Gallery Presents “Under the Influence: Both Artist and Collector”

The El Camino College Art Gallery will present the exhibit “Under the Influence: Both artist and collector” through December 13. The show highlights works by artists who collect and whose collecting influences their artwork. Most people collect things, accumulating a little of this and that. These individual artists, however, passionately amass objects that have impact on their thinking and the artwork that they produce. The El Camino College Art Gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays and Tuesdays and from noon to 8 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays. For more information, call curator Susanna Meiers at 310-660-3010. Admission to the El Camino College Art Gallery and gallery events is free. On-campus parking is $2.

Reward Money Renewed in Ongoing Police Investigation

By Cristian Vasquez

It has been more than three years since Crystal Crawford was shot and killed while sitting in her car on the 2900 block of 95th Street. Unfortunately for Crawford and her family, the gunshots killed her and the murderer is yet to be found. In an effort to find leads or tips from the public, the City of Inglewood approved a $25,000 reward to any individual who provides information leading to the identification, arrest and conviction of the murderer.

“The request coming in from the detectives is an effort to solicit any potential new leads in this tragic incident,” Inglewood Police Chief Mark Fronterotta said. “Initial funds were allocated out of asset forfeiture, which we never used, so they were still there. Since we didn’t use it [reward money], we just wanted it renewed.”

So far leads have not allowed investigators to come closer to solving the murder, but the police department and the City, which unanimously approved the reward money, hope that the monetary offer will encourage anyone with information to come forward. “We actually don’t want these types of crimes taking place in the city of Inglewood,” Councilwoman District No. 2 Judy Dunlap said. “We actually want people to believe that if they commit these types of crimes that they will be caught because someone will turn them in.”

Dunlap referred to past proposals that would increase the reward money from $25,000 to $50,000. However, there have always been barriers to such moves and there have even been concerns among the residents about the effectiveness of using money as an incentive for the police department to solve crimes. In particular with this case, there were concerns about the source of the reward money and why a new offer had to be made. However, Chief Fronterotta explained that all rewards offered and approved by the police department have a shelf life of one year, at which point the reward money can be reapproved.

“Throughout our entire history, I don’t city committing these crimes,” she said. “I want them to believe if they come within the boundaries of the city of Inglewood that they would be caught, that they will be prosecuted and that they will go to jail. So I would like for us to consider upping the reward since the asset forfeiture money is being held.”

For Dunlap, these rewards are not a burden to the City since the funds are made available from a very specific source. “I understand

“In an effort to find leads or tips from the public, the City of Inglewood approved a $25,000 reward to any individual who provides information leading to the identification, arrest and conviction of the murderer.”

think that we have paid out a single reward,” Dunlap said. “If it was a $50,000 reward, can people turning some in relocate? Everyone in this audience is a realist and you know that if you turn in someone who is in a gang, you or your family are at risk and may need to relocate. Someone can relocate with $50,000.”

The police department will use asset forfeiture funds to pay off this specific reward once information leads to a successful arrest and prosecution. Fronterotta indicated that currently there are five active rewards being offered by the department as part of ongoing investigations. For Dunlap, the City and the department should do more to make these rewards a proper incentive to solve investigations and curb crime. “I for one do not want people coming into the

that in all of our years we have not paid out a reward,” she said. “So it is not like all of a sudden we are going to have a run on reward money--which would actually be a good thing because it would mean these people would be caught, brought to justice and not left out on our streets committing other crimes.”

In addition, the Councilwoman requested a compilation of all the active rewards being offered as well as those that have become inactive in order to determine why they have not been renewed. “Last time we had a reallocation of a reward brought before this body, I requested a list of those rewards we had on the books currently and their expiration dates,” Dunlap said. “I have not currently received that information.” •

Bruins Pricked by the Rose

By Adam Serrao

Rick Neuheisel or Jim Mora? A 50-0 shellacking at the hands of USC or a 38-28 victory? The fact remains that the differences between this year's UCLA football team and last year's are numerous. Perhaps no sign of this team's turnaround is more telling, however, than its appearance in last week's Pac-12 championship game. Although they fell to Stanford in what was UCLA's second loss in as many weeks between the two clubs, the Bruins can be proud that they won their division this year based on superiority and an outright division win. That same superiority has the UCLA Bruins believing that the top of the division is where they belong and that with Jim Mora as their head coach, they can now begin to construct a winning legacy in Los Angeles and within the Pac-12.

The season wouldn't have ended any better for the Bruins than if they were able to play in a BCS bowl game right here in their very own backyard at the Rose Bowl. Unfortunately, the Stanford Cardinal had to ruin that dream for the other boys in blue of Los Angeles, but alas, all has not been handed his walking papers before the season had officially concluded. This season felt different, though. "This year, all 12 teams in the Pac-12 were able to get in and we did it," said safety Tevin McDonald. "We were not the ones expected to get in, but we did it through the front door, so that feels good." The front door that McDonald speaks of is in stark contrast to last year's second place finish in their conference. Not only was USC ineligible, but the Bruins needed a miracle as Colorado upset Utah on the final game of the season in order for UCLA to get to a championship game against Oregon. This year, they deserved it. The Bruins expect to keep their streak alive and become perennial contenders in the Pac-12 championship game for years to come.

These UCLA Bruins may not only be the comeback team of the year in their conference, but also in the nation. After a 6-8 season last year in which they lost their head coach, the team came within three points of a BCS bowl game. Surely, that is the next accolade that both Mora and the Bruins hope to achieve. After what may have lost. The Bruins battled Stanford (one of the nation's top teams this year) and lost by only three points in the championship game at Stanford Stadium. In the process they not only put themselves on the national radar, but also gained credibility as a program. "There's a lot of tears and a lot of disappointment, but I think they should be proud of what we accomplished," said first-year UCLA head coach Jim Mora. Without any disappointment, however, there would be no added motivation. This was UCLA's first year of relevance in a long time and it will go far to inspire the club onward to future successes.

"There's a lot of tears and a lot of disappointment, but I think they should be proud of what we accomplished."

In a preseason in which their cross-town rivals, the USC Trojans, were projected to be the number one team in the nation and UCLA was picked to finish third in their division, the Bruins came out with an attitude and sense of determination that was previously nonexistent on the club. "Last year, we were hoping for other teams to lose, hoping for other teams to win, hoping for the sun to rise and set at a certain time," said UCLA's tight end Joseph Fauria. "This year, there is no doubt." Part of the reason why there was no doubt was because coach Mora brought a new attitude and resolve to the club that was otherwise out of it last year. Even former coach Neuheisel was been the worst season in school history, the Bruins responded under Mora with a nine-win season for only the second time since 1998, defeated USC for only the second time since '98 and in the process gained respect around the nation. With Mora and standouts like senior running back Johnathan Franklin and a stellar performance all year long from quarterback Brett Hundley, it won't be long before other top recruits from around the nation begin to strongly consider UCLA as a destination to play football--maybe even over the customary powerhouse, USC.

In what was easily UCLA's best season in more than 10 years, despite their loss to Stanford in the championship game, it has become extremely apparent that the culture of mediocrity that has previously surrounded the team from Westwood has now been completely dissipated. Now, a new sense of discipline and accountability has been created around the football field for the Bruins--and with it the possibilities for the team have become endless. The traditional attitudes that had previously held this team back are gone now and although the Rose Bowl and BCS championship game still loom ahead of them, this season may have just begun a culture that will one day have the Bruins standing atop all of college football. •

Lawndale Falls in Mira Costa Final to Brentwood Again

By Joe Snyder

For the second consecutive time, Lawndale High's boys' basketball team lost in the Mira Costa Pacific Shores Tournament championship game to Brentwood. Last Saturday's final score was 76-65. The Cardinals (3-1) entered the fourth quarter holding a 53-49 lead, but saw the Eagles outscore them 27-12 in the final period to pull off the 11-point victory.

The fourth quarter saw Lawndale get into foul trouble as Brentwood converted on 12 of 16 free throws just in that period. The Eagles made nine consecutive charity shots down the stretch to pull away. The Cardinals led throughout most of the first three quarters and were up by as many as 10 points midway in the third period. Lawndale led by eight (38-30) at halftime.

The Cardinals were led by all-tournament players Will Newman with 27 points and Chimezie Metu with 15 points--12 of those in the second half. Nathan McAnally added 14 points.

The tournament's Most Valuable Player was Brentwood's Leland King, who had a game-high 29 points and 14 rebounds. King already committed to Ivy League college Brown University. Lawndale also lost to Brentwood in the Mira Costa final last season.

In the championship semifinals last Thursday, Lawndale rolled over a young and inexperienced Morningside team 59-37. Myron Phillips led the Cardinals with 11 points, followed by McAnally and Newman with 10 points apiece. Newman also had four steals and one blocked shot.

The Monarchs (1-3) were led by James Brown with 10 points and 13 rebounds and Gary Baldwin with 10 points. The Monarchs ended up sixth in the eight-team classic with a 49-48 loss to Wilmington Banning on Saturday.

Leuzinger Finishes Fourth in Rose Classic

Leuzinger High's boys' basketball team placed fourth in last week's Rose City Classic at Pasadena High School. The Olympians started the tournament on November 27 by rolling over Sylmar 76-48, and then downed Renaissance Academy from La Canada 46-28 last Thursday. Leuzinger then lost in the championship semifinals to Woodland Hills El Camino Real 50-36 on Friday and to Los Angeles Price Christian 60-55 in the third place game on Saturday.

In the Olympians' win over Sylmar, Eric Childress led with 15 points and eight rebounds. Stephan Nathan had a team-high 16 points and Deonte Welch chipped in 12 points. In Leuzinger's victory over Renaissance Academy, Childress sparked the Olympians with 12 points and four steals. Deonte Welch contributed eight points and eight rebounds. Da Von Abner had eight points.

Against El Camino Real, Leuzinger (2-2) was led by Childress with 21 points, five rebounds and four steals. Justin Delgado tallied eight points and six rebounds and Treyvion Anderson totaled eight points.

Growing up in an Italian neighborhood in New York, you learned to love pasta. It was a part of the meal as well as the culture, and without pasta at a Sunday meal, life would not exist. Pasta came in hundreds of different forms. From the simple but all important red sauce, or succo, to the most delicate raviolis that only a mother or grandmother could make. But my favorite, even to this day, is Pasta Aglio, or pasta with olive oil and garlic. This simple pasta can be so comforting to me or so revolting depending upon the method of preparation. You must roast the garlic perfectly. It can turn out to be over powering if it's under cooked or bitter if over cooked. You will need to be ready with all your ingredients before you even get the pan hot! Follow this one... maggia la faccia {feed your face}

The Chef

Pasta Art

- 1 pound thin spaghetti or linguini
- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 2 tablespoons chopped garlic
- 1 teaspoon crushed dried chilies
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1/2 cup chicken broth
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 to 2 cups fresh parmesan

Blanche the pasta then cool it down. In a large hot sauté pan add the oil, then the garlic and quickly stir the garlic until golden brown. Add the chilies and pasta and stir together. Then add the stock and heat the mixture. Lastly, add the butter, salt, and pepper then serve with the parmesan cheese.
