Council Sends Joint Agreement with School District Back for More Work

By Liz Spear

An amendment to the joint use agreement for fields and facilities between the City of El Segundo and the El Segundo Unified School District engaged the five-member City Council for about an hour Tuesday night, with the item as originally presented by city staff not securing approval even though the school district board had approved of the agreement as written at its meeting on September 12. Instead, after a lengthy dialogue, the City Council voted 3-2 to extend the current agreement for 30 days until staff talks with school district officials and delivers more information on specific issues that kept the item from passing.

In other news, the council voted unanimously not to take city staff's recommendation to keep the intersection of Main Street and Oak Avenue as a two-way stop signed intersection and asked staff to implement a four-way stop signed intersection and look into other safety possibilities, including a lighted crosswalk and/or a signaled intersection after hearing from four residents who spoke in favor of a four-way stop sign. One of the four speakers was an El Segundo student who was hit in the crosswalk in April, thrown into the air, and rendered unconscious. Her mother also spoke, telling the council of countless near-misses of pedestrians in the crosswalk and some "horrible almost crashes."

The council also heard a presentation on the Downtown Specific Plan and recommendations for Phase One of the Recreation Park renovation. It increased the salary range for the chief of police by seven percent and increased by $1,000 per month, the stipend the city pays the city clerk. The city's Human Resources director noted that the city clerk stipend had remained the same for six years, and the assistant city clerk's position has been vacant for more than a year with staff unable to fill the position with quality personnel.

Council members Carol Pirsztuk and Ryan Baldino were clearly not pleased with the council not passing the amendment to the joint use agreement. Pirsztuk repeatedly said council members were getting "in the weeds" when asking for specific information and that the amendment as presented was good policy that would then allow city staff and school district staff ("the professionals," as she called them) to actually manage the fields and facilities. Council member Lance Giroux insisted that Richmond Field, which is owned by the school district, not continue to be maintained and scheduled by the city.

The Other Epidemic

By A.J. Ugliano

Here in the United States, a new type of war on drugs has begun. Never before, even with the lethality of the substances already on the market, has there been something as deadly as fentanyl. According to the CDC, between 2019 and 2021, opioid overdose deaths have doubled, and fentanyl accounted for 83%. In the same study, in 2021, the most recent full year of data available, nearly 6000 Californians died from a fentanyl overdose - a tragedy each and every one of them. There is, however, a newly affected group of people whose deaths from the matter have begun to climb since 2019: children.

In a recent California State Assembly Joint information hearing meeting, Fentanyl deaths were marked at 81 tragic deaths in 2019. However, those numbers have skyrocketed to 230 adolescents and young adults ages 15-19 in just three short years. And perhaps, in a more tragic vein, they did not even know they had ingested it before they perished. These statistics are everywhere. According to the California Department of Public Health, non-fatal opioid overdoses have tripled in recent years, from 2018 to 2020, rising from 379 to 1,222. This sample group ranged from ages 10-19; in this same age range, opioid overdose fatalities rose 625%.

How is this happening? Within the last year, according to the Drug Enforcement Agency, there have been large swaths of

Chief Oversteps Politically

On 9/13/23, El Segundo Police Chief Jaime Bermudez issued a press release regarding L.A. County's limit on cash bail. The press release was more of the same fear-mongering that Chief Bermudez spouted at the September 5th City Council meeting. Not only were the non-agendized comments made at the 9/5/23 Council meeting inappropriate and in potential violation of the Brown Act, the follow-up with a press release to the public essentially vilifying the County-wide policy change was an overreach of his authority as Police Chief. The press release contained misleading information, could only be interpreted as intended to conjure fear in the hearts of residents, and was a blatant political maneuver. Included in the press release was information for the public to use to contact L.A. County with "concerns related to the Zero Bail protocols". Chief Bermudez has improperly used his position as Police Chief to air his political views and attempt to rally support of the public he serves by using intentionally vague and inflammatory statements. LA County Superior Court instituted a zero-bail policy for many offenses during the pandemic. While some police officials argued those policies led to increases in crime, a report to the County Board of Supervisors last year showed re-arrest and failure to appear rates stayed relatively static during the period the policy was in place. Chief Bermudez is walking a fine line between ethical and unethical dissemination of information. City officials would be wise to reign him in.

Bail Reform Myths

Police Chief Bermudez gave an unagendized (and therefore inappropriate) presentation on "zero bail" policies at the 9/5/23 City Council meeting. The public had no notice this important topic would be discussed. Troublingly, Bermudez and Councilmember Giroux asserted that zero bail means zero punishment for crime. This is incorrect. Bail is about pretrial detention - that is, incarceration while you're presumed innocent. Pretrial detention is not supposed to be punishment for crime; the punishment is the sentence you receive if convicted. That these two high-ranking officials don't understand this basic tenet of our system is highly concerning. LA County Superior Court's bail schedules reflect the empirical evidence that individualized risk determinations and tailored release conditions are more effective at reducing the risk to public safety than uniform cash bail schedules, which impose pretrial detention based on financial resources. No one wants their catalytic converter stolen and no one wants to see a local business robbed. But the data shows no correlation between these crimes and a no-cash-bail policy. Beyond promoting public safety, bail reform promotes our constitutional principles of liberty and the presumption of innocence, while recognizing that the failed policies of the last few decades have led to the overincarceration of people not convicted of crime (who make up over 51% of LA County's jail population). These pretrial detainees are disproportionately low-income and Black and Brown. Bail reform is complicated. The last thing we need is fearmongering and misinformation coming from the top as we try to figure out.

Eagles Let Their Defense Shine

Story and Photos by Gregg McMullin

In sports, it's been said that defense wins the game. A good defense involves teamwork, never-ending practice, and unselfishness. With that said, the El Segundo High School's water polo team has been solid, the football team's defense is rapidly improving, and the girls' volleyball team has shown grit.

Water Polo Gets Defensive

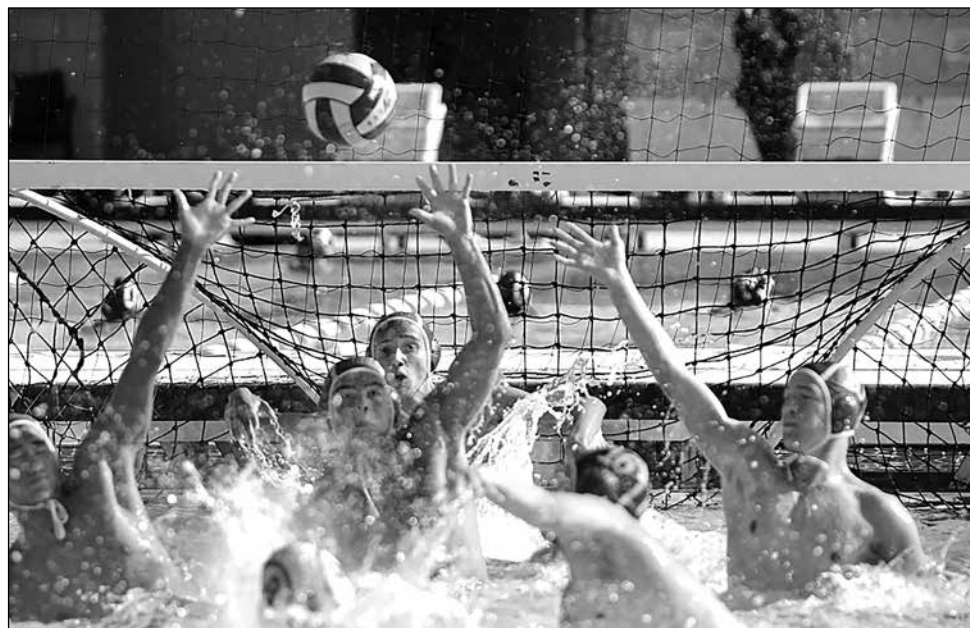

The boy's water polo team is off to one of the program's best starts in years. They were expected to have an offense capable of scoring in bunches, but the team has worked hard on defense. Head coach Nila Ward likes what she has seen in the early part of the season, and it has paid off in the form of an 8-0 start.

The Eagles held off a high-scoring Redondo Sea Hawks team 9-6 and used a stifling defense to stop City Section powerhouse Palisades 18-7. In both games, defense was a prominent part of the game strategy. The Eagles stopped any thoughts of a fast break with their defensive speed. They closed passing lanes, and the back line helped senior goalie Luc Giroux at the net. Coach Ward says it's a total team effort on both ends.

Leading 7-2 against Palisades in the third quarter, Max Hale delivered a strike to the back of the net to give the Eagles an 8-2 lead a minute into the quarter. Palisades, which had a four-game winning streak going into the game, closed the deficit with a pair of goals. Roman Suarez found an opening and scored, and Charlie Speiser scored on a defensive lapse by the Eagles to make

EMERGENCY PERMIT TO TREAT HAZARDOUS WASTE THE AEROSPACE CORPORATION 2310 EAST EL SEGUNDO BOULEVARD EL SEGUNDO, CALIFORNIA 90245

The California Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC) has issued an Emergency Permit to The Aerospace Corporation for onsite treatment of expired chemicals at 2310 East El Segundo Boulevard. The Clean Harbors Environmental Services (Clean Harbors) has been contracted to conduct the treatment. The chemicals are potentially reactive and unsafe for transport in their present state. The treatment involves the addition of liquid solutions to the containers to stabilize the chemicals. Once the chemicals are treated, they will be transported offsite for proper management. DTSC has determined that these chemicals pose an imminent and substantial endangerment to human health and the environment if not properly managed. Therefore, an Emergency Permit should be issued. This Emergency Permit is effective from May 24, 2023, through July 24, 2023. The Emergency Permit includes measures to minimize any adverse impact to the community and the environment.

CALIFORNIA ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ACT (CEQA): DTSC has determined that the issuance of this permit is exempt from the requirements of CEQA and has filed a Notice of Exemption (NOE) with the State Clearinghouse. Shiva Baby is a Cringe-Worthy Comedy About Millennial Anxiety

By Ryan Rojas, Cinemacy.com

In Judaism, “sitting shiva” is the week-long mourning period that is observed following the passing of a first-degree relative. In Shiva Baby (streaming on Max and Apple TV+), a millennial undergrad feels the same sort of deep mourning, albeit over the current state of her young life. When Danielle (Rachel Sennott) returns home from NYU to attend a funeral, she knows that she’s also entering the lion’s den of an overbearing family. The equal parts eager and concerned “How are you?” triggers her anxieties of her uncertain future.

Shiva Baby is such a refreshing and enjoyable new comedy due to how totally authentic

This hilarious suffocating experience is controlled by the entire filmmaking team: Hanna A. Park’s measured and then energetic editing controls each new wave of discomfort wonderfully. Maria Rusche’s cinematography captures the jam-packed nature of this house (building to a near-hallucinatory climax that reminded me of Rosemary’s Baby). And of singular note, composer Ariel Marx’s score is quite actually the thing that stands out that gives Shiva Baby its anxiety-inducing identity, an off-beat tension that reminded me of Jonny Greenwood’s score for Punch Drunk Love. All elements swirl to make for a cringe-worthy setting, which is pretty fun to see this all-the characters and situations all feel. It’s not altogether surprising, given that the film is based on the experiences and observations from writer and director Emma Seligman’s own life, here making her directorial debut. Seligman’s shrewd observations of the Jewish culture along with a new millennial identity make for a wonderfully cringe-worthy but very real culture clash. From the specificity of detail in the shiva setting and the hilarious characters who attend it, down to its stark portrayal of young people owning their newfound sexualities, Shiva Baby is the type of equal-parts defiant and personal filmmaking that make for the best kind of directorial debuts.

Shiva Baby smartly uses its single setting location to bring many elements of filmmaking together to control its tone—that being a cringe-worthy one every truth that Danielle skirts only raise the stakes to becoming a pressure cooker of discomfort (halfway through the film when she bursts out of the house to get air, we are desperately grateful for it as well).

I love recommending a film like Shiva Baby. It’s a directorial debut that will have you cingeing as much as laughing out loud.

The Best Cook in the World by Rick Bragg

By Roz Templin, Library Assistant at the El Segundo Public Library

Looking for a new audiobook to listen to during my commute to the library, I browsed our collection of books on CD. My eye landed on The Best Cook in the World. I had previously listened to several books by food writer Ruth Reichl ... I decided to take a chance on it. I am so glad that I did!

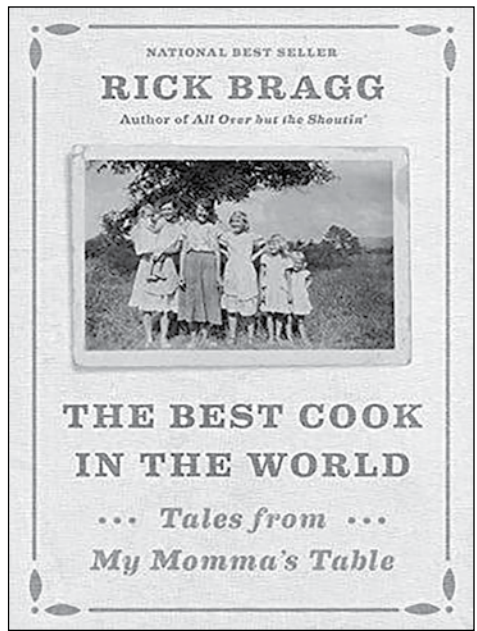

I listened to Rick Bragg’s easy Southern drawl recalling his mother’s exceptional ability to build satisfying meals despite their poor circumstances during his childhood. Subtitled ‘Tales from My Momma’s Table’ gives the the Depression in the wilds of northeastern Alabama and northwestern Georgia, in particular. People grew their own food and raised animals for slaughter. During harder times, they fished and hunted what they could find and added to their meager meals by foraging in the woods. There’s a memorable account of Bragg’s mother reciting her preparations for “poke salet” a wild (and toxic!) plant that proliferates in the South, especially along country roads and ditches. This “delicacy” should only be harvested at a certain time of the year, washed many times, cooked several more times... well, it’s quite an undertaking.

Larger than life characters like “Aunt Sis” are memorialized, as in the tale of her chicken dressing recipe that’s somehow tied to that time when she shot her husband in the teeth! There’s the tale of government “commodities” (free cheese and such for the poor) being distributed that were celebratory events. On another occasion, Bragg’s mother (as a child) was taken to a hobo dinner with her father and brothers. Oh, and there was the time Ava (Bragg’s grandmother) actually turned a tornado away from their home!

Bragg’s mother (Margaret) never paid attention to the measurements of ingredients. When he asks, she usually replies “Enough” or “a pinch” or “a smidgen ...” In the recipe for collard greens, ‘what you will need’ is “a mess” of greens. “How much is that?” he asks. “You’ll know,” she states.

When he recited the recipes at the end of each chapter, I was instantly brought back to memories of my own family. My parents were raised in Alabama and we traveled every summer to visit. Listening to his voice describing the Bundrum family’s adventures and travails I realized that he and I have a shared history, which has moved me beyond words. • listener an idea, but recipes are not the main event here. Author Bragg delves into his family history, intertwining Southern lore and home cooking, making the listener alternately laugh uproariously, wonder about the authenticity of those anecdotes and then, suddenly become tearful during an especially heart-tugging moment. Using colorful language that enhances mood, much of his recreations of long-ago stories are nothing less than poetic.

First conceived as a means to preserve his mother’s recipes (she never read a cookbook nor did she ever write anything down herself), this project transformed into a collection of urban legends and possibly true reminiscences passed down since before the Civil War. Beginning with the legend of The Mean Old Man (Bragg’s own great grandfather “Jimmy Jim”), who was on the lam when his son Charlie begged him to come home to teach his new bride Ava how to cook before he “starved to death.”

Bragg details what life was like for plain folks in dire straits before, during and after

Need Help to Ease Your Financial Stress? Qualities of an Excellent Financial Advisor

(BPT) - As inflation continues to rise, Americans are feeling the financial pressure and weighing their present needs against their future financial health. According to The National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA) Fall 2022 Consumer Survey, 87% of working Americans feel stressed about their finances, and nearly half are unsure of how much money they need to retire comfortably.

"Everyone is feeling the impacts of inflation, from the price of groceries to the fluctuations in their retirement accounts, and it's clear that more Americans are looking for the assistance and guidance that comes from a Fee-Only financial planner," says Kathryn Dattomo, CEO of the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA).

Finding the right financial advisor that can educate and guide clients can be challenging. When searching for a financial advisor, look for the following qualities.

1. Fee-Only Compensation

How a financial advisor is compensated can affect the advice you receive. Financial advisors are compensated through three ways:

- Commission-based model
- Commission and fee model
- Fee-Only model

Advisors that work in commissioned and commission and fee models are paid based on the specific financial products they sell to their clients. These models create an inherent conflict of interest. Advisors may struggle to put their client's best interests above their own. They also may recommend riskier financial investments with lower returns because they'll earn more money.

In contrast, clients pay Fee-Only advisors directly based on an hourly rate, a percentage of assets, a flat fee or a retainer for advice, plan execution and ongoing asset management. Because financial advisors don't receive compensation from third parties, there's no incentive to sell you expensive and risky financial products. This model allows them to concentrate on financial recommendations suitable to your situation.

"When choosing a financial advisor, always ask them how they are compensated for their services," says Dattomo. "Asking this question will help you better understand the nature of the relationship and whether the advisor will be putting your best interests first. If they give you anything but a straight answer, continue your search."

2. A Fiduciary

A fiduciary is a professional that manages assets or wealth while putting the client's best interest first. Fiduciaries are required to disclose any conflicts or potential conflicts to their clients before and during the advisory engagement, adopt a code of ethics and explain their fee structure.

Not all financial professionals are fiduciaries. Non-fiduciary advisors can recommend products with higher fees that generate bonuses, commissions and prizes. That's why it's of the utmost importance to ensure your financial advisor has signed a fiduciary oath.

"As consumers of financial services, we all owe it to ourselves to remain diligent - to understand our options and the standards our financial professionals are held to," says Dattomo. "Selecting a financial planner who has taken a fiduciary oath means they will always put your best interests first."

3. Experienced and Proactive

It's Easier Than Ever to Improve Your Hearing

(BPT) - Imagine this: You're having dinner with friends. You know that someone just said something funny, because everyone else at the table is laughing. You're too embarrassed to admit that you didn't hear the joke, so you laugh along with everyone else.

For many adults, living with hearing loss is a daily struggle. But it doesn't have to be. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has created a new category of over-the-counter (OTC) hearing aids, providing easier access to affordable, safe and effective hearing aids for millions of adults who believe they may have mild to moderate hearing loss.

More than 30 million adults in the U.S. have some degree of hearing loss. Hearing loss makes it harder to communicate with family and friends and can lead to isolation. Untreated hearing loss is associated with depression, anxiety, low self-esteem, dementia, reduced mobility and falls.

Today, it's simpler than ever to buy effective hearing aids that can improve your ability to talk with family and friends, communicate with physicians, and hear music, movies and TV. Adults (18 and older) who believe they have mild to moderate hearing loss can purchase OTC hearing aids without a medical exam, a prescription or a professional fitting. You can buy OTC hearing aids directly in stores or online. They typically cost less than prescription hearing aids.

Here are some other facts about OTC hearing aids:

- Research from the National Institute on

Deafness and Other Communication Disorders (NIDCD), part of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), shows that OTC hearing aids can be as effective as prescription hearing aids for adults with mild to moderate hearing loss.

- You control the settings for OTC hearing aids yourself, and you may be able to adjust them in more ways than you could with prescription hearing aids.

- OTC hearing aids include labels with information you should know before buying, such as symptoms that indicate a more serious problem that may require treatment from a physician.

- To help the public easily identify OTC hearing aids, the devices are required to include the words "OTC" and "hearing aid" on the outside packaging.

Hearing aids can be life-changing, but only about one in four adults in the U.S. who could benefit from them has ever used them. In fact, people diagnosed with hearing loss wait, on average, nearly 10 years before obtaining hearing aids.

What are some signs that OTC hearing aids may be right for you?

- Speech or other sounds seem quiet or muffled.

- You have trouble hearing when you're in a group, in a noisy area, on the phone, or when you can't see who is talking.

- You have to ask others to speak more slowly or clearly, to talk louder, or to repeat what they said.

City Council

When Baldino told him that in "two-by-two" meetings, the only new items brought up for discussion between the city and school district was amending the length of time an agreement was good for, Giroux said, "Then that's sad because I've been making my feelings known on this topic for a very, very long time. And the fact that that wasn't discussed at your two-by-two is problematic for me." A short time later, he said, "The idea is to get it done and get it done right. There are very few pain points here. Like very, very few. It should never have gotten to this."

Pirsztuk wanted city staff to ask school district personnel if it's "viable" for the school district to take over the maintenance and scheduling of Richmond Field. She had noted earlier in conversation that Richmond Field has lights and Center Field, which the school district handles, does not, and that perhaps staffing by the district is related to that. However, it was also pointed out that Club sports teams play on high school fields with lights, and school district staff handles that.

City Manager Darrell George told the council the Richmond Field issue had been discussed with school district personnel. "I don't recall it being an affordability question," he said. Recreation, Parks and Library Director Aly Mancini told the council she thought it was brought up that keeping the Richmond Field under the city was a benefit to the community because it maintained "centralized scheduling," to which Giroux said, "But it's not centralized scheduling because we all cross beams when we're running these organizations (i.e., Little League, AYSO). It literally does not change anything for the user groups. It's just a matter of who they write the check to."

After the 3-2 vote to extend the existing agreement, Mayor Drew Boyles said, "It's good to see so much passion. Everyone cares a lot about this town. It's really good." Pirsztuk said, "But you know what, the history of the partnership, we've just now put cracks in that partnership. And I just want to make sure that we understand there are consequences to actions."

"Oh, consequences," said Giroux. "That's interesting. So, by them offering a gratuitous part of the agreement, that's somehow our bad. There are a lot of threats up here about how the school district reacts to us when we question things. It's interesting."

Said Boyles, "I think it was a healthy discussion. I'm certainly glad we had it. It was well overdue in terms of both sides."

During Public Comment earlier in the council meeting Tuesday night, El Segundo High School student tennis players and residents told the council they did not want the use of the city's tennis courts taken away from the high school students. After hearing from close to half a dozen people speaking on this topic, Boyles told everyone nothing was being changed as it related to the use of the tennis courts. City Manager George concurred.

Also, during Public Comment, resident David Holop took issue with El Segundo Police Chief Jaime Bermudez's comments about bail in Los Angeles County and the upcoming changes taking place in October. Bermudez and council member Giroux had indicated there are "zero repercussions" to committing crimes given the way bail is being handled. Holop said there is data that demonstrates that there is no tie between the amount of crimes being committed in an area and its bail policies.

City Manager George delivered a report on progress at the Hyperion Water Reclamation Plant. He said that California Assembly Bill 1216 had passed the California Senate 26-7 on September 6 and now awaits Governor Gavin Newsom's consideration and signature. He noted that work on tank covers will last through the end of December and that this type of work could bring odors. Work will take place on weekdays from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be done on one section of a tank at a time.

The council also looked at possibilities for Rec Park, including making decisions on the three ball fields, Teen Center with a Teen Plaza, and the skatepark. They also heard more about specifics of the Downtown Specific Plan related to outdoor dining, parking, street closures, and building add-ons designed to entice business owners and visitors to spend time and money in downtown El Segundo. •

BOOST HOME VALUES WITH OUTDOOR UPGRADES

(BPT) - Are you looking for eye-catching and practical ways to upgrade your home? Consider investing in an outdoor renovation project! From installing or remodeling a patio to adding an outdoor fireplace, these outdoor projects can make your home an inviting space in which you and others will want to spend time.

Upgrade your patio ~ A patio or deck can be a wonderful addition to your home. It acts as an extension of your home and provides another livable space to relax and socialize with family and friends. You can even incorporate an outdoor dining area and workspace to create a multi-purpose patio.

Concrete pavers are a great way to complete the feel of your outdoor space and seamlessly blend the hardscapes in with the existing layout because they complement various design styles. They're also a great investment and have a life span of 30 to 100 years to withstand extreme weather and bear heavy weight.

Invest in landscaping ~ If you want to improve the appearance of your home and get an instant return on investment, upgrade your landscape. Not only does investing in landscaping enhance your home's curb appeal, but it also extends a warm invitation into your home for visitors. The NAR report found that lining your walkway of pavers with plants, or adding in raised beds and shrubs, allowed homeowners to recover 104% of the project's cost.

Install an outdoor kitchen ~ Outdoor kitchens are becoming increasingly popular with homeowners and potential buyers. They allow people to spend as much time outdoors as possible while entertaining and feeding guests. It also means that you don't heat up your house during the summer months.

Compared to other outdoor home improvement projects, outdoor kitchens offer a substantial return on investment. NARS found that homeowners recovered 100% of the cost of building an outdoor kitchen. The report also found that 99% of homeowners who added an outdoor kitchen felt a greater desire to be home and 71% felt an increased sense of enjoyment with their home.

Incorporate a fire feature ~ Whether you choose a fireplace or pit, an outdoor fire feature will add value to your home and allow you to make memories with friends and family in a cozy environment huddled around whichever feature you choose. Consider your budget, space layout and function for fire features to ensure you choose the right one for your backyard and family. A DIY fire pit is a great inexpensive option with versatile use and style. Opt for an outdoor fireplace if you're looking for a more premium option. It can double as a privacy wall and takes up less space than a typical fireplace.

8-4 Eagles.

Nolan Barnett, who scored a first-half goal in the second period, took a pass on the edge and fired it into the net for another El Segundo score. Shortly after that, on a Palisades turnover, Hale found an opening from the five-meter area and scored. With time winding down in the period, Carter Williamson's pass to Hale set Hale up for another score and an 11-5 lead.

With the depth of the team, most of the starters were on the deck in the fourth period. Tristan Foster assisted on Seth Davis' goal with a perfect pass. The defensive efforts by Patrick Wang led to another score. Wang stole the ball on top and went the distance to score inside to make it 13-6 with three minutes remaining. Williamson scored on back-to-back possessions. The first one was when an errant shot rebounded back to him, and he quickly tossed it back past the Palisades goalie. The next was when Caedon Buhr lobbed a pass high inside to Williamson, who took the pass and wheeled it in for the score. Foster would score another goal, and Cooper Albano assisted on Vinny Baldino's score for an 18-7 win.

The Eagles faced Chadwick on Tuesday, face West Torrance today on the road in the Pioneer League opener, and host North Torrance on Tuesday, September 26 at 3:30 p.m.

Eagles Shutout Hawthorne 44-0 in Home Opener

The El Segundo football team finally played their 2023 home opener after playing three consecutive games on the road to start the season. Hosting the Hawthorne Cougars in front of an upbeat and excitable home crowd moved the Eagles to dominate an athletic numerous miscues by the Cougars' offense, including four bad snaps, including one that led to a safety.

El Segundo's defense played a stellar game. They gave up just 53 yards of total offense to the Cougars while the Eagles were moving the ball offensively with relative ease. The Eagles took advantage of excellent midfield possession on their first series. Cole Castillo, who rushed for 107 yards and three touchdowns, picked up 38 yards on the opening drive. His second carry got the Eagles down to the 9-yard line. Anthony Temesvary found Lucas Sun over the middle on a quick slant route for a touchdown and a 7-0 lead.

It didn't take long for the Eagles to score again. The Cougars fumbled on their next rushed for 38 yards on six carries, including a two-yard run to increase the lead to 21-0.

El Segundo's defense forced another dismal offensive series for the Cougars and, on fourth and long, attempted a fake punt that failed, and the Eagles took possession on the Hawthorne 9-yard line. Three rushing attempts later by Castillo and the junior running back got into the end zone.

Hawthorne's offensive woes continued when Ramos, who went thirteen yards to pick up a first down. Six plays later, the Eagles got into the end zone and a final score of 44-0.

It was a game the Eagles needed. Head coach Shawn Green was not surprised by the outcome and said that his team has plenty of potential. "We showed what we are capable of doing. They've worked hard, and this was a game they put together."

The Eagles are home on Friday at 7 p.m. to host the Arroyo Knights, a team that reached last season's CIF Southern Section's Division 12 semi-final game. Between the first and second quarters, the El Segundo Little League World Series Champion All-Stars will be introduced and recognized.

Volleyball Team Shows Mettle in Defeat

The Eagles were swept in a match to the South Torrance Spartans 26-24, 25-16, 25-15 and dropped to 1-2 in the Pioneer League. The Eagles showed their grittiness of falling behind and not giving up no matter what the deficit was. In the first game, they trailed most of the game but were within striking distance. The Spartans' biggest lead was five points when they led 22-17. But El Segundo never folded and was pressured to stay in the game. Behind the block and consecutive hits by Allie Stevenson, she helped give the Eagles their first lead. The Spartans would rally for the next four points and win game one 26-24.

Game two was close throughout, with the Spartans holding a two-point edge until going on a run and eventually putting the game away 25-16. Game three started out to be lopsided, with the Eagles trailing at one point 12-3. Riley McAndrews played well at the net and blocked South's Sarah Hom's Hawthorne team. The result was a 44-0 drubbing that frustrated the Cougars on both sides of the ball. It was the first shutout for the Eagles since the 38-0 win over Torrance on September 20, 2019.

The game was riddled with penalty flags that were mostly thrown against Hawthorne, and the Eagles took advantage. There were possession and recovered by the Eagles' Hector Gomez at the Hawthorne 25-yard line. On the first play, Temesvary connected with Alex Reis for a 25-yard touchdown pass and a 14-0 lead. The Eagles scored on their next possession after going 91 yards. Helped along by some penalties against the Cougars, the Eagles marched down the field. Castillo they coughed up the ball again deep in their territory. Two passing plays later to Elijah Coles, including a two-yard touchdown pass, and the Eagles had a 35-0 lead.

El Segundo punted just once, and that was after the first series to start the second half. The punt was downed at the Hawthorne eight-yard line. More turmoil for the Cougars occurred when a bad snap sailed over the quarterback's head and out of the end zone for a two-point safety. The Eagles parlayed the Cougar's misfortune into a scoring opportunity. Joaquin Wagner-Bagues picked up five yards on the first play, but the ball was stripped loose and recovered by Xavier hit to close the deficit 14-7. Lauren Neely's block made it 14-9, and Macy Ludwig's ace closed the gap to 16-12. That would be as close as the Eagles would come when the Spartans went on a run, outscored the Eagles 9-3, and won game three 25-15.

 OTC hearing aids are not for children or for adults with severe or profound hearing loss. These individuals should work directly with a hearing health care professional or a physician to address their hearing loss.
 Why are OTC hearing aids now available? Experts in science, technology and hearing health care are working with researchers, health professionals and the public to find safe and effective ways to improve access to hearing health care for adults. This issue is a public health priority, especially as the number of older adults in the U.S. continues to grow. The availability of OTC hearing aids is a major step toward hearing health care that is less expensive and easier to access.

Epidemic

rainbow-colored fentanyl tablets designed to attract younger Americans. Drug peddlers and manufacturers are creating new branding tactics and marketing strategies in order to develop a wider audience. DEA administrator Anne Milgram said in a 2022 interview, "Fentanyl pills and powder that come in a variety of bright colors, shapes, and sizes—is a deliberate effort by drug traffickers to drive addiction amongst kids and young adults." Predatory behavior on the most vulnerable population. With the direct marketing that has been observed, there have been instances all over the nation of things like Xanax and Marijuana vapor cartridges that have been laced with fentanyl and sold to children.

The opioid crisis is in full swing everywhere across the nation, but here in California, it has been presented as some of the worst of it. In response, the state government has implemented a new program called the Overdose Prevention Initiative, or OPI. The OPI was founded as a direct response to the problems that addicts and newcomers face daily in the dark and seedy underground of California's drug scene. Substances, all of them across the board, are being cut with this incredibly deadly drug.

With the OPI, other things have been put into place. The Campus Opioid Safety Act, which went into effect January 1st, 2023, aims to reduce opioid overdose by providing education and life-saving medication across every public college institution in California. The University of California system has been asked to respect this as well, but the law did not cover it. Through this act, every institution can receive, through federal funds, a life-saving dose of this miracle drug.

While this is a step in the right direction, the unfortunate reality is the effects of this crisis on children. According to the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Medicine, over two million children nationwide have a parent with an Opioid Use Disorder or have one themselves. If this current trend continues, there will be over four million children who have these issues by 2030. This crisis is growing at a fast rate, and policymakers are struggling to keep up with the issue. Although there is relief in many forms for people, unfortunately, this kind of help takes a very long time to trickle down to the people most affected by the crisis. Perhaps the most terrifying part is that no expressly written policy or action has been taken to help children with this problem. There is a void of relief that exists in the public sphere to combat this issue. Unfortunately, Children across California are left in the dark now, and the problem is too complex to be solved with one piece of legislation. Never before in California have the rates of addiction to such a deadly substance been so high, and with such a risk for it to be laced into anything an adventurous youth may be interested in trying. There is no blanket of relief to pull over this blazing issue.

All we have with us are the strengths of communication, community, and education on the substance that has been ravaging families and neighborhoods since it first hit the scene just a few short years ago. There are resources if you or a loved one are struggling with addiction. findtreatment.gov is a website designed for finding treatment centers tailored to individual needs. They can also be reached at 800-662-HELP.

Substance abuse has a tight grip on hundreds of thousands of people nationwide, many of whom are right here at home. These serious issues are being fought as quickly as lawmakers can write policy, but prevention and, most notably, education are the biggest tools in the public's arsenal. A knowledge of what it is and the forms of how it can be ingested are key. Along with this, understanding the resources available to people struggling can save an incredible number of lives.

This war on drugs has changed in appearance many times since it began many years ago, but here in this new chapter, it has become more deadly than ever. The lethal amount of fentanyl can fit on the tip of a sharpened pencil. It is beyond terrifying the effect of use and abuse that this substance has brought about cannot be understated. The greatest tool in this fight is the knowledge to combat it and the resources to do so. In their publicity campaign to bring awareness to this issue, the DEA is perhaps the best term coined on the matter, "One pill can kill." •
