Medical Debt Rising Along with the Price Tag for Care

By Rob McCarthy

Medical debt is a fact of life for 60 million insured Americans who don't have enough savings to cover the cost of an emergency-room visit or a hospital stay.

If you have your health, you have everything. But, at what cost?

Treatment for a heart condition in a California hospital is going to cost $70,000, though the patient isn't charged the full amount. A bout with pneumonia will result in $70,000 in hospital charges, and a hip-replacement reaches $150,000, according to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services. The most-common procedures could set you back thousands of dollars.

Medical debt has become a necessity for 20 percent of Americans and their families when faced with a health scare or a medical emergency. Half of U.S. adults have no money in savings since the Great Recession, and they're going deeper in debt for housing, education and health care. The price tag for health care has risen 5 percent in a year.

By comparison, medical debt hardly compares with the other consumer loans that people owe their creditors. Today's households owe on average $20,000 in student loans, $103,000 in mortgages, and $3,800 for credit-card balances. The typical amount of medical debt is $1,200.

Still, medical debt is the leading cause of bankruptcy in the country, according to credit experts.

Medical debt - even high balances - won't always show up on a credit report unless there's been a non-payment or a delinquency. Medical debt isn't regularly monitored by the credit agencies because physicians and hospitals don't have a business relationship with them.

The credit-scoring agencies recently placed less emphasis on medical debt, too. The exception is when a patient or family fails to pay a medical bill. Payment history comprises the biggest portion of the FICO credit score, so having a bill in collection seriously damages a credit score. A delinquency can cost borrowers their creditworthiness and subject them to high interest rates.

The company responsible for consumer credit rating is FICO. The San Jose, Calif.-based company has updated its credit scorecard that retailers and banks use to make consumer loans. The FICO 9 version doesn't include owed medical bills for under $100 either.

At the time FICO 9 was rolled out last year, the company cautioned consumers that it would take time for the new credit-scoring system to be adopted by lenders. FICO told consumers with medical accounts in collection not to expect their credit scores to improve immediately.

Some consumer advocates say unpaid medical bills are an unreliable predictor of risk. Some credit evaluators surveyed by the Federal Reserve in 2004 said they remove medical debt collections when they consider an applicant because they often represent disputes with an insurer and aren't a good indicator of loan repayment.

"People are making calculated decisions when taking on a car loan or credit card," says Amy Traub, senior policy analyst at the think tank Demos. "With medical debt, it's your life that's at risk or your child's life. It's a catastrophic event."

FICO isn't the only one giving patients with overdue doctor bills some needed protection. The Los Angeles District Attorney is shielding consumers from aggressive bill collectors in a civil lawsuit that could cost them $10 million.

District Attorney Jackie Lacey, who oversees the South Bay, has filed a $10 million civil lawsuit against one of the nation's largest bill-collection companies for harassing consumers with repeated phone calls and refusing to follow state law. The Riverside, San Diego and Santa Clara county district attorneys joined the suit, which followed consumer complaints to the California Attorney General, Federal Trade Commission, the Better Business Bureau, and Lacey's office.

The civil complaint filed last month in Los Angeles County Superior Court alleges that debt-collection giant iQor of Delaware and Allied Interstate LLC of Minneapolis violated state and federal laws, and consumers' right to privacy. The lawsuit was filed jointly by district attorneys in Los Angeles, Riverside, San Diego and Santa Clara counties.

Even when consumers told debt collectors from iQor or Allied they had called the wrong number, the phone calls persisted, according to the civil complaint. The companies also called people before 8 a.m. and after 9 p.m. and tried to collect debts that had been discharged in bankruptcy. There is no state law that limits the number of calls an agency may make to you. Repeated calls over a short period, which may be annoying or harassing, are not allowed.

Allied has a history of harassing consumers by phone, and the Federal Trade Commission sued the company for similar allegations of harassment and ignoring federal debt-collection law. The company settled with the FTC for $1.75 million and agreed to stop the illegal practices.

The new complaint seeks civil penalties for the violations. Any amount from a judgment would be used for future public consumer protection work.

Consumers who have been victims of repeated unwarranted calls from these companies are asked to call a hotline, 619-531-3115, and provide their information.

John Oliver, the host of Comedy Central's "Last Week Tonight," exposed medical-debt collection practices recently when he forgave $15 million in uncollected doctor bills during a show. He spent $60,000 to buy the medical debts of 9,000 people from a Mississippi company in the business. The debt portfolio was too old to collect under state law.

Oliver highlighted the unregulated nature of medical-bill collection. Individuals in many states can buy and collect debts without a license or any connection to the treating physician or even the medical profession, he told his audience. The collectors often pay doctors a fraction of the bill amount, then demand the full amount from the patients and their families. Oliver said that old medical bills become the property of the most unscrupulous collectors, who threaten lawsuits and violence, in extreme cases.

Oliver's act of erasing $15 million in debt is being called the largest giveaway in television history. •

Hawthorne Happenings

"COFFEE WITH THE COP" NATIONAL DAY

The Hawthorne Police Department started the internationally acclaimed "Coffee With The Cop" in 2006. It has spread to law enforcement agencies around the world. The US Department of Justice now has designated the first Thursday in October as "Coffee with the Cop" National Day. Our HPD officers will be returning to the site of the very first event at the McDonald's on Rosecrans by Costco on Thursday, October 6th. They will be there to talk with Hawthorne residents beginning at 8 a.m. As we know, conversations like this are needed all across our country.

through the cracks. Sometimes without parental guidance, they make wrong choices. Efforts like the Big Brother and Big Sister programs have helped. Schools and individual teachers play a big part in influencing our youth to make right choices. Police agencies have athletic programs to keep youth active in a positive activity. All of these programs will be asked to assist us as we try to make a difference. A "My Brother's Keeper" Summit will be held at Hawthorne High School's cafeteria on Tuesday, October 18th from 6 to 8 p.m. If you just wish to find out what is going on, or want to get involved, plan to attend this very worthwhile summit meeting.

Sexual Assault Prevention Workshop Resolve To Rise will be hosting a sexual assault prevention workshop on Saturday, October 15 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the Hawthorne Teen Center located at 3901 El Segundo Blvd. This workshop is meant for teens and their parents to become aware of the dangers surrounding them. Participants are asked to register in advance by calling 310-973-1091.

PANCAKE BREAKFAST AND E-WASTE ROUNDUP AND SHREDDING EVENT
The Ramona Neighborhood Association is planning a pancake breakfast to be held on Saturday, October 29th at Ramona Park. On that same day, Allied Waste is holding an E-Waste Roundup and Shredding Event at the City Hall's parking lot. Imagine that, all in one morning, you can fill your belly up with some delicious flat cakes and then rid yourself of all of that crap filling up your garage or office.

"MY BROTHER'S KEEPER" SUMMIT
Ever wonder how you can help our community become a better place to live and work? It starts with individuals working together and building bridges of understanding and communication. Hawthorne has taken the challenge with several other cities in SoCal to bring direction to the lives of our young people. President Obama issued a challenge to cities and communities to work in an organized fashion under a program called, "My Brother's Keeper". It seeks to organize all the agencies, organizations and individuals in a united effort to help our youth. Sometimes we see our teens fall

I was called on the carpet last week for not recognizing "National Beer Drinking Day" that was last Thursday. It's funny that "National Coffee Day" was the very next day. So, I did a little Google search for national days right now and I was astounded that every day of the year has at least two or three things to celebrate. Besides being "Coffee with the Cop" national day, Thursday, October 6 is National German-American Day, National Mad Hatter Day and National Noodle Day. There is just not enough space in my column to celebrate every national day here in the good old USA. Of course as you well know, I like to celebrate. Every day is worth celebrating. Every day the good Lord wakes us up and gives us life. Every day we have the opportunity to make a difference in the lives of those around us. Every day we can look at our glass or mug as half empty or half full. (I prefer mine to be full and overflowing, spilling on to the table.) I think some of you need to celebrate, "Be Nice to your Newspaper Columnist Day". I have a difficult job keeping up with this crazy world and giving you all the news that really matters. It really doesn't matter if I miss a few important news stories, misspell a few words, use bad grammar, or even insult my German family members. God loves me and gives me a beer to drink once in a while. So, I declare that every day is National "Have Cold One" Day. Enjoy life, you only have one. (One life, not beer.) •

Summary of Proposed Ordinance 2124

On October 11, 2016 at 6:00 p.m., the City Council of the City of Hawthorne will consider adoption of Ordinance No. 2124, a proposed ordinance amending Title 17 (Zoning) and Adding a New Chapter 17.75 (Alcoholic Beverage Manufacturing) to Title 17 (Zoning) of the Hawthorne Municipal Code to Establish Appropriate Zoning and Development Standards for Alcoholic Beverage Manufacturers (Breweries). Pursuant to California Government Code section 36933(c)(1), the City Council has directed the preparation and publication of a summary of Ordinance No. 2124 as follows: Ordinance No. 2124 regulates the development of "alcoholic beverage manufacturing" uses. In sum, the proposed Ordinance adds definitions, including "tasting room" and "brewery," identifies where uses will be permitted and regulates said uses. Specifically, specified brewery uses will be allowed in C-1, C-2, M-1 and M-2 Zones so long as the use complies with the new Chapter 17.75. New Chapter 17.75 would require site and floor plans, maintenance, screenings for any proposed roof mounted equipment, a security plan, sufficient illumination in specified areas, as well as other general requirements. It would also allow outdoor grain silos and prohibit live entertainment, amplified music and dancing, among other specified prohibitions. The new Chapter 17.75 would also provide that a conditional use permit (CUP) would be required for an alcoholic beverage manufacturing use exceeding 6,000 square feet and tasting rooms exceeding 750 square feet. Uses that are less than the specified square feet would be allowed by right, subject to the limitations contained in Chapter 17.75. A certified copy of the entirety of the text of Ordinance No. 2124, together with the Codes to be adopted thereby, is available in the office of the City Clerk, 4455 West 126th Street, Hawthorne, California, and is open for public inspection. 5 Tips To Protect Your Children From Hidden Dangers Around The Home

(BPT) - Even in the most safety-minded homes, the most serious hazards for children can be hiding in plain sight. Know which unexpected items can be risky, and what to do to prevent an accident.

Many parents feel they know the top child proofing items to check off to keep kids safe - cover electrical outlets, lock kitchen cabinets and secure baby gates on stairs. However, there are other potential serious child safety hazards in and outside the home that sometimes can be overlooked, including windows coverings.

According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), corded window coverings are one of the top five hidden hazards in American homes, with infants and young children accidentally becoming entangled in window covering cords. CPSC, the window covering industry and consumer safety advocates all agree that only cordless window coverings or those with inaccessible cords should be used in homes with young children.

The Best for Kids certification program launched last year by the window covering industry makes it easy for parents and caregivers to easily identify which window covering products are best suited for homes with young children.

The Window Covering Safety Council urges parents and caregivers to follow these six simple tips to help protect children from potentially hidden hazards around the home.

1. Install only cordless window coverings or those with inaccessible cords in homes with young children. Replace window blinds, corded shades and draperies with products that are cordless or have inaccessible cords, such as those marked with the Best for Kids label certification which enables you to easily identify products best suited for young children.

2. Know your plants and which are dangerous if ingested. Make sure to keep these common plants off limits to kids: Rho-dodendron, Lily of the Valley, Hydrangea, Poinsettia, Purple Nightshade, Mountain Laurel, Mistletoe and Water Hemlock. If you suspect your child has ingested any type of garden plant/flower, seek medical attention right away.

3. Keep vehicles locked and keys out of reach of children. According to WebMD, even on a day when it's only 72 degrees Fahrenheit, the temperature inside a vehicle can increase by 30 to 40 degrees in an hour, and 70 percent of this increase occurs the first 30 minutes. Teach children that vehicles aren't safe places to play.

4. Prevent falling accidents from windows. As the summer heat begins to cool, it's time to let fresh that air in the house. To prevent potential falling accidents, open windows from the top instead of from the bottom. Window guards and stoppers are strongly suggested for homes with children under the age of 11. Be sure all are firmly secured and installed properly.

5. Anchor it! Furniture and TV tip-overs are also one of the top hidden hazards in the home, according to the CPSC, which has launched a new safety campaign aimed at reducing the number of deaths and injuries from tipping furniture and TVs.

6. Check before you play. Playgrounds with slides, swings, and other play items of any material that sit in sunlight can cause burns for children - even when it's not that hot outside. Always check the equipment first and don't let children run around barefoot. If your child does experience a burn, seek medical help immediately.

Lawndale Rolls Past Torrance with Strong Offensive Output

By Eric Ramos

Lawndale came into the game looking to make a statement after going on a 3-game losing streak. Sophomore running back Jordan Wilmore rushed for 202 yards on 16 carries while scoring three touchdowns to lead Lawndale to a 56-10 win over Torrance last Friday.

After a Torrance fumble, Wilmore scored on a 4-yard touchdown run to give the Cardinals in 7-0 lead in the first quarter. Wilmore added his second touchdown when he raced 81-yards for a touchdown.

Torrance responded with running back Ethan Meyers 5-yard touchdown run to cut the Cardinals lead to 14-7, in the first quarter.

Wilmore scored his third touchdown of the game on a 5-yard run to give Lawndale a 21-7 lead in the second quarter.

The Cardinals' offense was firing on all cylinders as junior quarterback joined in on the scoring. Hamler scored from a yard out on the quarterback sneak to give Lawndale a 28-7 lead with 4:15 remaining in the second quarter. Torrance took advantage of a Lawndale fumble with a 39-yard field goal by Dylan Perez to cut the lead, 28-10, going into halftime.

With the ground game doing much of the damage in the first half, Lawndale also found success through the air as Hamler connected with wide receiver Hunter Williams on a 6-yard touchdown. Hamler showed off his speed with a 56-yard touchdown run to give Lawndale a 42-10 lead in the third quarter.

Hamler added another touchdown with a 45-yard touchdown pass to Kiandre Witmore and the rout was on. Hamler completed 10 of 12 passes for 152 yards and two touchdowns while adding 111 yards rushing with two touchdowns. Torrance didn't have an answer for the Cardinals' offense.

Torrance was without its starting quarterback Ryan Carroll due to concussion-like symptoms. Wide receiver and backup quarterback Nathan Gottlieb got the start and completed 4 of 13 passes for 37 yards and an interception.

Lawndale linebacker Paulo Bailey scored a late touchdown on a 56-yard interception return.

The Cardinals (2-3) open conference play when they travel to Santa Monica Friday. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m. Lawndale coach Travis Clark will face his old team. Clark coached Santa Monica for six seasons before stepping down and accepting the job at Lawndale.

HAWTHORNE

The Cougars are coming off a bye week before they head into conference play. Hawthorne (1-4) will travel to Beverly Hills Friday for a 7 p.m. kick off.

INGLEWOOD

The Sentinals (3-2) head into league play after a bye week. Inglewood will hit the road to take on Palos Verdes Friday at 7 p.m. •
