South Bay Resident Celebrates Her One-Hundred Year Birthday

Estela Rivas-Bryant: Empowering Young Women Through Ice Hockey

By Duane Plank

When I caught up with El Segundo resident Estela Rivas-Bryant for our phone interview, she had just returned from a cooler environment than I had. I was returning on a Sunday morning during the recent Labor Day heat wave from a dive-spot establishment in Manhattan Beach after a cheap breakfast. My vehicle noted that it was 105 degrees outside, which I did not believe. It may have been hotter.

She, however, had returned to El Segundo from participating in a women's ice hockey tournament in Lakewood, where the temperature outside, she said, was 106; hopefully, the Zamboni machine and all the ice-cooling features were working on the ice and in the building. Her squad did not win the tournament, but Bryant, who plays on the defensive side of the ice, seemed OK with the results and was eagerly looking forward to attending a women's professional soccer match with friends, family, and teammates.

Bryant is the President and founder of the Empowerment Effect, a non-profit organization that hosts ice hockey clinics for young women, 7-16. The gals are coached by a staff of volunteers who have mastered ice hockey skills.

So, what is the goal of the Empowerment Effect? "Our mission is to create a safe space where girls can and will be empowered to grow and flourish as confident, engaged young adults.

"Led by strong, passionate women from our local ice hockey community, our objective is to teach valuable life lessons, primarily through the sport of ice hockey, to build a more positive and inclusive society," informs the company's website, www.theempowermenteffect.org.

Bryant has been drawn to the sport of ice hockey for 20+ years. Growing up, she was not exactly immersed in team sporting endeavors, maturing on a farm that raised chickens, and cultivated Christmas trees.

Her parents, she said, were always working. She remembers her upbringing as "going to school, doing your homework, and doing your chores." That, she said, in hindsight, fomented the discipline instilled in her early years, "the best work-ethic that I could have received."

Bryant currently helps produce podcasts for Religion of Sports, a company helmed by footballers Tom Brady and Michael Strahan. As noted, she was raised in the Inland Empire "before it turned into the crazy place that it is now." Her parents had moved to the United States from Mexico; Bryant is a "first-generation" American. Her siblings include an older

Studio Printing's Ed Su on the Importance of Community

By Allison Armijo

One of the defining features of El Segundo is the variety of businesses it attracts. There are realty offices, restaurants, and jewelry stores, all within a two-block radius. You can get a pedicure, grab a burger, and resize your ring all before noon!

But these small businesses are more than just a sales pitch for the city. Each presents a space for the community to grow and thrive, building on existing relationships—and creating new ones—with the people of El Segundo.

This is especially the case for Studio Printing. Starting in the 1990's, the company was originally a graphic design studio composed of three separate companies subleasing space from the El Segundo Herald. During this time, their business focused primarily on creating layouts for advertisements, but they always outsourced work as a printing company. In 1994, Ed Su purchased the business he still owns today.

Four years later, in 1988, the company officially took on the name Studio Printing, shifting its focus from graphic design to printing. But, as Su explained, this transition hasn't always been easy. "A lot of things don't get printed anymore," he said, "But luckily, we still have a good selection of customers who still need that service."

'Speak No Evil' May Be The Most Disturbing Movie of the Year

By Ryan Rojas, Cinemacy

After watching Speak No Evil, I was only barely prepared for what horrors lay ahead in this smart, disturbing and heart-pounding new Danish horror film.

When a Danish family of three vacations in Italy one summer, they are pleased to meet a fun Dutch family at their shared lodging. Bjørn (Morten Burian) and his wife Louise (Sidsel Siem Koch) are excited to bond with the charismatic Patrick (Fedja van Huêt) and Karin (Karina Smulders). It's also fitting that their young daughter Agnes (Liva Forsberg) is also around the same age as the couple's son, Abel (Marius Damslev).

It's a fun affair but the magic of the Tuscany vacation becomes a distant memory when Bjørn and Louise return to their humdrum lives (he's clearly unhappy with his normal life). It's not until a year later when a postcard arrives—a photograph of both families together from their idyllic Italian summer—that their spirits lift. They've been invited by Patrick and Karin to reconnect and spend the weekend at their home; and offer that excites them,

How Many Mice Make an Elephant? and Other Big Questions About Size and Distance by Tracey Turner and Aaron Cushley

By Kristina Kora-Beckman, Senior Librarian, El Segundo Public Library

This week, I'm reviewing a delightful non-fiction picture book, How Many Mice Make an Elephant, by Tracey Turner and Aaron Cushley that combines fun facts about animals, math, science to help kids visualize and quantify concepts such as size and distance. For instance on the "How Many Sandboxes in the Sahara Desert" page, readers find out how much sand is in an average sandbox, an experience most kids can relate to, and compare that to very big deserts like the Sarah, Arabian and Gobi, which most kids probably haven't experienced. Also highlighted on the page are desert facts like rainfall, and temperature, which are inter-persed with funny features such as camels wearing sweaters to keep them warm on cold winter desert nights.

Diverse topics including oceans, forests, space, dinosaurs, sports, icebergs and skyscrapers will appeal to a wide array of readers while unexpected facts such as blue whales' earwax and kangaroos the size of grapes surprise even adult readers. Colorful spreads, playful illustrations and casual writing style pack a lot of info into an enjoyable exploration for students and casual readers alike.

Check out this and other fun non-fiction reads in our youth section, located on the lower level of the Main Library. Don't have a library card yet? Stop by to sign up at the front desk to borrow materials including books, movies, magazines and more! With an El Segundo Public Library card, you can also download eBooks and eAudiobooks, and stream tv series and movies using Kanopy. •

Huber's Hiccups

News for the City of Good Neighbors from an Old Guy named Norb Huber

SOMETHING HAS CHANGED

Something has changed in the last two or three years. It's hard to explain, it's hard to really put a finger on it. But, we all can feel it. We have changed as a nation. The pandemic has changed us. Getting locked down, being forced to stay home, getting paid to stay home, being told not to get too close to others, wearing a mask, getting vaccinated, still getting COVID even after receiving three shots, being told to do this but not that in order to save people's lives. We are worn out. The political divide has deepened; both sides think they are right, both sides think the other side is made up of wacky extremists. No one seems to want to compromise or find common ground. Still, with all of this going on, hundreds, if not thousands of foreigners come to America illegally every day. Prices for almost everything increase, but somehow every man, woman and child has a cell phone to look at morning, noon, while driving, and at night. With so much going on, so many problems to deal with, it seems that we are worn out, we are tired. Some scary questions that need to be answered: Have we lost our will to work hard? Have we lost our motivation? Have we lost our pride in America? Is patriotism looked down upon, old fashion, out of date? The values that we have held onto for so long are being challenged. Do we still value hard work, standing up for America, being a good neighbor to every one of our fellow citizens, showing respect to all including those with a different viewpoint? Do our young folk know what it means to have to suffer and to dig deep to succeed? We all like to be optimistic and look forward to the future with high hopes, but where do we find that energy to keep on going? We might have changed, but God never changes. God was, is and always will be that constant in our lives. He created us, he loves us. God never promises to make America great again, but he can. God never promises that our life will suddenly return to the good ol' days of 2018, but God could. When we remember who is in charge and that same all powerful Father loves us, life becomes much more livable. We can focus on loving others. We can bring ourselves out of the doldrums of post-pandemic lifelessness, and work hard, enjoy life and return to having our cold ones. God chooses us, he wants us to be on his team. Once He passes out the uniforms, we are winners, no matter what life throws at us. Our victory has been secured. We don't have to win big in the playoffs, we are already World Champions! Dear friends, neighbors, loyal readers, Dodger fans, Cardinal fans, yes, even Yankee fans, relax, celebrate, have a cold one!

One Hundred Years Of Goodness

By Ron Sokol

Dorothy is one hundred years young, and I do mean young. She shares that one-hundred-year mark with the fine City of Hawthorne, where she lives, and was recently feted on her birthday by the City. We know Hawthorne as the "City of Good Neighbors". Dorothy is that and more. Spending time with her is like a comfortable spring day: laughter, chatter, and a genuine sense of what counts.

Born on a farm in New Brunswick, Canada, in 1922, she enjoyed farm life, particularly the animals, from cows, pigs, and sheep, to dogs (always dogs).

Although a farm girl, Dorothy's parents promoted her to go to school, which included studies in Quebec, Canada, where she focused on nursing. She was an only child. Interestingly, she has one daughter (also an only child), who has one child, a son (the sole grandson). Dorothy's first husband passed at a young age in World War II. Come the 1950s, she and her mom made their way to Florida.

Better weather was a motivating factor to go to Florida, but after six months and a lot of humidity, California beckoned. Mom and daughter Dorothy then took another wonderful road trip together, across the country to Los Angeles.

"I love road trips!" Dorothy assures me. Clearly, she is courageous and spirited.

Once in Southern California, she met her second husband, who was married for nearly 50 years.

And, once here, she tended to older people, passing the torch to her daughter, who became a first-grade teacher. It is clear they both want to help and care for others. Dorothy will work many years at Good Samaritan

Hospital in Los Angeles. She often lent her nursing skills to the disadvantaged.

As the interview progresses, I realize that Dorothy's good health and longevity may well be a testament to being a good person and doing good deeds.

I finally ask her, "Is there a secret to living long and well?"

She thinks and replies: "I would tell you good fresh air, good food, and good family, along with many friends. Oh, and a bit of luck helps!" Then, after a brief pause, she adds: "Live a healthy life, and don't change your way of living!"

Dorothy moved to Hawthorne in 2008. She has had an abundance of friends up and down and across the street. In fact, Dorothy and a group of friends walked every day at 3:30 in the afternoon. The woman next door was a baker, so many celebrations took place at her home.

But there is an arguable downside to being here a long time -- Dorothy has now outlived most of her friends. Acknowledging that she shares with me:

"I had an uncle back in the day who had the Spanish flu, but I never got it. Now we have this terrible Covid pandemic. But I have never gotten it. Not once. Those germs want no part of me. I'm too tough for them!"

Dorothy loves flowers. Bottom line, she has to have a garden. She also chimes in: "And a dog as well!"

So, Dorothy has to have a garden and a dog. In turn, I would say we are so fortunate to have Dorothy with us. A reminder of what is good. A reminder of what is meaningful. A reminder of time and place and of grace.

Happy birthday young lady. To one hundred more years at least! •

Birthday wishes for Dorothy

room of a hospital in Seattle, Washington.

She moved to El Segundo around the year 2000 to attend college and, as she says, “never left. Who does not love El Segundo?” She took classes at El Camino College and then transferred to Cal State University at Dominguez Hills.

On the Endowment Effect website, it is noted that Bryant’s “super-power” is “momma bear.” She stressed how she is all about nurturing the skills of community folks and, sometimes, just “listening” to their stories and thoughts. She said that her non-profit is not necessarily only about building on-ice skills, but involves “mentoring and creating a safe space” for those involved.

During her work foray into the reality TV field, Bryant was a key cog in the “Keeping Up with the Kardashians” offering. Said Bryant: “If I was going to put the Kardashians in the world, dumbing-down the world, then I [needed] to do something to re-set my moral compass.” And that “something” includes philanthropic endeavors.

She said that she teamed up with the city of Hawthorne to work on a non-profit venture about ten years ago and, in September of 2021, officially launched the Empowerment Effect.

Bryant, in a move that made logistical sense, reached out to the folks in the two-time Stanley Cup-winning Los Angeles Kings organization, who decided to help fund her nascent non-profit and embrace would-be hockey players from all levels of society.

Her parents are still living in the Inland Empire, but for her Bryant found El Segundo to be the perfect fit for her and husband Robert. It was and is a place, she said, “where I just needed to be.” She rented a room in town when she embarked upon her collegiate career. “I just needed to get out of Moreno Valley,” Bryant shared. “I did not know where I wanted to be,” she said, “but I knew it wasn’t there.”

She went “into TV production as a career, doing 10 years of unscripted reality,” traveling the world for her profession, always returning to El Segundo, which “felt like home.”

She said she takes comfort in feeling secure when her 13-year-old son, Lucas, an eighth grader at the Middle School, leaves for school in the morning and returns later in the day when his post-classroom extracurriculars have concluded.

“[Lucas] has a great group of friends,” she said while regaling the tight-knit group of parents that have bonded together during their kids’ K-12 schooling years.

Bryant said that she was introduced to the game of hockey by a friend who had a five-year-old interested in taking up the sport. Bryant was dubious at first, but soon picked up some ice skates back in the day when what is now the Toyota Performance Center located on Nash Street sported signage promoting Health South.

At that time, the western side of the facility housed an outside roller hockey rink and several indoor sheets of ice. Bryant progressed in the sport, ending up playing for the women’s team at West Los Angeles College.

Pepper Kemptes has known Rivas-Bryant for more than 20 years. Emailed Kemptes: “We met playing ice hockey together. We have played on multiple teams and multiple rinks throughout our friendship.

“Estela is one of the toughest and most caring women I have ever met. She is a consummate giver. You will not find another person that works harder to give back to her family, her friends, and her community, no matter what else is going on in her life,” continues Kemptes. “I was visiting her at the hospital after she had had emergency spinal surgery. Just hours after her surgery, still laid up in bed, she was on the phone with a medical equipment provider coordinating a delivery with them to make sure a very sick friend was going to get what she needed. She became a personal advocate for that friend to ensure she received the best medical care possible during her terminal illness when another doctor wrote the woman off.

“Anyone familiar with Wayne Gretzky knows he was not just The Great One because of his talent and the goals he scored, but how he elevated those around him. Estela makes everyone around her a better person. She elevates us all to do more, to give more, to be more. That is the kind of person she is. That is the person I want on my side and who I will follow into any battle that comes her way.”

Rivas-Bryant and her team continue to empower young women through their teamwork, talent, and sportsmanship on the ice. Who knows if they will have a part in developing the next female superstar on the ice rink, a younger version of the iconic Hilary Knight, star forward of the United States national women’s hockey team? They just might. •

Ed Su

Studio Printing's services specialize in paper, primarily printing on banners, poster boards, envelopes, and business cards.

Even so, Su understands the variety of competition surrounding his business, including at-home color printers and other online services, some of which may offer lower prices. "Nowadays, printing technology is mostly digital," Su explained, "They used to be just a mechanical machine. Now everything is done directly on computers."

That being said, Su believes that Studio Printing is just as valuable as some of the more modern printing services. "We don't have to compete with them because we don't get a lot of small orders," he said. One reason for this is because of the size of their orders. For example, Su said that one of the smallest quantities for printing business cards is 250 cards, even fulfilling orders of 500 and more.

But aside from the sizes of the orders, Su explained that another defining feature of the business is the customers. "The only reason we survived this long is that we haven't lost many customers due to different situations," he observed, "We focus on quality. We are not necessarily the cheapest place in town, but we always do the work right."

Ironically, Su mentioned that he hardly sees any customers in person. "We print and ship, and we seldom see some of the customers," he observed. Because of this, he makes it a habit to ask customers how they found the business, given its apparent anonymity, despite being in the community for such a long time.

Ed Su outside of Studio Printing.

"After 30 years in El Segundo, some people still don't know where we are," he explained. However, because of the store's proximity to the industrial district and the various businesses nearby, they receive attention from local businesses. "Some of the new businesses in town, when they look for a printing company near their offices, they find Studio Printing," he said. Su also explained that the businesses usually always leave positive Yelp reviews, which also contributes to more orders.

But, as he explained, the most rewarding part of the job is attempting to tackle various projects he encounters. "It forces me not to be complacent, and I always have to use my brain to figure out how to solve a problem," he said.

And in addition to being a small business owner in town, Su is also the current president of the El Segundo Rotary club. His approach to owning and operating Studio Printing is similar to his approach as Rotary president: giving back to the community. "The main goal is to help people," he said, "The community could be local, right here in town, or it could be in Los Angeles, or even internationally."

As part of giving back to the community, Su oversees a variety of community events, including joint projects with churches and other groups in town. The goal is to raise money to give back to the community.

Thus, Su sees his printing business and Rotary work as similar in many ways. In regard to Studio Printing, he is happy to be able to help so many local community organizations. "I'm proud of the business being in El Segundo and having survived this many years," he observed, "We've been able to help a lot of people and a lot of community groups along the way."

Whether it is printing posters for a new business on Main Street or volunteering at a fundraiser at a local church, Su is happy to be able to contribute to and build up the community around him. • to which they accept.

 A short 8-hour car trip away, Bjørn, Louise, and Agnes arrive at their host's house deep in the woods (the kind of place that would be very regrettable to get stuck in, on the unlikely chance that any danger should arise). They are instantly greeted and welcomed by fun-loving Patrick and Karin, and the promise of a fun weekend lies ahead.

and affecting movie. Creating characters with such developed stories and real human desires (Bjørn's dishonesty with his boring life and Louise's niceties to others) is a smart way of leading them into the danger ahead. The way we act in everyday life—what we don't say or wish to admit about ourselves, and what we hold back from others for the sake of being polite—can have the direst consequences. Speak No Evil very much intends to leave you speechless, and believe me; it will.

This review was first published on January 26, 2022 during the Sundance Film Festival. •

Ryan Rojas

However, small awkward cues arise in Patrick and Karin's hospitality that cause unexpected moments of unease to Bjørn and Louise. Little things that were so touching over that summer—Patrick's compliments over Louise's vegetarianism—are forgotten, with wild boar being that night's main course. But Bjørn and Louise, not wishing to rock the boat, brush it off, and continue with the weekend. It's not life or death, anyway.

It should be said at this point that Speak No Evil makes no attempt to hide its horror leanings. Tafdrup uses a sweeping symphonic score of strings that cause your body to tense up during their car trip to the house, and the loud, rustling of leaves once they're there only stir further dread. But it's the small moments of observed human behavior that Tafdrup is so skilled at capturing, making the audience cringe with discomfort, building a slowly rising tension.

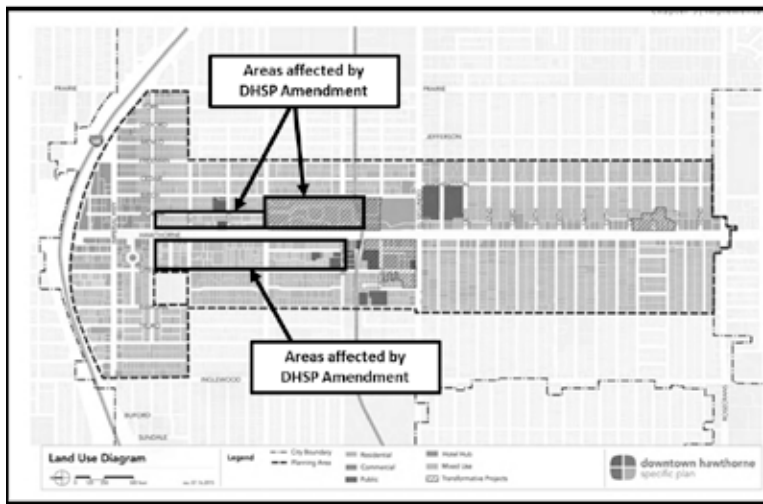

Approaching the story from this angle is what makes Speak No Evil such a unique

PUBLIC NOTICES

HAWTHORNE CITY COUNCIL NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
 PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the CITY COUNCIL of the City of Hawthorne will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, September 27, 2022 at 6:00 p.m. in the City Council Chambers, City Hall, 4455 West 126th Street, Hawthorne, California, to consider the following matter:
PROJECT DESCRIPTION: Amendment to the Downtown Hawthorne Specific Plan

(DHSP) — The proposal consists of amending the existing Downtown Hawthorne Specific Plan (DHSP) to allow the establishment of carwashes within the area designated as the Mixed Use district (see current Land Use Diagram and Mixed Use description below). The applicant wishes to amend the DHSP to permit a carwash at the former Hometown Buffet property (12139 Hawthorne Blvd., Hawthorne, California). The DHSP is the guiding document for the area where the subject parcel is located and the designation is implemented by the CM (Mixed Commercial) zoning district. Although the applicant is specifically proposing the carwash at one particular property, an amendment to the DHSP would cover the areas designated as a Mixed Use district.

 HMC Section 17.29.020 - Permitted uses and the CM (Mixed Commercial) zoning designation does not currently permit carwashes to be established within this area. Therefore, without an amendment, carwashes are not permitted.

A new major Mixed Use district is identified in this Specific Plan along the northern portion of Hawthorne Boulevard. This district will provide a flexible space to locate and grow businesses. Intentionally, this designation allows for a range of different uses to be co-located in order to provide energy and so they can support one another. This "incubator" space will be a key area the City will use to focus new employment growth in the coming years. This designation is implemented by the following zoning districts: Mixed Commercial (CM) and Automobile Parking (P).
 PURSUANT TO the provisions of the California

Environmental Quality Act, the above-mentioned application(s) are covered under the existing Environmental Impact Report (EIR) prepared for the Downtown Hawthorne Specific Plan (DHSP). FURTHER NOTICE is hereby given that any interested person may appear at the meeting and submit oral or written comments regarding the proposed amendment or submit written comments relevant thereto via mail to the Planning Department, 4455 West 126th Street, Hawthorne, California 90250 or by sending written comments via email to Maria Majcherek at mmajcherek@cityofhawthorne.org or by calling 310-349-2972 prior to the date of this hearing.

Purrrfect Companions

Kitten Rescue rescues cats and kittens from a variety of situations. Most live in our volunteers' homes and those volunteers foster them until we can find permanent homes for them. Young or old, tabby or Maine Coon, we care for orphaned and abandoned kittens that need to be bottle-fed around the clock, moms with litters, cats that need socialization, and sick or injured animals. When they are finally ready to be adopted with his sister or a kitten friend around his same age.

Kelly is the third sibling of this darling trio. She is a sweet well rounded, dilute calico kitten. Kelly will play with you all day, then curl up to sleep and recharge in her favorite spot. She has the cutest little face you have ever seen. The deeper the sleep the more her little tongue will hang out. She is bonded with they love their foster buddies and would be happy to share their home with a resident kitty.

Jewel is a love bug with a big personality. She loves to snuggle and have her little belly rubbed. This little girl likes a big adventure and having fun with her little pink mouse with beans inside; Jewel gets so excited when she hears it shake! After a fun day, she likes a good snooze in a cozy place. Jewel is a black and for their forever home, we will help match you with the purr-fect one. When you adopt, you save a life... and in turn enrich your own.

Sabrina was a precious bottle-fed baby. She is a spunky adorable calico with the most beautiful and unique coloring we have seen. This super friendly, outgoing girl is not scared of the dogs in her foster home. When Sabrina is done playing, she happily will curl up in your lap and fall asleep. Sabrina needs to be adopted with a kitten her age or her brother Bosley or sister Kelly.

Bosley, Sabrina's brother, is the sweetest cuddliest orange boy. He loves to sleep and he loves to purr and did we say "he's the sweetest orange boy" around? He is a special little man who will follow you around and become your best friend for the rest of his life. Bosley is very bonded to his sister Kelly. He needs her brother Bosley. In her new home, Kelly needs to have a kitten friend who is about her same age.

Tippy Tail was rescued from the city shelter with his siblings as bottle babies. Tippy Tail is a hefty kitty, pushing 12 pounds, but has no idea he has got that much weight to throw around. A clumsy goofball, he tends to fling himself on top of his brother or romp around the house with one of the resident cats. Tippy Tail loves to chirp and chatter with you when he wants attention. He is not a huge fan of being hugged, though he will sleep on the bed with you and cuddle on your legs with his fellow cat friends. Tippy Tail needs to be adopted with his brother Roy. They are the purr-fect pair and the ultimate dynamic duo! They have been two peas in a pod since they were four-week-old kittens. Both boys are good with other cats, tan tabby with beautiful golden eyes. Little Jewel has four brothers and has never been alone. She would love to be adopted with one of her brothers, Simon or Scout, but would also do well in a family with another young pet to keep her company

These cats and kittens are available for adoption through Kitten Rescue, one of the largest cat rescue groups in Southern California. All our kitties are spayed/neutered, microchipped, tested for FeLV and FIV, dewormed and current on their vaccinations.
