Medicare Enrollment Opens the Door for Scammers

By Rob McCarthy

Medicare recipients and their families should be on the lookout for health-care scams and identity thieves who use the open enrollment period that starts Saturday to rip off seniors.

If the phone rings and the caller says he or she is from the Medicare office, just hang up.

Identity thieves will use various schemes to steal seniors' personal and financial information during the Medicare open enrollment period, which runs from Oct. 15 to Dec. 7, says a warning from the L.A. County District Attorney's Office. Con artists turn brazen this time of year.

This can't be said enough. Do not give our sensitive personal information to anyone who calls claiming to be a representative from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

They will come to the house posing as a Medicare sales agent or call seniors to urge them to join a prescription plan or risk losing their health care benefits. They promise refunds or discounted Medicare products, but they're not giving deals. They are stealing personal information, according to the county prosecutor's office.

"Their intended goal is to steal identifying information to apply for lines of credit or to commit Medicare fraud by purchasing items that the victims never receive," according to the alert issued for L.A. County seniors, their families and caregivers.

The con artists will lie to Medicare recipients about the prescription drug benefit. The drug benefit is voluntary, and anyone who says it is required is lying. Medicare Part D is a supplemental policy that a senior or someone on disability with Medicare coverage can elect to buy or not.

"Medicare will never call and ask for your Medicare or Social Security number," officials say.

Since the Medicare system keeps every beneficiary's policy number and personal information, they wouldn't be calling a South Bay resident's home to verify or update the information on file.

Seniors should never give out personal identifying information over the phone or to someone at the front door, authorities say. What if the caller knows the first few numbers of your Medicare account or your checking account? Don't fall for that one either. Medicare doesn't collect on "overdue" medical bills over the phone. They do it by

"Medicare will never call and ask for your Medicare or Social Security number."

U.S. mail, and there's a toll-free phone number for consumers to call with questions about benefits, re-enrollment and billing questions.

Medicare enrollees can review their Medicare coverage options either by calling 1-800-MEDICARE or visiting the web site Medicare.gov.

One in five seniors has been the victim of financial fraud. Con artists use a variety of ways to get the hard-earned savings of seniors, fraud investigators say. Being aware of the warning signs is the best line of defense, especially for those Medicare recipients who may feel pressured to decide about next year's coverage for their health care and prescription drugs.

Federal officials rely on Medicare recipients to fight against healthcare fraud in the system. Medicare and Medicaid lose billions of dollars each year to scam artists.

How do people know if they need to change their Medicare plans?

People in a Medicare health or prescription drug plan should review the "Evidence of Coverage" and "Annual Notice of Change" they receive in the mail from their plans for October. If their plans are changing for 2017, seniors and other eligible Medicare recipients should verify that their plan will meet their medical needs.

Medicare enrollees who wish to remain in their current plan will be automatically re-enrolled in the plan if they do nothing.

Sid Kirchmeimer, author of "Scam-Proof Your Life," calls open enrollment for Medicare a "prime time for unscrupulous salesmen to pressure you to buy supplemental insurance products that will supposedly save you thousands." His advice is compare medigap policies at medicare.gov before buying a supplement policy or signing anything.

Relatives and friends have a role to play in combatting this seasonal fraud. Talk with a relative, neighbor or friend who lives alone about the phone fraud regarding their Medicare coverage. Seniors are most at risk of scams because they're polite and will listen to a crook's sales pitch.

Medicare enrollment opens the door for con artists. The quickest way to slam it in their faces is with a firm "no thanks" and then hang up the phone.

You can give away this advice, just make sure to keep your personal information private. •

"MY BROTHER'S KEEPER" SUMMIT - TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18

Ever wonder how you can help our community become a better place to live and work? It starts with individuals working together and building bridges of understanding and communication. Hawthorne has taken the challenge with several other cities in SoCal to bring direction to the lives of our young people. President Obama issued a challenge to cities and communities to work in an organized fashion under a program called, "My Brother's Keeper". It seeks to organize all the agencies, organizations and individuals in a united effort to help our youth. Sometimes we see our teens fall through the cracks. Sometimes without parental guidance, they make wrong choices. Efforts like the Big Brother and Big Sister programs have helped. Schools and individual teachers play a big part in influencing our youth to make right choices. Police agencies have athletic programs to keep youth active in a positive activity. All of these programs will be asked to assist us as we try to make a difference. A "My Brother's Keeper" Summit will be held at Hawthorne High School's cafeteria on Tuesday, October 18th from 6 to 8 p.m. If you just wish to find out what is going on, or want to get involved, plan to attend this very worthwhile summit meeting.

"BREW-IT-YOURSELF" COLD ONES

I read where there is a brewery in Torrance that allows you to brew your own cold one. The article says that many people desire to know exactly how their beverage is made. To be honest with you, I don't really care how the heck my cold ones are brewed. I really don't have the time to sit around and brew my cold ones. Just give me the glass, mug or stein and fill it up. This whole "brew your own" thing kind of reminds me of taking a tour of one of those big, national brand breweries. While on vacation in the Midwest, all I wanted was the free samples at the end of the tour. The big, Klondike horses are cute, the Miller sponsored race car is nice to view, the bottling processes are interesting, but really after climbing around the brewing warehouses and listening to some cute tour guide chat about the secret ingredients that makes their beer the "king of beers", all I really wanted to do was to sit down and enjoy one of their products. There are those who are fanatics when it comes to beer. A real connoisseur of beer would be a "cicerone". According to Wikipedia, a cicerone is "a person who possesses the knowledge and skills to guide those interested in beer culture, including its historic and artistic aspects". A friend from my church has been a cicerone for years. He and his partners are now opening up their own craft brewery in Gardena. He brought over a "growler" full of their first trial batch of beer. He instructed me on what type of glass to use and how to pour the liquid into the glass. Why so technical? Why make life difficult? Keep it simple. Wake up, go to work, be nice to others, keep your old lady happy, love God, don't get caught with a hot mic on, and finally just relax and have a cold one. If you can't do any of the above, just skip to the last one and repeat it as many times as you need to. Enjoy life my friends, stay thirsty. •

Her main character, Diana Bishop is also a historian that has rejected her witchy heritage in favor for a more normal life in academia. ‘Do Not Resist’ is an Unsettling Exposé of Those Sworn ‘To Protect and Serve’

By Morgan Rojas
for www.cinemacy.com

On Saturday, Oct. 8, three Palm Springs police officers were shot after responding to a family disturbance call, a seemingly routine operation that ended up being anything but. Jose Gilbert “Gil” Vega, 63, a 35-year veteran who was due to retire in December, and Lesley Zerebny, 27, who had just returned from maternity leave after giving birth four months earlier, were both killed as a direct result of their gun-related injuries. As tragic and shocking as this situation is, officer-involved shootings— from both sides of the gun— are no longer isolated incidents, but instead are becoming more commonplace each day. The pervasive question of “how did we get here” worst in others when they are consistently being trained by those in positions of authority that police are “men and women of violence” and “violence is your weapon.” Is it really any surprise then that the first reaction is to turn to military-style protection?

This issue, in general, is a divisive one, and while “Do Not Resist” does side with those critical of law enforcement's tactics, there is no arguing with the facts and numbers it presents onscreen. We see and hear first-hand accounts of police training seminars admiring the reputation of law enforcement in places like Mexico and Russia and acknowledging the use of city-wide CCTV cameras with software that allows the government to track people and objects. It is all extremely eye-opening is what makes director Craig Atkinson's timely documentary “Do Not Resist” so compelling as he shines a light on the reality of American policing today, the militarization of the force, and the effect it is having on the communities they are sworn to protect.

“Do Not Resist” opens on the streets of Ferguson, Missouri during one of the nightly protests following Michael Brown's shooting death in 2014, where tension and emotions are at an all-time high. Atkinson and his camera become a fly on the wall as hundreds roam the streets chanting “No Justice, No Peace” and “Hands Up, Don't Shoot” while police try to control the ever-growing, increasingly hostile crowd. It's these types of scenarios that raise the question of how to ensure the safety of citizens and the officers themselves. Many seem to think that military-grade weapons, armored cars, and other various equipment will make communities a safer place, and since the federal government has given police departments more than $40 billion in military-style equipment since 9/11, access to this weaponry is so much easier.

But who is this benefitting, really? Atkinson attempts to show how citizens disagree with the choice to accept such high-powered weapons for fear that America will become a militarized war zone and in turn, the rights and free will of citizens will come second to an officer's agenda. “More Mayberry, Less Fallujah” one protestor's sign reads. Then there are those who side with law enforcement, claiming that they need these specific weapons, because “at some point, the state has warranted it.” And who can blame the officers for assuming the and a disturbing reality check of what 21st-century American police culture looks like today.

It can all be boiled down to the age-old question: Which came first, the chicken or the egg? In this case, are extreme policing tactics to blame for the citizen's distrust of cops and subsequent violent behavior? Or is the out of control behavior of citizens the reason for such heightened and extreme police security? Attacks on and by law enforcement, in general, is nothing new, but the rate at which it continues to happen is shocking. In the Los Angeles area alone, there have been a number of fatal police shootings in South L.A., Pasadena, as well as El Cajon to name a few. However, there are two sides to the story, and director Craig Atkinson gives us a peek into this issue in this Tribeca award-winning documentary.

Directly or indirectly, we find ourselves at a crossroads right now when it comes to trusting the police. New cases of police brutality primarily against black men, some of whom are found to be unarmed and non-threatening, seem to make headlines every other week and only further perpetuate the stereotype of the “crooked cop.” “Do Not Resist” does not attempt to answer the question of how to solve this problem, rather, it forces one to become aware of the situation that is unfolding in our neighborhoods, affecting our family and friends, and tarnishing our nation. Just over an hour long (any longer would have been incredibly depressing), “Do Not Resist” should definitely be mandatory viewing.

“Do Not Resist” is not rated. 72 minutes. In theaters at Laemmle's Monica Film Center (Santa Monica) and Laemmle Playhouse 7 (Pasadena) on Friday, Oct. 14. •

Hawthorne Rolls Past Beverly Hills In League Opener

By Eric Ramos
Photos by Dirk Dewachter

Hawthorne opened Ocean League play with a dominating 41-0 win over host Beverly Hills last Friday. Senior quarterback Marte Mapu led the way as he threw three touchdowns while the defense shut out the Normans' offense to secure the win and snap a three-game losing streak.

Hawthorne got on the board after Mapu connected with Justice Powers on 45-yard touchdown to give the Cougars a 7-0 lead in the first quarter. After Beverly Hills turned the ball over on downs, Mapu went to work and found Carlos Jacobo for a 40-yard touchdown.

On Beverly Hills' next possession, Jacobo intercepts the pass and races 30 yards for the score to extend the Cougars' lead, 21-0, in the second quarter. Mapu connected with Jacobo again, this time on a 35-yard touchdown to give Hawthorne a 28-0 lead going into halftime.

Hawthorne put the game out of reach on running back Eric Fosters' 17-yard touchdown run in the third quarter. Foster added a 7-yard touchdown run with four minutes left in the game. The Normans were shut out and drop to 0-6 overall on the season.

The Cougars improve to 2-4 on the season and 1-0 in league play. Hawthorne will travel to Santa Monica for an Ocean League matchup Friday. Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

ease as they tallied 536 yards of total offense in a 49-20 Ocean League win over Santa Monica last Friday. The Cardinals were led by sophomore running back Jordan Wilmore who rushed for 247 yards and two touchdowns.

On the opening drive for Lawndale, junior quarterback Jalen Hamler hit wide receiver Hunter Williams in the corner of the end zone for an 8-yard touchdown to give the Cardinals an early 7-0 lead. Hamler added an 8-yard touchdown run on a scramble in which he juked multiple defenders to get into the end zone.

Hamler completed 13 of 22 passes for 185 yards and two touchdowns while adding two rushing touchdowns. Wilmore scored from 3 yards out to give Lawndale a 21-0 lead. With just over a minute left in the second quarter, Hamler hit Amhir Wilson for a 93-yard touchdown.

Santa Monica marched down the field in 33 seconds and Tony Dancy scored from 5 yards out to cut the Cardinals' lead, 28-7, going into halftime. Lawndales' defense held the Vikings to 80 total yards in the first half.

Hamler scored his second rushing touchdown on a 15-yard run to extend the Cardinals' lead, 35-7, in the fourth quarter. Senior running back Justin Whitaker rips off a 42-yard touchdown run to give Lawndale a commanding 42-14 lead with 6:02 left in the fourth quarter. Whitaker finished with 68 yards on eight carries and a touchdown.

Lawndale (3-3, 1-0) will host Ocean League foe Culver City Friday at 7 p.m.

INGLEWOOD VS. PALOS VERDES

The Sentinels got off to a rough start in Bay League play as they were shutout in a 54-0 loss to Palos Verdes last Friday. The Sea Kings held Inglewoods' ground game in check all night, allowing only five total rushing yards while adding two interceptions and three sacks.

On Inglewoods' first drive of the game, quarterback junior quarterback Carlos Hernandez was intercepted by Adison Umrarong. Palos Verdes capitalized on the turnover when Umrarong scored on 51-yard touchdown run.

Inglewood didn't have an answer for the Sea Kings' offense as they were able to score on all nine of its offensive possessions. Inglewood trailed 41-0 at halftime and was never able to get the offense on track. Palos Verdes dominated in every facet of the game.

Inglewood (3-3, 0-1) will look to rebound from the loss when they host Peninsula Friday at 7 p.m. •

Antonio Holley (Santa Monica No. 34) tries to avoid Lawndale's Brandon Turay (No. 42).

Jaylen Stewart of Lawndale lunges at Santa Monica's QB Dariush Sayson (No. 12) as he runs out the backfield.

Lawndale quarterback Jalen Hamler (No. 15) tries to find room to run upfield through the line of scrimmage.

PETSPETS Pets PETSPETS

Purrrfect Companions

Rose

Would you like to add a little love with a new best friend? As with every homeless pet, these kitties are looking for special people who will love them forever in their new home.

Rose is a pretty chocolate point Siamese mix kitten with lots of personality and energy. This very sweet girl loves to cuddle when she's not busy racing through the house with her brother Titanic. Rose and her brother Titanic, are a pair of the sweetest kittens that you will ever have the pleasure of meeting. They are cuteness and love, and will entertain you and keep your lap warm. Rose has taken to the cat wheel that the resident cats use and is walking and running on it like she's running a marathon. With her very energetic personality, she also climbs the cat tree and she carries toys around in her mouth. Rose eats a raw diet as well as high quality canned food and grain free kibble. Rose would love to be adopted into a home with her brother Titanic as the two are very bonded. After having been together for 6 months, it would be a shame to separate these bonded littermates and best friends.

Titanic, or Ti is a super sweet little black kitten, who if he had just gotten the albino gene, would have made a beautiful Siamese, like his sister Rose. Ti's more dominate dark gene made him the cutest little black kitten with a warm and loving personality and gorgeous bright green eyes. He is just as energetic as his sister Rose, a whirling dervish as he races through the house chasing toys or just having fun, he even carries his toys around in his mouth. Ti has taken to the cat wheel that's in his foster home and will run as fast as his little legs will go and will even race into the room when he hears another cat running on it. At the shelter, Ti would likely have been euthanized because he is a black kitten. Together in your home, Ti and Rose will be a fabulous pair of love and entertainment.

Gorilla Monsoon is a very handsome tuxedo kitten. He loves playing with his foster sister, Hillary and they wrestle together all over the house. He was actually named after a famous wrestler and he also likes to pretend he is Rocky Balboa as he will stand on his hind legs and box at toys. When you hold him, Gorilla can't help but purr very loudly. He can be shy when people walk into the room, but warms up very quickly when toys are introduced. He also has the tiniest little voice anyone ever heard, which sounds more like a baby dinosaur than a gorilla. Gorilla would love to find a forever home with his foster sibling, Hillary or into a home with another young cat or kitten to play and snuggle with.

Hillary could easily win the Olympic Gold medal for Best All-Around Kitten. She is just as happy with other cats as she is with people and loves to play as much as she loves to snuggle. When you touch Hillary, she will immediately begin to purr. She will play with anything she can find, whether it is an actual toy or a cap from a bottle, or a piece of thread hanging off the couch. When Hillary is tired, she will fall asleep on you for hours. With her beautiful dilute tortoiseshell, her coat goes well with any furniture and décor in your home. Hillary's favorite game is to chase after that crazy red light from the laser pointer that keeps moving all over the floor. Since she is very attached to Gorilla Monsoon, Hillary would prefer to go to a home with him, so she will have somebody to play and cuddle with.

Roshambeaux was the smallest one in his litter, but that doesn't concern him in the least. What he lacks in size he makes up for in energy and the loudest purr ever. He loves to play and can hold his own with his slightly bigger brother in any wrestling match. Once he trusts a person, he likes to snuggle with you in bed and perch on your chest while you both sleep. Yes, he'll forgive you if you have to turn over at night. Roshambeaux's beautiful brother Lafayette is also available for adoption and they would make a wonderful pair!

Beautiful Lafayette's coat looks like wood grain that has been sanded down to a beautiful swirl pattern, and he has the longest tail ever. Lafayette is more reserved than his lighter orange brother, but once you earn his trust he will snuggle with you and roll over for belly rubs. He loves to cuddle next to his person in bed and can often be found curled up on a chest or stomach in the morning. Lafayette is very playful and likes to explore, wrestle with his brother, and play with a feather fishing pole toy operated by his human. Together, Lafayette and his brother Roshambeaux would make a purr-fect match for your family.

Milkshake is super sweet and cuddly and at the same time, very active and playful. She will often sit on your lap and just purr and wait for you to pet her. She loves to play with all sorts of toys including balls and feathers. Milkshake enjoys chasing other kitties around and even wrestling with them. When she talks to you, you will hear the sweetest meow. Milkshake needs to be in a forever home with another kitty as she just wouldn't be happy by herself. And as an added bonus, she would love to be adopted with her BFF, Lucy.

Lucy is simply super sweet and adorable. She loves to sit next to you in purr. As she gets comfortable, she will sleep next to you and show off her belly so you will rub it. Lucy loves playing with all toys including feathers, balls, and track balls. Wrestling and running around with other cats is one of her favorite activities. After Lucy is worn out, she'll come sleep with you. With her energetic spirit, Lucy
