Council Approves Non-Financial Work Experience Agreements

By Cristian Vasquez

In a unanimous vote, the Inglewood City Council approved a non-financial work experience agreement between the City of Inglewood and the South Bay Workforce Investment Board.

The City of Inglewood has been working with and a part of the SBWIB's Work Experience Program for both youth and adult workers. These workers are paid a subsidized minimum wage by the SBWIB in order to work in assigned city departments in order to gain work experience in addition to acquiring workplace skills.

Under this agreement between the City of Inglewood and SBWIB, all city departments are covered and able to participate as long as funds are available. The non-financial agreement between the SBWIB, on behalf of the City of Inglewood, will be in effect until June 30, 2016. The worksite agency agrees to the following terms: to provide work experience training for participants; provide a safe, healthy work environment for participants; ensure that time and attendance records are kept by the worksite supervisor to reflect actual time worked; provide the necessary work, equipment and materials; ensure that participants will not be placed at worksites dealing with maintenance or upkeep of religious institutions or where religious activities are conducted at any time; worksite supervisors must provide worksite orientation to each youth; ensure that youths are supervised at all times, among other terms.

SBWIB is a state nonprofit public benefit corporation dedicated to contracting in order to provide job training and employment services to the Administrative Entity of the South Bay Workforce Investment Areas [SBWIA]. The SBWIA is made up of the cities of Hawthorne, Lawndale, El Segundo, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, Hermosa Beach, Gardena, Carson and Inglewood.

The nonfinancial work experience agreements were approved with two modifications to the language which, modified the amount of workman's comp and general liability insurance made available. The change for general liability went from $2 million to 1.5 million as city self-insured retention.

The same change was made for workers' compensation and employers' liability.

City Approves Agreement with South Bay Center for Counseling

In a 5-0 vote, members of the city council approved an attached amendment with the South Bay Center for Counseling [SBCC] in order to receive $10,067 in grant funds for the provision of the Prevention Initiative Demonstration Project [PIDP]. Along with the amendment, the council approved a resolution amending the 2012-2013 fiscal year to reflect the $10,067 from the SBCC PIDP grant.

Since 1996 the City of Inglewood has received a variety of grant funds for a wide-range of children and family programs through the Service Planning Area [SPA] 8 Collaborative, of which the city is a member.

The PIDP is a program that the Los Angeles County Department of Children and Family Services administers and which is tailored to engage community groups in planning and organizing activities and programs designed to reduce child abuse and neglect.

The amendment approved by the council extended term Agreement No. 11-030 from July 31, 2013 to December 31, 2013 and allowed the city to receive the necessary funds to provide a staff person [in-home outreach counselor] to plan, organize and manage activities aimed at the reduction and prevention of child abuse and neglect. In addition, said staff person would assist with the creation of Neighborhood Action Councils [NACs].

The work and services for the amended PIDP include: relationship-based community engagement and organizing in the service of social network and community building; family and community economic development; easy access to community-based supports, services, activities and other resources designed to respond to family desire and concerns; and to conduct community engagement and organizing by using established groups and organizing new groups that would take leadership roles in the community.

It will be the responsibility of the In-Home Outreach Counselor to provide in-home support and educational services, to conduct assessments to determine families' strengths and needs, while accessing needed services. Under the project the PIDP networks represent eight different areas with L.A. County and implements social-network building strategies aimed at increasing economic opportunities which lead to more access to services and resources.

For the Lakers, Eddie Kemp led with 13 points, followed by Ryan Jotie with nine. Andre and Eddie Jones contributed three points apiece. Both teams are tied for first, each with 6-2 records in their division.

Keying Action were Jackson Woulard and Nathan Cabrera with 12 points each. Anthony Hamilton had 10 points. The Air Force was led by Sean Burford with seven points. Ivan Session and Donnell Williams each put in five.

Sakovich-Lopopolo, who lives in Manhattan Beach, captured the female 35-39-year-old age group at 50 minutes and 29 seconds. She finished 59th overall. "This was a great event," Sakovich-Lopopolo said. "It is a hometown favorite. Every year, this is a great race." Sakovich-Lopopolo finished second in her 35-39 age category last year.

Neilan finished as the runner-up for the 45-49 male age division, clocking 49:43. He

The top overall finisher was 17-year-old Kevin Fink from San Pedro, timing 41:21. Taking second and third respectively were 28-year-old Juan Delgadillo of Los Angeles in 41:24 and 43-year-old L.A. resident Alex Kostich with a time of 41:28.

FOUR LOCALS VIE AT USC

Four players who hail from Inglewood are preparing to open the 2013 season with the University of Southern California football team. The Trojans began the season at University of Hawaii on August 29 at 8 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

Perhaps the top player hailing from Inglewood is ex-Gardena Serra High standout junior wide receiver Marqise Lee. Last season as a sophomore, Lee was an all-American and received the Biletnikoff Award for being the nation's top college receiver. In 13 games in 2012, Lee caught 118 passes for 1,721 yards and 15 touchdowns--both PAC 12 Conference season records. In just two seasons, Lee already has 191 receptions for 2,864 yards (an average of 15 yards per catch). He is also a standout long jumper with USC's track and field team.

Ex-Inglewood High cornerback Davian Shelton will be a sophomore with the Trojans. Also from Inglewood include ex-Crenshaw High all-American Hayes Pular, who enters his senior season. The former high school all-American started all 13 games and had 107 tackles in 2012. Pular is a linebacker. Sophomore Jordan Simmons, who was an all-American at Encino Crespi High, will play at offensive tackle and guard. •

Mistakes and Baseball

By Adam Serrao

Attracting big name players is what sports are all about. Big market teams do what they can to go out their way to attract the biggest and best names out there to not only gain attention from a city's fan base, but to also make a run at a championship. Obviously this is not the case in just basketball, but also baseball and maybe to a smaller extent football too. LeBron James makes the Miami Heat what they are. Likewise, Kobe makes the Lakers, Chris Paul makes the Clippers and, as we learned over the summer, Dwight Howard now rules Houston. In basketball, these big-name players get paid big, hefty salaries and oftentimes actually live up to them. James, for instance, while one of the highest paid players in the league, has delivered two championships to Miami. Kobe--five to Los Angeles. In baseball, however, the story seems to be flipped. Oftentimes, the biggest of contracts handed out are done simply to lock up the name that goes on the back of the jersey for the life of a specific contract. Once the player gets paid, however, production almost unquestionably and immediately falls off. Championships are nowhere to be found and teams are left floundering in the wake of money poorly spent. That, combined with the rampant use of PEDs, makes baseball one of the most mistake-ridden sports in the world.

We've all seen what PEDs can do to a player, a team and the city for which he plays. Ryan Braun was the latest casualty and Alex Rodriguez may be the biggest named sufferer. The players aren't the only ones suffering, though. Let's take the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim, for instance. Perhaps the biggest signing in the history of the franchise has been Albert Pujols. After coming to the Angels last year, Pujols has looked like anything but himself. A 10-year, $242 million contract brought Pujols to Anaheim from the St. Louis Cardinals. The one-time .359 hitter with a career high of 49 home runs has been limited to a .285 average with 30 home runs in his first year with the club and a .258 average with 17 home runs in this, his second year with the Angels. Many Pujols supporters will say that his lack of production has been caused by a foot injury that has recently sidelined him for perhaps the rest of the season. Since the 2009 season, however, the 33-year-old, nine-time All-Star's statistics have been gradually and drastically dropping off year by year until now--where he finds himself in his worst season ever. With eight years and $212 million remaining on his back-loaded contract, the recently hobbled Pujols looks to be in a world of hurt on the field, but seems to now have enough free time in between rehab stints to appreciate all of the extra cash that Arte Moreno and the Angels have thrown his way. Mark Pujols down as one huge mistake for the Angels that won't just hurt the team this year, but for the next eight years to come.

Albert Pujols isn't the only big name out there who is in decline and owed a lot of money. Look east to New York and you'll find Alex Rodriguez's contract that the Yankees are so fervently trying to unload.

Rodriguez is owed $114 million through the year of 2017 and ca't even find a way to get himself on the field this year. In addition to that contract, if A-Rod ties Willie Mays on the all-time home run list at 660 (he's currently at 647), he will receive another $30 million in bonuses. Regardless of what happens to A-Rod regarding the whole Biogenesis PED scandal, unless he receives a lifelong suspension, the Yankees will be on the hook for a massive contract that has gone wrong. Even if Rodriguez gets back on the field, there's no reason to believe that he will be of any help to the Yankees. Since 2007, the third baseman hasn't played in over 140 games once. Also in the last two seasons, A-Rod hasn't hit more than 20 home runs or knocked in more than 70 runs. His batting average has hovered below .286 since 2008 and he's a lifetime .265 postseason hitter. Seems like shelling out a 10-year contract worth $275 million wasn't the right thing to do, even for A-Rod. Paying a player big money while he is in his prime is one thing, but anything can happen over the duration of 10 years, as A-Rod has shown us, and he is yet another example of a big contract gone wrong that, barring suspension, will hurt the Yankees into the 2017 season.

A lot of time has been spent discussing only two players, but there are many more across the league benefiting from low production and a heavy cash flow. Ryan Howard is guaranteed $125 million over the next four years and can't seem to get himself on the field either. Once a feared hitter, Howard now finds himself batting .253, .219 and .266 over the last three seasons, respectively, with only 26 combined home runs since 2012 (the year his extension with the Phillies began). Josh Hamilton was supposed to team up with Pujols and be the savior for the Angels. After his 43-home run season last year, Hamilton is enjoying a five-year deal worth $125 million while batting .221 with 16 home runs in his first year with the Angels. Even Andre Ethier of the Dodgers is taking advantage of a new five-year $85 million contract while batting .265 with seven home runs. Other horrible contracts in MLB history: Darren Dreifort of the Dodgers for five years and $55 million, Barry Zito of the Giants for seven years and $126 million--and who can forget Andruw Jones wasting two years of Dodgers fans' hopes with his $36.2 million deal.

Bad contracts are given out across the entire sports world and sometimes there is no possible way to gain the hindsight to know how the money dished out will be effectively used. In the world of baseball, though, money is spent so frivolously that it has almost become ridiculous. Maybe it is because the league has cracked down on PEDs so much that the game's "biggest stars" are now underperforming and finding themselves injured more often than not. Or maybe a 10-year contract is simply too long of a deal to be giving out to players who may or may not be in their primes. One way or the other, though, owners throughout baseball will continue to attract the game's biggest names with dollar signs and feel the hurt once they settle in and acquire comfort on their golden dugout benches--pockets overflowing with green, paper-like potential. •

News for the City of Good Neighbors

Cypave –

Answer to our Question

Last week I asked the question of where the name Cypave, CA originated from for the area over by the Hawthorne Airport. Thanks to John Baker, a proud graduate of Hawthorne High, class of '61, curator of cougartown.com, and native of Hawthorne, we now know where the name comes from.

Cypave was the name for one of the original street car stops at the corner of Crenshaw Blvd and Broadway, which was later named, Jack Northop Avenue. Other stops on the line included, Moneto and Burleigh which are names for two of Hawthorne's residential sections. There are still train tracks that cross close to this intersection today. We are left wondering what Cypave means. Thanks John for clearing up some of our curiosity.

The Dog Days of Summer

We are officially in that time of year, the "dog days". The Old Farmers Almanac lists the traditional period of the Summer Dog Days as the 40 days beginning July 3rd and ending August 11th, coinciding with the rising of the Dog Star, Sirius. These are the days of the year with the least rainfall in the Northern Hemisphere. Usually, we think of the hot, sultry days that we suffer through. With our resent weather being cooler than normal, I guess the dog days have passed us without much of a bark.

Performance Enhancing Drugs (PED's)

Major League Baseball just suspended 13 players this week for their use of performance enhancing drugs or steroids. Yes, all drugs have side effects. Some of these have long term, negative physical effects. Yes, this is bad for a sport that sells tickets to people who think they are watching grown men play a game using their natural skills and abilities. We think that the have simply trained themselves to be the best at hitting or throwing a ball. It's interesting that in most jobs, companies wouldn't mind if their workers would take performance enhancing stimulants or use any kind of method to make them better employees. 5 Hour Energy or Monster drinks keep people awake and alert on the job or in training. These may not have the physical effects that steroids have. In most cases, spectators do not pay to watch us perform the jobs that we do. All I know is that in America we don't like to be cheated. We don't like to see our sports heroes mislead our children into believing they can do thinks and really they are taking a short cut to taking millions of dollars from fans.

If I could come up with a pill that would help weekend golfers play more consistent golf and lower their score by 5 or 10 strokes per round, I think I could sell quite a few of them. That's what America looks for. We are always looking for a short cut to winning, always looking for a way to make a buck, always seeking happiness without putting in the hard work it takes to achieve that satisfaction of knowing that we have done it the right way. The real heroes in America are the hard working mothers and fathers who pass on their values of honesty to their children. Those are the role models we should have our kids look up to.

How to Dispute a Credit Card Charge

By Jason Alderman

Have you ever ordered something online that was delivered damaged ' or never arrived at all? Or been double-billed by a merchant? Or spotted a charge on your credit card statement you didn't make? Most of us have.

Fortunately, the 1975 Fair Credit Billing Act (FCBA) protects your rights during such credit card billing disputes. It also outlines the process for contesting charges made to your account. Here's how it works:

First, FCBA protection applies only to "open-end" credit account transactions ' those involving credit cards or revolving charges (e.g., department store accounts). It doesn't cover installment contracts you repay on a fixed schedule, such as car loans.

BILLING ERRORS THAT ARE COVERED BY THE FCBA INCLUDE:

- Fraudulent or unauthorized use of your credit card, whether it was stolen or merchants charged unapproved items to your account. - Charges that list the wrong date or amount. - Charges for goods or services you either did not accept or that weren't delivered as agreed. - Math errors, such as being charged twice for a transaction. - Failure to post payments or other credits. (Note: Report suspected fraud immediately. By law, you're only liable for the first $50 in unauthorized charges; however, most card issuers waive that liability if you report the charges quickly.)

Review all billing statements carefully upon receipt because in order to be covered under FCBA rules, most disputed transactions must be reported within 60 days of the statement date on which the error appeared.

First, contact the merchant and try to resolve the dispute directly with them. If this good-faith resolution attempt doesn't work, you can escalate the process by filing a written report with your credit card issuer within the 60-day window.

The card issuer is then obligated to investigate the dispute on your behalf. They must acknowledge your complaint, in writing, within 30 days of receipt and resolve the dispute with the merchant within two billing cycles ' but not more than 90 days.

Send your letter via certified mail to the card issuer's billing inquiry address, not the payment address. Include your name, address, account number and a description of the billing error. Include copies of sales slips or other documents that support your position.

According to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), you may withhold payment of the disputed amount and related charges during the investigation. In fact, many card issuers may voluntarily remove the charge until the matter is resolved since they are representing you, their client, in the dispute.

If it turns out your bill contains a mistake, the creditor must explain, in writing, the corrections that will be made. In addition to crediting your account, they must remove all finance charges, late fees, or other charges related to the error.

However, if the card issuer's investigation determines that you owe part ' or all ' of the disputed amount, they must promptly provide you with a written explanation. If you disagree with the investigation's results, you may further dispute your claim with the creditor, as outlined by the FTC at www.consumer.ftc.gov/articles/0219-fair-credit-billing. (That site also contains a sample dispute letter and other helpful FCBA information.)

If you believe a creditor has violated the FCBA, you may file a complaint with the FTC or sue them in court.

Hopefully, you'll never have a billing dispute that goes to these extremes. But it's good to know how consumer laws protect you, just in case. •

Today my wife and I were shopping at Costco and I saw a great price and great looking quality of whole New York strip loins. We are having some friends over for the weekend and I thought this would be a great opportunity to show you all how to trim up the larger primal cuts of beef. Once you learn this you will find out that you'll get a better product for less money per pound and get the trimmings to use for tacos or stew.

The Chef

FIRST you'll need a sharp knife and a large cutting board on a flat and stable surface. NEXT remove the meat from the plastic and pat it dry with a clean cloth.

Live, Love, Laugh, Eat

Chef Shafer, Owner/Chef of Depot, Buffalo Fire Dept., and the Downtown Torrance Market Place.

and how to bang them
by Chef Shafer

- ① Begin by removing the nerve from the back of the loin.
- ② Next trim the white fat off the rest of then loin. Do not remove all the fat. You want to keep about a 1/4-1/2" of fat on the steak for flavor.
- ③ Then flip the loin over and trim the bottom of the loin. You want to almost shave the loin as to not remove too much of the meat and only remove the fat and grizzle.
- ④ Flip the loin over again and begin cutting steaks to your desired thickness, or you can roast the loin whole and then carve it at the table.

Southwest New York Steak Rub

For five New York steaks 12 to 15 oz. each
 1/4 cup of each: Ground coriander, Ground cummin, Dark chili powder
 2 tablespoons chopped garlic
 3 tablespoons kosher salt
 3 tablespoons course ground black pepper
 1/2 cup olive oil
 Mix together in a bowl, then coat the steak with the rub and grill to perfection. •

Wowzer Schnauzer

Homer

Hi, my name is Homer and I am a four year old, male, Miniature Schnauzer mix. To some folks I may not be the best looking guy, but with my smile and winning personality I know I'm going to make some family very happy. MSFR (Miniature Schnauzer & Friends Rescue) heard about the rough time I was having and rescued me from an LA county shelter- they just couldn't turn me away. My physical condition was so bad that we decided not to post the pictures. There were bone deep sores on my hindquarters and all of my legs. Based on the location and type of the sores I had, the Vet told the rescue group that he thinks I may have been dragged. It took a long time and a lot of antibiotics but I'm finally healed and ready to be adopted. I am housebroken, get along with other dogs and love people so what more could anyone ask for. I weigh in at about 25 pounds so I'm the perfect size to play ball, go for walks and be your best friend! Come visit me at the MSFR adoption fair and see for yourself how cute I am.

They call me Chief and I'm a two year old, male, Miniature Schnauzer mix. I'm primarily Schnauzer, only weigh 14 pounds, and I even have a docked tail but I'm a longer legged fellow. My first owner decided he didn't want me so he gave me to some friends. Then they decided that I had to go because they were having a baby and they said I had "too much energy". The MSFR folks say I'm skittish (not aggressive I cover a little bit) but they don't think I'm too energetic. Considering all that I've been through, who wouldn't be a little skittish. Four months after I was rescued, the MFSR people found a home for me but I was returned. I liked the family but I got lonely and barked when they left me alone. It's called separation anxiety but I do much better when I have a doggie pal to play with and keep me company. I'm sure hoping that someone will just give me a fair chance. I'm looking for a family (that has a dog) to adopt me and let me know that they'll give me the same unconditional love that I'll give them. Come to the MSFR adoption fair and I'll show you what a really great guy I am.

It's Peyton here and I am a six-year-old, purebred, male, Miniature Schnauzer, who was rescued from a LA county shelter after someone found me and turned me in as a stray. I had a microchip but my owner didn't take the time to register it so I spent almost a month at the shelter. First, I was on a long hold while they tried to find my owner. Then another hold was placed for a rescue group who must have forgotten about me because they never came to pick me up. To look at me now, you would never guess that I was matted, dirty mess when MSFR rescued me. MSFR took me in and then they gave me a complete makeover, including a dental, which resulted in having 5 teeth extracted. In addition to being told that I have a great personality, I am well behaved and get along great with other dogs. I'm approximately 16 pounds and am anxious to find a forever home. Come to our adoption fair and see what a catch I am!

Hi there, my name is Luke and I am a stunning, black and silver, male, purebred, Miniature Schnauzer. MSFR rescued me from a remote shelter after the shelter rescue coordinator contacted them because they thought I was an older gentleman. I am considered "special needs" because I had bladder stones, which are very common in my breed and I need to be on Rx dog food to prevent them from returning. Shortly after I was rescued blood was noticed in my urine and it was suspected that I had bladder stones. At my Vet check, it was confirmed that I had stones and the Vet also found that I had 8 teeth that were in pretty bad shape. The good news was that he estimated my age to be 6-7 years old, which is younger than the shelter estimate! During my surgery several smaller stones were also removed and those eight nasty teeth were extracted. After all of that, I'm feeling great, looking great and ready to make that love connection with my forever family. I am 22 pounds of endearing personality.

Happy Tails

Congratulations to Snowy and his new family!! Snowy, is one of our long-termers, who was rescued from the Pasadena shelter last November. Snowy and another dog were owner-surrendered at the start of the 2012 holiday season. He is also a special needs boy with eye issues requiring some inexpensive eye drops be given daily. Snowy was recently adopted by a wonderful family who are long-time Schnauzer lovers. They opened their hearts and home to our sweet little guy, who happens to be their third Schnauzer. Their neighbors, who are MSFR adopters, referred them to us and the rest is history!

HE GIVES YOU LOVE.
HE GIVES OTHERS HOPE.

Dogs have to do so little to give us so much. And you can do more by supporting all that the American Kennel Club® (AKC) does. Every dog registered with the AKC helps programs such as AKC Companion Animal Recovery, which reunites lost pets and their owners. And AKC Canine Legislation, working in all 50 states to fight for the rights of dog owners. Other dog registries are for-profit—so you don't really know what they stand for. The AKC is not-for-profit, we're for dogs. And for more than 100 years, we've stood for the love and hope only dogs can bring. Visit akc.org to find out why an AKC registration is the only registration in the USA that matters.
