ECS Green Ambassadors Conduct Business Audit

Environmental Charter Schools's "Green Ambassadors" – students with an interest in environmental education – visited the offices of Dogearred, a jewelry company, to audit Dogearred on its sustainability practices related to energy use, waste, water use, and community culture. Tenth grader Vanesa Iñiguez gave sound advice as a junior consultant, "Start small, so you can see changes right away, while the bigger changes are being implemented." Residents Fired Up About Illegal Fireworks

By Derrick Deane

Residents of Hawthorne came to the first City Council meeting of July fired up to address illegal fireworks that were set off in the city leading up to the Fourth of July weekend.

The complaints were highlighted by an impassioned speech by Hawthorne resident Kaya Lorlaman who spoke about combat veterans and the website militarywithptsd.org.

"This is an organization that works with military of all generations who are dealing with PTSD issues. An individual veteran did something that hadn't been done before," Lorlaman said. "He was so frustrated with the fireworks situation in his community that he had a sign made up that said, 'Combat Veteran Lives Here. Please Be Courteous With Fireworks,' and the military members with PTSD saw that sign and it went viral on the internet."

She continued, "This year, they devoted a lot of their funds to having those signs made up for any veteran that requested them free of charge."

Lorlaman and her husband, a disabled veteran, were fortunate to get one of the signs and spent the holiday at home as they were concerned about past events that might paint them as a target by drunk neighbors.

"Two years ago we had neighbors right down the street who we normally get along with really well set off illegal fireworks under our car which led said neighbors to physically assault and batter my disabled veteran husband," she said. "We thought to stay at home this year in case anyone decided to put a target on our address. We were fortunate that the neighbors at the end of the block were respectful and several of the neighbors that are usually problems did not do illegal fireworks. Other neighbors, unfortunately, did."

Other residents also expressed their frustrations with the illegal fireworks that went off weeks before the holiday.

"If it happens on the Fourth of July or New Years, I'm expecting that. I can leave town, I can go someplace and put my dogs in a kennel that is nowhere near a place that has fireworks. But I can't do that for two weeks leading up to each events," Hawthorne resident Hans Phifer said.

One resident called for the council to ban fireworks in the city by the end of the year.

"Leave the fireworks to the professionals," Alan Richards, a Ramona Track resident said. "Our veterans are trying to recover from serving in war zones and our pets are cowering for someplace to hide and are running off because they cannot handle the explosions."

Holly Park resident Darlene Love worked in a fireworks stand leading up to the holiday and said that she was asked numerous times by customers where they could find illegal fireworks. She joked that she started directing people to the Hawthorne Police Department saying, "they have plenty in storage."

She says that one woman had an aunt that went down to Mexico and came back to fill up her garage to sell illegal fireworks for the Fourth of July weekend.

"It's a shame that it is happening, but I don't know how you're going to be able to control it because these people get it long before the holiday," Love said. "Even if you stop those illegal stands, it looks as though it's going to go on."

The fine for setting off illegal fireworks in Hawthorne is $1,000 and Phifer says that, "I would guarantee you that 50 or 60 people on my block alone shot off illegal fireworks. Not one of them got a fine."

He continued, "That's $50,000 that the city did not collect through fines. That's just my block and I represent a very small block. I do not want to endure another Fourth of July or New Years Eve of something that has been illegal for a very long time and that is not being enforced enough to make it stop."

Lorlaman ended her statement to the council with the story about two brothers, one a veteran suffering from PTSD, who had a tragic holiday.

"A lot of people have the attitude that veterans should just suck it up for that day," Lorlaman said. "There were two brothers who spent the holiday playing pool. The fireworks started and the veteran brother got triggered. The non-veteran brother went to start playing some music to distract his veteran brother from the PTSD problem. As he was starting up the music to play, the veteran brother walked in and said to his brother, 'I love you,' and then blew his head off."

Councilmember Alex Vargas did not have any comment on the fireworks issue, but rather proceeded to move on to discuss at length a matter of removing a three-hour parking restriction on Hawthorne Boulevard.

Toward the end of the meeting, Councilmember Angie Reyes English briefly addressed the matter calling for a study to look at call-ins to the police department and to see what changes can be made to better enforce the laws.

"We need to look at and quantify the complaints from the constituents," English said in what amounted to a passing acknowledgement to the matter.

Mayor Pro Tem Olivia Valentine also addressed the issue saying that the council and the city manager should coordinate with the police commissioner to assess the matter.

"I think there have been enough complaints that we should have a serious discussion about it," Valentine said, stating that there have been many complaints from citizens.

"There were fewer fireworks set off on July Fourth than the two weeks leading up to it," Valentine said.

Mayor Chris Brown and Councilmember Nilo Michelin were absent from the meeting. •

Chevron Announces $1.3 Million Investment in South Bay Schools

“Fifteen School Districts and Non-profits receive STEM grants”

Frank Semancik presents Tom Jonstone from Wiseburn with $65,000.00 check

EL SEGUNDO, CA – Chevron completed today a month-long series of “Energy for Learning” grants totaling $1.3 million distributed to sixteen school districts and other non-profit organizations in the South Bay. The grants represent funding for local Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM)-related education programs.

The $1.3 million contribution is a reflection of the Chevron El Segundo Refinery’s ongoing support for education programs in the South Bay, and in recognition of the facility’s 104-years in El Segundo.

“We believe education is the cornerstone of our state’s competitiveness,” said Frank Semancik, General Manager, Chevron El

Segundo Refinery. “Helping students and teachers get the resources they need to take advantage of every opportunity STEM offers is a key responsibility of the business community, and we are extremely proud of our history in this role.”

Among the grant recipients is Hawthorne School District which will direct the grant funds to support the implementation of the Next Generation Science Standard (NGSS) in 7th and 8th grades at two of their middle schools. “STEM programs and increased student achievement are a top priority,” said Hawthorne School District superintendent, Dr. Helen Morgan. “

Several of the other school districts, including DaVinci Schools and El Segundo Unified for example, will use their grants to advance Project Lead The Way Engineering pathway programs.

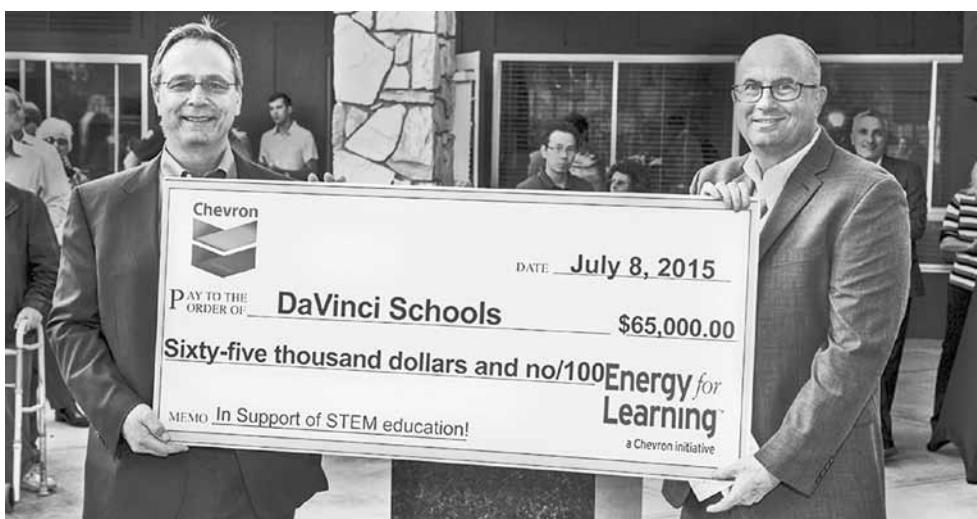

“The economic growth of California is dependent upon quality education for students,” said Dr. Melissa Moore, superintendent of El Segundo Unified School District. “Allowing our schools to emphasize STEM curriculum helps us build a promising future.”

The number of STEM jobs is estimated to grow at twice the pace of all other jobs through 2018 and currently 20% of all US jobs – 26 million positions – require knowledge in at least one STEM field.

Schools and programs supported by the $1.3 million Chevron grants include:

- California Academy of Math and Science
- California Science Center
- Centinela Valley Union High School District
- Da Vinci Science Academy
- El Segundo Unified School District
- Environmental Charter High School
- Hawthorne School District
- Hermosa Beach City School District
- Lawndale Elementary
- Manhattan Beach Unified School District
- Project Lead the Way
- Redondo Beach Unified School District
- Roundhouse Aquarium Oceanographic Teaching Station
- SoCal Roc
- Wiseburn School District •

From City Clerk Norb Huber HISTORIC TOUR OF

HAWTHORNE – THIS FRIDAY

The Hawthorne Historical Society will be conducting a tour of historic sites in Hawthorne this Friday starting at 3 p.m. Hall of Fame Banquet ticket holders will be allowed to go on the tour for free. Others will be charged $10. The tour will last approximately 2 hours. Some trivia that you may visit on the tour will include: The church where Sonny Bono was married, New Hampshire Street where Miss Monroe was a foster child, a swivel arm that is well known amongst train fanatics, the site of a hotel where the "black widow" airplane got its name, site of the first Hawthorne city council chambers, and the birthplace of the most popular, American band of the past half century. These and many other interesting places will be part of this first ever tour. If you would like to join us, please contact me at 310-292-6714.

HALL OF FAME BANQUET – FRIDAY

The second annual Hawthorne Historical Hall of Fame Banquet will be held on Friday, July 17 starting with a social hour at 6 p.m. This year the banquet will be over at the Memorial Center's Venus Room. Tickets are $30 per person and can be obtained by emailing hawthornehistorical@gmail.com or in person at the Hawthorne Museum. The 2015 Hall of Fame inductees include: The Hawthorne Beach Boys, Reese Walton, Jim Thorpe, Carl Boenish, and Seers Lumber.

Good Neighbors Day – this Saturday

Our 5th Annual Good Neighbors Day will be held THIS Saturday, July 18th in front of City Hall on 126th Street from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The activities include a car show, three great bands performing on stage, vendors from a variety of organizations, and some food and games. If you would like to be a vendor, please email me and we will include you. The cost of being a vendor is $25. The same fee is charged for a car show entry.

Filing Period Begins

The filing period for citizens wishing to run for city council or mayor is now open. It will continue until August 7th. The city clerk's office is open daily from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Please allow at least 30 minutes to have our staff time to explain the procedures of becoming a candidate. There is no fee to submit an election filing. However, if you wish to submit a statement to have printed in the voters guide, the fee is $1,000 for English and $1,000 for Spanish. These fees are optional and are not required.

WORLD SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Thanks to the generosity of Hawthorne businesses, the cost of being a host city for the upcoming World Special Olympics has been mostly covered. We will host 100 special athletes from two different countries, 50 athletes from Nigeria and 50 athletes from Estonia. They will be staying in our local hotels, being treated to special dinners, working out at local venues and participating in some events while they are here July 20 thru 26th. It's great the city of Hawthorne has stepped forward to help out such a worthy cause.

Holly Park Loses Hard Fought Championship to Westchester

By Joe Snyder

The Holly Park Major Little League All-Star Baseball team continued to put up a good fight before falling on the short end of a 4-3 score to host Westchester in the District 37 championship game last Thursday at Carl Nielsen Youth Sports Park.

The game was scoreless until the bottom of the fifth inning when a solo home run by Malik Clayton gave Westchester a 1-0 lead. Just two batters later, Mike Mulligan, Jr. blasted a two-run shot for a 3-0 Westchester advantage.

Holly Park, though, did not give up. It had a homer of its own from pitcher Paco Orozco for three runs to knot the contest at three.

Westchester, though, quickly responded as Brian Dennis drove in the winning run with a single for the title and a spot in the Section 4 Tournament it began to host last Sunday when it faced District 36 champion Manhattan Beach.

"It was a great game," Holly Park manager Karl Rouston said. "The kids never quit. I take my hats off to Westchester. They're a good team."

A day earlier, Holly Park took the championship into the double final with an 8-4 win over Westchester. Holly Park flexed its muscles with three home runs, two of those from Atin Wright who drove in four runs. Martin Palayo added a two-run shot. Winning pitcher Donjae Littlefield went four innings, allowing three earned runs.

After a 5-2 loss to Westchester in a winner's bracket game on July 5, Holly Park bounced back to down Del Rey 9-5 on July 7. Holly Park trailed Del Rey 5-4 before scoring five runs in the top of the sixth to lead for good.

LENNOX MINORS WIN DISTRICT

The Lennox Minor (age 9-10) Little League All-Star Baseball team captured the District 37 championship by outlasting host Westchester 1-0 on July 6 at Nielsen Park. Lennox moved on to the Section 4 Tournament at Rolling Hills Little League. The tournament lasts through the weekend.

The Lennox All-Star Junior (age 13-14) Little League Baseball team also advanced to the Section 4 Tournament after being the only District 37 team in that division. Lennox automatically advanced due to this.

Lennox started last Saturday against District 27 champion Harbor City at the Henderson Youth Sports Complex in San Pedro. If Lennox won, it was to face either District 25 champion North Venice or District 36 champion Redondo Beach on Sunday. Results were not available.

TRI PARK FALLS IN SENIOR FINAL

The Tri Park Senior Little League Baseball All-Star team, which includes players from Hawthorne, Lawndale, Gardena and El Camino Village, lost in the Section 4 final to host Manhattan Beach 4-0 on July 1 at Marine Park.

District 36 champion Manhattan Beach includes mostly players from its 2014 Junior Little League All-Star squad that advanced to the World Series and its seniors are top contenders to advance to the World Series this year.

After beginning with a 10-4 win over District 25 champion Beverly Hills, Tri Park lost to Manhattan 12-0 before topping Beverly Hills 12-9 to advance to the final.

JONES GUIDES LEUZINGER HOOPSTERS

Leuzinger High recently hired recent

Redondo High top assistant coach Arturo Jones as its head boys' basketball coach starting this coming season.

Jones worked the past three seasons with Reggie Morris, Jr., who guided the Olympians from 2002-10, at Redondo (2012-15) and with Morris at Leuzinger from 2006-10. He helped the Olympians capture the CIF-Southern Section Division IA championship over Santa Monica in the 2009-10 season. That squad was led by Delon Wright, who was recently drafted in the National Basketball Association by the Toronto Raptors.

Jones continued to teach at Leuzinger. Jones replaces recently resigned Ali Parvez, who coached the Olympians from 2010-15 and led them to the Bay League crown in 2012 and the Pioneer title this past season. Leuzinger made the Division IIIA semifinals in 2012 and the quarterfinals in 2015. Parvez had a coaching record of 89 wins and 56 losses. He also helped Morris to a California State Division II and Southern Section Division IIA championships in the 2012-13 season at Redondo.

South Bay Workforce Investment Board Assists Job Seekers, Employers and Youth Through Government-Funded Programs

For more than 30 years, the South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) has administered employment and training programs for LA County's South Bay Area.

Within the 11 cities serviced (Carson, El Segundo, Gardena, Hawthorne, Hermosa Beach, Inglewood, Lawndale, Manhattan Beach, Redondo Beach, Lomita and Torrance), the SBWIB accomplishes its goals through partnerships with local committees handling business and economic development, One-Stop locations, performance and evaluation, as well as a Youth Development Council.

Through workforce investment funds, the SBWIB offers dislocated workers with free training programs and job-searching resources. Job-searching equipment, as well as seminars, workshops and job placement assistance are available at the four One-Stop Business & Career Centers (Gardena, Inglewood, Carson and Torrance – effective 7/14/15).

The SBWIB assists businesses through an innovative Rapid Response Program geared towards layoff aversion. Parker Hannifin Corporation's Carson facility is a recent success story. An initial meeting revealed that nearly 60 employees lacked sufficient English skills and were facing potential layoff. A layoff aversion plan was formulated that resulted in the SBWIB approaching a local adult school partner to assess the employees'

English skill levels and set up on-site training. Since September, the affected employees have been attending Business English classes three days a week with several of those individuals now being considered for promotions.

Recruitment assistance, pre-screening of applicants, On-The-Job training and Transitional Subsidized Employment (TSE) are other programs available to local companies and small businesses.

The SBWIB also prepares youth for entry into the workforce by emphasizing education and services that promote relevant workplace skills and experiences leading to industry-recognized credentials and career pathway employment, including apprenticeships. Special emphasis is aimed at the reengagement of disconnected youth through intervention and prevention services.

The SBWIB is one of the highest performing Workforce Investment Boards (WIB) in the state and is often recognized by the California Workforce Investment Board (CWIB) for its achievements.

Continuous collaborations with business, economic development, education, government, labor and community organizations, helps the SBWIB provide a dynamic, efficient and effective workforce development system, ensuring a skilled workforce and vibrant economy in the South Bay Area.

Looking Up

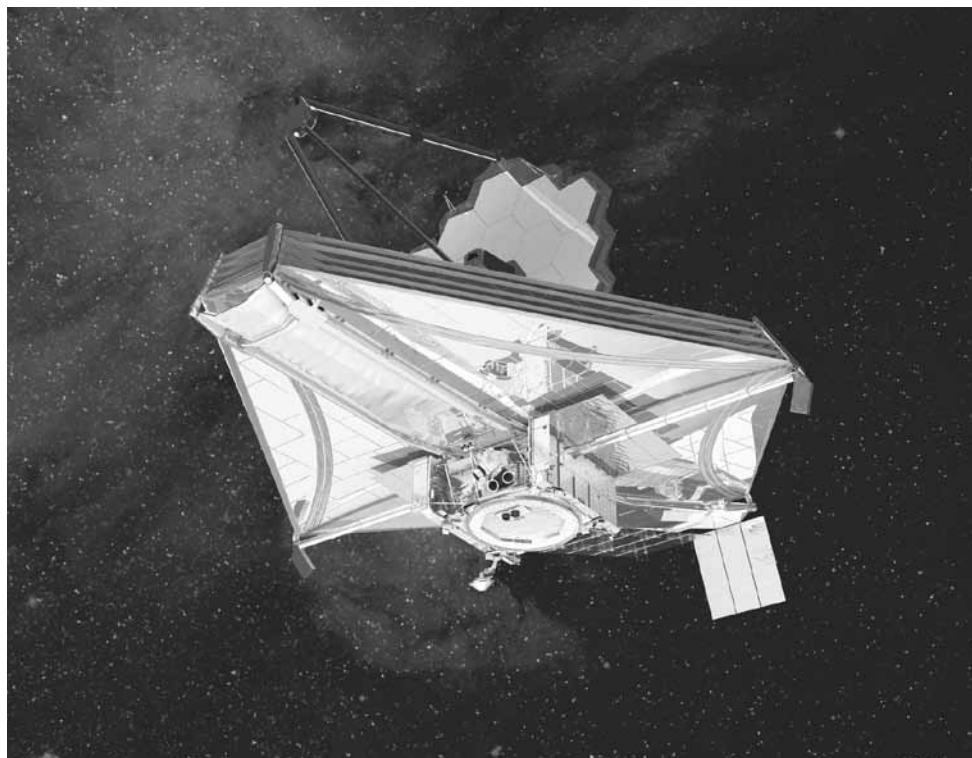

Eyeing Up Earth-Like Planets With The James Webb Space Telescope

Based on press release from Royal Astronomical Society, provided by Bob Eklund

Almost 2,000 exoplanets have been discovered to date, ranging from rocky Earth-like planets to hot Jupiters, and orbiting every type of star. But how many of these distant worlds are habitable? Today's technology means that we currently have very little information about what exoplanets are like beyond their presence, size and distance from star. With the launch of the James Webb Space Telescope (JWST, <http://www.jwst.nasa.gov>), we may have our first glimpses into atmospheres of Earth-like exoplanets, according to the results of a study by Dr. Joanna Barstow, presented at the British National Astronomy Meeting in Llandudno, Wales, UK, on Wednesday, July 8.

"A planet's atmosphere provides a good guide to likely conditions on the surface," said Barstow, of the University of Oxford. "The Earth's atmosphere contains significant amounts of nitrogen, oxygen, ozone and water. By contrast, its inhospitable 'evil twin,' Venus, has an atmosphere made mostly of carbon dioxide, which drives its surface temperature to a blistering 450 degrees Celsius."

A successor to the Hubble Space Telescope, JWST is due for launch in 2018 and will study the universe in infrared wavelengths. Barstow's study shows that JWST may be able to differentiate between a planet with a clement, Earth-like atmosphere, and one with more hostile conditions such as are found on our neighboring planet Venus. JWST will have the capability to detect key markers that could indicate the presence of a climate like our own when looking at Earth-size planets around stars that are smaller and redder than our Sun.

Different gases have already been identified successfully in the atmospheres of several large, hot, Jupiter-size planets by studying tiny variations in the starlight that passes through their atmospheres when they cross in front of their parent stars. However, these variations are minuscule: the light filtered through the exoplanet's atmosphere is one ten-thousandth of the total starlight detected. Studying planets the size of the Earth is an even greater challenge. Although JWST would struggle with analyzing a solar system exactly like our own, it would be capable of studying Earth-like planets around cooler stars—if such a system were to be found.

"If we took the Earth and Venus, and placed them in orbit around a cool, red star that's not too far away, our study shows that JWST could tell them apart. Earth's ozone layer, 10 kilometers above the surface, is produced when light from the Sun interacts with molecules of oxygen in our atmosphere, and it produces an unmistakable signal that could be detected by JWST. Venus, without a substantial ozone layer, would look very different," said Barstow. "That's assuming that planets starting out like Earth and Venus would evolve in the same way around a cool star!"

However, JWST will be used for a wide range of astronomical applications, not just detecting exoplanets, and securing time on the telescope will be highly competitive. To make these detections, astronomers would need to observe the exoplanets at least 30 times, taking valuable telescope time.

"Future telescopes that are dedicated to observing the atmospheres of many rocky planets around different stars will be required to fully resolve the question of habitability on exoplanets. In the meantime, JWST will observe many other weird and wonderful planets in unprecedented detail," said Barstow.

Grape-a-licious Fro-Yo Mini Pies

Makes 12 mini-pies

Ingredients

- 1/2 cup grape juice concentrate (divided use)
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups California grapes
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter, melted
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs (about 9 squares)
- 3 1/2 ounces vanilla frozen yogurt (softened)
- Frozen grape clusters for garnish
- Lemon slices (optional garnish)

Preparation

1. Preheat the oven to 350 F. Line 12 muffin tins with foil cup liners and set aside.
2. In a small bowl, mix the graham cracker crumbs with the butter. Place 1 tablespoon of the graham cracker mixture into each muffin cup and gently press to form a crust in the baking cups. Bake for seven minutes; set aside.
3. Combine 1/4 cup of the grape juice concentrate, lemon juice, and grapes in a small sauce pan over medium heat. Meanwhile combine the remaining grape juice with corn starch and mix well, then add to the sauce pan. Bring the mixture to a boil for one to two minutes until thick. Allow to cool. Once this mixture cools, pour into a blender and blend until smooth. Add the softened yogurt and blend for a few pulses until just combined.
4. Place about 4 tablespoons of the grape-yogurt mixture into each muffin tin. Place in the freezer for four hours or more. Serve with small clusters of frozen grapes and enjoy.
