A Day in the Life of a MLB Chaplain and Pastor

By Nancy Peters

Baseball's nickname is "America's Pastime," and from early April until late October each year, the professional leagues that comprise Major League Baseball in America field their teams to play against each other, some in historical and others in new stadiums around the country. Diehard fans of the game of baseball live by the rituals that surround the game that can never end in a tie and that, although rarely, can actually finish with no player ever getting on base or making a hit.

Fans pray for this kind of scientifically correct and spectacular baseball. With nine players from one team on the field, defending their part of each inning, the other team will send one player to bat at a time, who will either hit the ball pitched, or not. The players and their fans take their game very seriously and Brandon Cash takes his role with the Los Angeles Dodgers pretty seriously, too.

"As a kid, I never in a million years would have given myself the 'dream job' of being the Chaplain for the Los Angeles Dodgers!" stated Brandon, with a huge smile on his face. "I grew up in a household where we were Dodgers' fans, for sure. My Mom, who was a math teacher, did her Master's Thesis and used the math of baseball as her topic with the Los Angeles Dodgers as her model team. I never thought about that coincidence until just now."

Brandon Cash was born and raised in the Bellflower and Los Alamitos areas and was part of a family that attended church regularly, especially since his maternal grandfather was a pastor. As a young boy Brandon loved baseball, but in high school his passion turned to golf. On Sundays, as he explains it, he would sit in church and think about golf. He was awarded a Golf scholarship to attend California State University at Long Beach and the first three years of college golf was important to him.

"Somewhere in between my Junior and Senior years of college, my faith grew to such an extent that on Sundays I was now playing golf, but thinking about church," Cash said. "It was as though God was tapping me on the shoulder, very subtly at first, and pushing me in a direction I didn't expect.

"I applied to Biola University and their seminary, Talbot School of Theology, and in the fall of 1995 I began my training to be pastor. One of my professors was Dr. Joe Hellerman and at that time (1995) he was the co-pastor of the Oceanside Christian Fellowship (OCF) in El Segundo. Dr. Hellerman was one of my mentors and when I was graduating he suggested I apply for a job in family ministry at the church he led. And, I have not looked back."

This full-time pastor shepherds his church on a daily basis and leads his family at home. He married his wife, Courtney, in 1997, and they are raising four children, three girls and a boy, ranging in age from 16 to seven years old.

His upbringing in a Baptist denomination was more legalistic than the Evangelical Free tradition of OCF, but the orthodox Christian values are the same. In the fall of 2000 his role at OCF changed when Duke Winsler, the founding pastor of OCF, resigned.

"My days are busy with meetings at the church. Our regular attendance is about 750 on any given Sunday, when you include children and high school and middle school students. Our staff includes a few administrative assistants, three directors, two full-time pastors, and three part-time pastors. There is always something being planned for the future. We are working on our 'regular' Sunday weekly service, and some kind of special service like baptisms, weddings, and funerals. Leading a church, teaching Bible studies, overseeing programs and services is a full-time job. But when the opportunity came along to be the chaplain for the Los Angeles Dodgers, my fellow pastors and I saw it as an exciting opportunity for our church, as well.

"My Chaplain duties didn't start out with the Dodgers. Actually, a few years before, a church member, who had been with the Edmonton Oilers, joined the Los Angeles Kings organization. He asked me if I'd be interested in helping out with a Bible study with some of the hockey guys. So, for a few years, Peter Miller and I led a Bible study for some hockey players. And then Baseball Chapel, a ministry that appoints chapel leaders throughout Major (and Minor) League Baseball, contacted me about leading chapel services for the Dodgers. I began working with the team in 2011."

Sunday chapel services for both the Dodgers and the visiting team and a weekly Bible study with the players while they are "at home" in Los Angeles is a regular routine. On occasion, Brandon travels with the team to an "away series" so he can be an encouragement on the road while the players are away from their families.

"My 'roster' of players/prayers (read: "prayers") usually includes Clayton Kershaw, Adrian Gonzalez, A.J. Ellis, and Scott Van Slyke. Not only are they brothers-in-Christ, but I'd count them as good friends, too. Courtney and I try to build relationships with the whole family, be there to help and encourage them in any way we can. I don't only serve the team's Christians, though. I am available to any and all of the players, the coaches, the trainers, or whomever is in need of a listening ear.

"I believe God's plan for me included working with sports figures. I am a fanatic for God, but also a fan of baseball. So, combining the two has been a wonderful joy," concluded Brandon Cash.

Making it on base, hitting homeruns or pitching No-Hitters are not out of the question on a baseball field. Every season each team strives for a winning season, to win the pennant, or even the World Series. But with Chaplain Brandon Cash on the spiritual mound for them, the Los Angeles Dodgers win on a totally different playing field. •

Straight Outta Compton is an Impassioned Tour N.W.A.'s Rise to Fame

By Jared Anderson for CINEMACY

Arguably, the film of the moment is F. Gary Gray's Straight Outta Compton. Propelled by an excellent marketing campaign (because, y'know, Dr. Dre was involved) and reverence for the film's subject, the film has stood out in the August box office doldrums. There's always a lot of generalizing about American audiences being "simpleminded," but if a 2.5-hour music drama can be the biggest hit

It's also inevitably self-referential for not only its producers (Ice Cube, Dre, and Easy-E's widow Tomica Woods-Wright) but also for F. Gary Gray, since the production of Friday is included here – he directed that too. This is probably why the film feels incredibly detailed and honest; it offers insight rather than hagiography. There's a real love for hip-hop demonstrated, and Gray especially highlights the creativity and energy of the medium in of late summer, then we're probably doing just fine. Especially when it's one as fiery, comprehensive, and entertaining as this one, millions of fans aren't wrong.

The film spans about a decade of time, from the latter days of the Reagan era right into the median of Clinton's, and chronicles the origins of hip hop group N.W.A. as well as the rise to stardom that follows. One appeal of the film is how it manages to convey the story from the perspectives of the collective's members. The ones most prevalently featured are Eric Wright, O'Shea Jackson, and Andre Young (a.k.a. Easy-E, Ice Cube, and Dr. Dre, respectively). The narrative admirably keeps up with the individuals as it moves along, which gives an intimate quality to the film.

the recording sequences. Equally impressive are the N.W.A. concert scenes in the first half, which recapture a couple of the group's performances – including an infamous Detroit show that provoked a riot.

Straight Outta Compton is strongly acted across the board. Jason Mitchell and Corey Hawkins shine as E and Dre, as does O'Shea Jackson Jr. in portraying the ferocious talent of his father Ice Cube. Also excellent is the always-reliable Paul Giamatti as N.W.A. manager Jerry Heller (playing the snooty musician's manager for the second time this summer). And for the aforementioned run time, it zips along surprisingly well. It's absolutely one film that deserves the hype. Straight Outta Compton is now playing in theaters everywhere. •

LA County DPSS in Partnership with SBWIB Offers Transitional Subsidized Employment Program

The South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) is reaching out to businesses, public agencies and nonprofit organizations throughout Los Angeles County to take advantage of the Transitional Subsidized Employment Program (TSE) that provides entry-level employees, whose wages in some cases can be fully subsidized for up to eight months. These employees' wages, taxes, and Workers Compensation costs are covered by the SBWIB, which serves as the employer of record.

The LA County DPSS GAIN Program recruits and screens job applicants who are then referred to participating career centers and eventually get interviewed by potential work sites which makes the final determination of hiring and training them. Entry-level employees hired by nonprofit and public/governmental agencies receive the minimum wage and can work up to 40 hours/week for an eight-month period. The employer then has the option to retain the employee or not.

TSE employees selected by private for profit businesses are fully subsidized for the first two months while the employer provides them with job skills and other training to help them succeed. During the next four months the employer hires them for on the job training and can receive a monthly subsidy up to $550 per employee. After the four months the business retains the worker on their staff. Interested employers wanting to sign up for the TSE Program, or needing further information should contact Teresa Akins or David Nelms at the SBWIB GAIN Unit at 310-970-7796.

Five Ways To Make Your Home Office Efficient And Productive

(BPT) - Working from home is a growing trend, with 3.3 million people telecommuting at least half the time, according to the 2012 American Community Survey conducted by Global Workplace Analytics. The cost savings for not having to commute, being able to work in the comfort of your own home and having fewer distractions are all benefits to setting up a home office.

If you're working from home full-time, or just one day a week, having your home office designed for increased efficiency is important. Here are some tips for layout and design so you can enjoy spending time at the office - while at home.

• Make it a comfortable space - A comfy work chair, space to pace if you like to walk while chatting on the phone, a clear desk space dedicated to work-related materials ... all of these elements are important for designing an efficient home office. Just be careful you don't get too comfortable. For example, a bean bag instead of a chair doesn't provide a professional ambiance, and that can reduce your productivity.

• Install good lighting - You can put a home office anywhere in the house, including the basement or garage if these areas are temperature-controlled. To help ensure that it's an enjoyable space in which to work, install quality lighting. Even if you have a window, you'll need good quality lighting on cloudy days so you can boost your mood, energy and productivity.

• Have efficient technology - The company office will likely have copy machines to sort, print, staple and even email documents for you. When you work from home, you need a printer that provides you with quick, quality prints, preferably without having to spend a lot of money. The Canon MAXIFY MB2320 Home Office Inkjet Printer holds a full ream of paper in the paper tray and delivers a high-page yield with its XL ink tanks. The MAXIFY MB2320 printer is built to last for all your home-business needs and is supported by Canon U.S.A.'s 100 percent U.S.-based customer service and support.

• Connect with the outside world - Just because you're working from home doesn't mean you won't be working consistently with others. A strong Wi-Fi connection is a necessity for a home office. Wi-Fi connectivity will allow you to work in your home office, and also anywhere in your home. Additionally, a quality headset for your phone or cellphone will allow you to communicate with co-workers and clients without forcing them to compensate for the background noises in your home, like your washing machine or barking dog.

• Keep it homey - Office furniture, by its nature, is very industrial; and you don't necessarily want your home looking that way. Decorate your office like you would the rest of your home. For example, if you need to store files, instead of using a file cabinet, tuck them into a cedar chest or an ottoman. And for drawer storage, consider incorporating other home furniture like a buffet or a wardrobe to keep everything handy - as well as hidden when you're not working.

Working from home isn't just for entrepreneurs any more, as technology is making it very easy for employees of companies of all sizes to work away from the office. If your home office is arranged so you can work efficiently and comfortably, you'll enjoy the benefit so much more. •

Morningside Outlasts Leuzinger in Season Opener

By Joe Snyder

Morningside High's football team opened the season with a 48-36 win over Leuzinger High in a non-league game last Friday at Coleman Stadium in Inglewood. The Monarchs were led by Adarrus Wilson, who scored two touchdowns, including a game-clinching 50-yard interception return.

Morningside started fast with a 34-6 third quarter lead before seeing the Olympians rally to grab a 36-34 advantage midway in the fourth quarter when running back Lionel Smith scored on a 10-yard run. Charles Akanno came back and gave the Monarchs the lead for good on a three-yard touchdown run with about four minutes left. Wilson, then, sealed the game on his scoring interception.

Wilson, also a CIF-Southern Section sprint qualifier in track and field, added a 90-yard kickoff return. Smith scored three TD's on runs. The Monarchs visit CIF-Los Angeles City Section school University Friday at 7 p.m.

Things will not get much easier as the Olympians host defending Ocean League champion El Segundo at the same time. The Eagles lost most of their top players from last season, including premier quarterback Lars Nootbar, who is now at University of Southern California on a baseball scholarship, but El Segundo, under a very good head coach in Steve Shevlin, will continue to be very tough and a top contender for the league crown.

CARDINALS SEEK OCEAN CROWN

Last year, along with El Segundo, Lawndale High joined the Ocean League and the Cardinals had one of their best seasons in their second stint (2002-date) of the school by placing second in league behind the Eagles.

Lawndale advanced to the CIF-Southern Section Western Division playoffs against eventual champion Palos Verdes. The Cardinals pushed the Sea Kings to the limit before falling on the short end of a 35-28 score. P.V. won the crown by topping a very good Ventura team 32-24 on the road.

The Cardinals will be highlighted by fourth-year starting varsity quarterback Chris Murray. If he keeps his success, he should have an outstanding season and hopes that he'll be heavily recruited by Major NCAA Division I colleges. Last year, Murray combined for more than 2,000 yards passing and rushing as he dominated several teams. When he passes, he will have two targets in all-around player Bryant Perkinson and Boise State University-commit wide receiver-defensive back Jaylen Walker. Both are also returning all-league seniors.

Quarterback Chris Murray prepares to throw to a receiver during a Lawndale football game last season. The Cardinals open the season at home against South Torrance Friday at 7 p.m.

According to first year head coach Travis Clark, Perkinson will be used a running back, wide receiver and defensive back. Senior running back Zach Cooper will lead Lawndale's ground attack.

"At this part, things are working," Clark said. "We're trying to change the culture."

Lawndale begins the season Friday at home against South Torrance, a team that the Cardinals played against in the Pioneer League up until moving to the Ocean last year. Last season, the Spartans placed fourth in the highly competitive Pioneer League before falling to Ventura in the first round of the Western Division playoffs.

South should continue to be very competitive in the Pioneer with 11 returning starters, led by a very experienced quarterback Gabe Zuniga.

"He's a good player," Clark said of Zuniga. "He's real dangerous."

It will definitely be a good match-up between Zuniga and Murray. Zuniga has two very good receivers in returning starters Carl Richardson and Noa Harrison. South's defense is led by returning all-Pioneer League defensive back Tanner Thompson.

HAWTHORNE SEEKS TO MOVE UP

Over the past several seasons, Hawthorne High's football program has gone through a dark age but it hopes that it can finally pull through for a better season. The Cougars are getting some hope with key returning starters in senior running back-strong safety Benjamin Del Gado, senior wide receiver-free safety Jaylen Morgan, junior offensive lineman David Gonzalez and junior wide receiver-cornerback Marte Matu. Matu is also a candidate for the starting quarterback, along with junior Redondo transfer Andrew Kalenski.

"We're mostly junior dominated," Hawthorne head coach Donald Pysinger said. "We only have eight or nine seniors. We have some experience. We'll keep working. We're still learning."

Hawthorne opens its season at home against Lynwood Friday at 7 p.m.

SENTS BEGIN UNDER NEW COACH

Inglewood High's football team starts its season at home against Laguna Hills under new head coach James Sims Friday at 7 p.m. The Sentinels lost head coach Jason Miller and top assistant James Durk, who opted to move to Dominguez High in Compton. Along with them, Inglewood lost several players who transferred to other schools, including some who chose to follow Miller to Dominguez.

Inglewood has just four returning starters but some are good including junior Kevin Lucas, a returning all-Bay League junior. Others are senior linebacker-fullback Roderick Long, senior lineman Eric King and sophomore linebacker-tight end Jerome Cook.

Last year, the Sentinels finished 4-6 overall, including two forfeit losses caused by an early game ending scuffle in a non-league game against North Torrance where most players were ejected and were ineligible to play the next game against L.A. University. Inglewood ended up forfeiting that game to the Wildcats. •

Customized Knee Implants Offer Advantages To Patients

(BPT) - By 2030, the number of people turning to knee replacement surgery to end pain and regain mobility will likely increase to 3.5 million annually, according to the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons. For many patients, recovery from knee replacement surgery is painful and slow, and the results are often not what people expect. Multiple clinical studies have found that on average one in five patients who have a knee replacement are dissatisfied with the result because of pain after surgery or because their new knee feels unnatural.

Seventy-two-year-old Ohio resident Tedd Boomershine went from running daily to having trouble walking and completing day to day tasks. When the pain became so severe it was debilitating, he decided to look into replacement surgery for both of his knees. His doctor told him about his options, including a customized implant from ConforMIS, Inc. called iTotol(R) that is now available for total knee replacements. He liked the idea that the implant would be specifically designed to fit his anatomy based on a CT scan of his knees.

"I had no second thoughts about surgery at all. I wanted to get back to my active lifestyle and enjoy my evening walks with my dog, Stella, again," says Boomershine. "Two weeks after my bilateral surgery with the ConforMIS customized knees, I was walking without the assistance of a cane or a walker and I was able to drive. Now after eight months, my knees are pain free and have total flexibility, my legs are straighter, my stride is better and

I no longer have lower back pain. The best part is that I have been able to resume my evening walks with Stella."

Seven weeks after surgery Boomershine was able to walk to his fitness center, ride the bike and do weight machines and then walk back home, a total of three miles daily. Dr. Dan Dunaway, of Far Oaks Orthopedists in Dayton, Ohio reports that Boomershine's recovery is similar to other iTotol recoveries he has seen.

"Tedd has had an outstanding recovery, which is something we are now regularly seeing for patients who have both total and partial knee replacements with ConforMIS customized implants. Patients are able to get back to their normal routines much faster and with less pain. With an implant that is designed to fit that patient, the surgery often involves less blood loss and we can retain more of the patient's natural knee. This is a major advance in knee replacement surgery," says Dunaway.

Dunaway suggests that all patients ask their surgeon some important questions before making a decision about knee surgery:

- Is a customized knee implant that is designed based on my own anatomy an option for me?
- Could a customized knee mean less pain and a faster recovery?
- Will I be able to enjoy an active lifestyle again?

Wowser Schnauzers

Romi is a little girl who needs lots of love.

We are looking for volunteers to help with our pet adoption fairs which are held every Saturday at the Petco located at 537 N. Pacific Coast Highway Redondo Beach 90277, from noon-3:30 p.m. If you are interested in volunteering and can commit to at least one Saturday a month, please contact us at info@msfr.org. I'm Romi, a three-year old female purebred Miniature Schnauzer who was most likely dumped because my previous owners had a baby. They relinquished me to a shelter because I was "throwing up and had diarrhea" but truthfully, I think I was just having some adjustment issues with the new addition to the family. When the MSFR folks rescued me, they took me directly to their Vet where I had x-rays, and a fecal test done. There were no underlying medical problems, however, I was put on a special diet just to be safe and given precautionary medications. Since being rescued, I have exhibited no symptoms and I'm no longer on a special diet or medications. I've been spayed, had a dental exam, an umbilical hernia repaired and I'm now ready for my new home. I will admit that I am a picky eater most likely because I was an only dog and a free feeder rather than being on a feeding schedule. I'm not a very big girl, only 15 pounds but with my natural ears, docked tail and huge expressive eyes, I am a real cutie. If you are interested in Romi please email info@msfr.org for more information.

If I may, let me introduce myself. My name is Charlotte and I'm a two-year old glistening white female Miniature Schnauzer who is looking for someone to love. The MSFR folks rescued me just as my previous owner was returning me to a LA county shelter. I still can't believe I got returned because their Yorkie was too aggressive with me. What's a cute, little 12 pound gal to do? For six weeks I tried my best to be the perfect "daughter" and who is it that gets dumped? ME!!! I get along very well with dogs - at least those that are civilized to me - but I'm a bit shy at first meeting. Once I get to know you, I'll be your best friend and loyal companion. If you are interested in Charlotte please email info@msfr.org for more information.

Hi there, I'm Linus! I'm a nine-month old male Miniature Schnauzer mix who got lost and ended up at a LA county shelter as a stray. I had some folks interested in me and even had a family that was scheduled to adopt me. Sadly, they must have changed their minds at the last minute because they never came to make it official. The MSFR folks literally came to my rescue and I am so very thankful to them. They always tell me that I super sweet and what a great little (only 14 pounds) guy I am. I'm very friendly with other dogs and love people. I'm not exactly a non-shedder because I'm a mix but you could call me a low shedder because it's not very much. The best news is that when I get groomed I can get a Schnauzer cut or you can just let me go au naturel! If you are interested in Linus, please email info@msfr.org for more information.

Hello - my name is Stuart Little. I am a two-year old male terrier mix who will steal your heart. I was rescued from a high-kill shelter in San Bernardino after what is considered a lengthy stay of three weeks. My personality and temperament made me stand out and I became a shelter favorite in no time. I really am a joyful, sweet, fun-loving, guy. Everyone loves me and I love everyone. I'm very friendly with people and I get along great with other dogs - both large and small. I've got lots of energy and like to play but I also love to lie quietly in a lap to be petted. I'm only 14 pounds and full grown so I won't outgrow your lap and I'm a great cuddle bug! I travel well in the car and I'm crate trained so what more can you ask for? Stuart Little can be seen anytime at Yellow Brick Road Doggie Playcare in El Segundo Call 310-606-5507 or email southbaydoggie@hotmail.com for appointment. •

Charlotte is a little shy at first but soon warms up.

Stuart Little is very loving and wants to play.

Stunning New Images from Dwarf Planet Ceres

Ceres's Gaea Crater, 52 miles long, in a photo taken by NASA's Dawn Spacecraft from a distance of 915 miles on August 18, 2015. Dawn, a project of the NASA Discovery Program, is managed by JPL for NASA's Science Mission Directorate. Credit: NASA/JPL-Caltech/UCLA/MPS/DLR/IDA.

Based off press releases from NASA, provided by Bob Eklund

Striking 3-D detail highlights a towering mountain, the brightest spots and other features on dwarf planet Ceres in a new video from NASA's Dawn mission. The video is available at: <http://www.jpl.nasa.gov/video/details.php?id=1392>

A prominent mountain with bright streaks on its steep slopes is especially fascinating to scientists. The peak's shape has been likened to a cone or a pyramid. It appears to be about 4 miles high, with respect to the surface around it, according to the latest estimates. This means the mountain has about the same elevation as Mount McKinley in Denali National Park, Alaska, the highest point in North America.

"This mountain is among the tallest features we've seen on Ceres to date," said Dawn science team member Paul Schenk, a geologist at the Lunar and Planetary Institute, Houston. "It's unusual that it's not associated with a crater. Why is it sitting in the middle of nowhere? We don't know yet, but we may find out with closer observations."

Also puzzling is the famous Occator (oh-KAH-tor) crater, home to Ceres' brightest spots. A new animation simulates the experience of a close flyover of this area.

The crater takes its name from the Roman agriculture deity of harrowing, a method of pulverizing and smoothing soil.

In examining the way Occator's bright spots reflect light at different wavelengths, the Dawn science team has not found evidence that is consistent with ice. The spots' albedo—a measure of the amount of light reflected—is also lower than predictions for concentrations of ice at the surface.

"The science team is continuing to evaluate the data and discuss theories about these bright spots at Occator," said Chris Russell, Dawn's principal investigator at the University of California, Los Angeles. "We are now comparing the spots with the reflective properties of salt, but we are still puzzled by their source. We look forward to new, higher-resolution data from the mission's next orbital phase."

Ceres, with a diameter of 584 miles, is the largest object in the main asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter. At its current orbital altitude of 915 miles, Dawn takes 11 days to capture and return images of Ceres' whole surface. Each 11-day cycle consists of 14 orbits. Over the next two months, the spacecraft will map the entirety of Ceres six times.

The spacecraft is using its framing camera to extensively map the surface, enabling 3-D modeling. Every image from this orbit has a resolution of 450 feet per pixel, and covers less than 1 percent of the surface of Ceres. At the same time, Dawn's visible and infrared mapping spectrometer is collecting data that will give scientists a better understanding of the minerals found on Ceres' surface.

Engineers and scientists will also refine their measurements of Ceres' gravity field, which will help mission planners in designing Dawn's next orbit as well as the journey to get there. In late October, Dawn will begin spiraling toward this final orbit, which will be at an altitude of 230 miles.

Dawn is the first mission to visit a dwarf planet, and the first to orbit two distinct solar system targets. It orbited protoplanet Vesta for 14 months in 2011 and 2012, and arrived at Ceres on March 6, 2015. •

Walnut Stuffed Cherry Tomato Halves

“Who doesn’t love a stuffed cherry tomato?” Guarnaschelli says. “A mixture of cheese, peppery arugula and juicy tomatoes brings out the great richness of the nuts. Stuffed cherry tomatoes are satisfying without being filling, and make a great alternative to bread-based starters. You can assemble these appetizers ahead of time and refrigerate them until you’re ready to serve.”

Yield: 12 servings
Prep time: 15 minutes

Ingredients

- 3/4 cup fresh arugula leaves, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup (2 ounces) coarsely chopped Fisher Walnut Halves and Pieces, toasted
- 1/2 cup finely grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 teaspoon balsamic vinegar
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon zest
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 36 cherry tomatoes

Preparation

1. Toast the walnuts by placing them in a large non-stick skillet over medium heat. Stir frequently until the walnuts turn golden - about three to five minutes.
2. Combine the arugula with the walnuts, cheese, olive oil, vinegar and lemon zest; set aside.
3. Cut the tops off the tomatoes. Use a small spoon (such as an espresso spoon), the handle of a teaspoon or a melon baller to gently remove the majority of the seeds and pulp, taking care not to pierce the skin. Season the insides lightly with salt. Fill the tomatoes with the walnut and arugula mixture. Serve at room temperature.
4. “For a more Italian experience, use authentic Parmigiano Reggiano cheese in this recipe,” Guarnaschelli suggests. “It’s more expensive than domestic Parmesan, but it has a wonderfully rich and nutty flavor.”
