutely adorable. I’m only six months old, but I’ve already spent a short time at an LA County shelter where my owner left me. I was so frightened by the whole ordeal that when I was rescued, I hid from everyone. The MSFR folks were very patient with me and I finally came around and made friends. Of course, the chicken they coaxed me with helped quite a bit. I’ve been told that I’m a Miniature Schnauzer mix, but you can see for yourself. I look more like a Schnauzer than anything. My current weight is about 11 pounds, but I’m still growing--so I’ll most likely be 15-20 pounds when I’m fully grown. I have a lovely, natural tail and I am great with other dogs.” If you are interested in Mulligan, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

“My name is Yogi and my owner turned me in to an LA County shelter when I got an ear hematoma. I gave him the best first two years of my life and he dumped me! An ear hematoma occurs when there’s trauma to the ear and the flap portion fills with blood, kind of like a big blood blister. After the MSFR folks rescued me, I went to the vet and they treated me by putting a drain in my ear. I’m looking for a home that will keep me and love me forever. I’m a very friendly, male, purebred Miniature Schnauzer who gets along with other dogs. I’m a little big at 27 pounds, but the perfect size to go for walks, play with and be a great companion.” If you are interested in two-year-old Yogi, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

“They call me Pepperoni because I’m more fun than a pizza on a Friday night. I’m a male Chihuahua mix who was rescued from the San Bernardino shelter and am currently residing in a cage-free facility. It’s the best because I can roam and play with dozens of other doggie pals that are my size and we all get along great. I’m a happy little pup--probably around six months old--who has fun just being a playful, silly guy. I’m not very big--about seven pounds, which means holding and cuddling me is easy to do. I’m really friendly and enjoy spending time with everyone, even young children.” Pepperoni can be seen anytime at Yellow Brick Road Doggie Playcare in El Segundo. Call 310-606-5507. •

Gidget Melts in Her New Dad’s Arms

Congratulations to Gidget and her new family. She is our Schnauzer mix rescued late September from the Downey shelter. Gidget is a shy girl, but she warmed up to her new mom and dad very quickly... in fact for not liking men so much, she almost melted in her new dad’s arms. I see her being a real daddy’s girl. What a life--she’ll be an only dog, which suits her perfectly, and will be doted on by her retired dad and mom. Much happiness to all! •

If you have any questions about a particular dog’s availability, you can email us at info@msfr.org. Please visit all of our Miniature Schnauzers & Friends rescues at the adoptions fair held every Saturday from noon-3:30 p.m. or check out our website, www.msfr.org. Our adoption fairs take place at Petco, 537 N. Pacific Coast Highway, Redondo Beach, California. Schnauzers! Bet you can’t adopt just one!

THE YELLOW DOG PROJECT.com

If you see a dog with a YELLOW RIBBON or something yellow on the leash, this is a dog who needs some space. Please do not approach this dog with your dog. Please maintain distance or give this dog and his/her person time to move out of your way.

There are many reasons why a dog may need space:
HEALTH ISSUES
IN TRAINING
BEING REHABILITATED
SCARED OR REACTIVE AROUND OTHER DOGS

THANK YOU!

Those of us who own these dogs appreciate your help and respect!

Happy New Year everyone.

The holiday season is over and I'm back at the computer with new ideas and recipes for your Super Bowl party.

This is a big event at the Shafer house and we always want to make sure that the food is great. This way if the game is bad we can at least feast!

So here is a real easy appetizer for the pre-game celebration.

The Chef

Jalapeno and Corn BLT Tacos

- 20 small corn tortillas
- 15 pcs of good thick sliced bacon
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 2 cups fresh corn cut of the cob
- 2 to 6 jalapeños chopped
- 1/8 cup vegetable oil
- 1 head shredded iceberg lettuce
- 3 medium tomatoes diced
- 1 cup mayo
- 1 cup thousand island dressing (or other sauces you would like)

Cook the bacon in a 350° oven till golden brown.

Drain the fat. Let cool then chop.

In a hot sauté pan cook the onions jalapeños and corn for about 2 minutes.

Add the bacon and serve with the warm tortillas, lettuce, tomatoes and sauces.

Have fun and be safe.
